STREAM TRAIN SPEEDING EAST IN RECORD TIME

Keeps to Schedule from Pacific.

BULLETIN.

Sidney, Neb., Oct. 24 (Wednesday).—(Special.)—The Union Pacific's streamline train M-10001 can be credited for a new world's record for top speed. It was clocked at 120 miles an hour for two miles near here this morning as it plunged eastward through the night on the stretch between Cheyenne, Wyo., and Omaha, Neb., that is expected to establish a new record for distance of more than 500 miles. The train is due in Omaha at 6:10 o'clock this morning.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The streamlined train M-10001 arrived here at 11:46 p. m. Chicago time on its record breaking coast to coast run demonstrating the probabilities of a new transportation era of light, fast and economical railroad passenger carriers.

The 1,303 miles from Los Angeles to Cheyenne over deserts sunbaked by day and moon drenched by night and winding over passes between snowcapped mountains was covered in 23 hours and 46 minutes. This was 11 hours and 12 minutes less than express train service.

The train was one minute late on its run from Los Angeles to New York. It left at 11:02, seven minutes late. The flyer made up 13 minutes lost before reaching Wamsutter, Wyo., at 7:08 p. m. [M. S. T.].

The canary yellow and golden brown M-10001 has a schedule that calls for an average of 82.3 miles per hour for the 508 miles to Omaha, Neb. If the schedule is followed it will be the fastest recorded time ever made by anything on rails for a distance of more than 500 miles.

Expect a World Record.

Soon after leaving here Engineer Ollie Mitchell has orders to "give the gun" to the 900 horsepower Diesel propelling this shaft of aluminum alloy. A new world's record train speed will probably be attained. Not far from this old pony express station, two weeks ago the M-10001 did the 116 miles an hour over these tracks.

Insofar as is reported in standard references this is the fastest speed ever attained by a fully equipped train. This streamliner touched 116 miles an hour westbound over these same tracks last week en route to Los Angeles.

In 1931 an experimental coach shaped like a dirigible and pulled by an airplane propeller claimed a peak of 143.75 miles an hour in a test between Berlin and Hamburg, Germany.

Record of the Zephyr.

Last May the Burlington's streamlined stainless steel Zephyr was clocked at 112.5 miles an hour for a short distance on a Denver to Chicago nonstop run.

In 1893, in an age of daring railroading, the New York Central's Empire State special sprinted 112.5 miles an hour for one mile near Crittenden, N. Y. Eight years later the Philadelphia and Reading did 115.2 miles an hour for the 4.8 miles from Egg Harbor to Brigantine Junction.

Two years ago European railroad history was written by the Cheltenham Flyer of the Great Western of England in attaining 92 miles an hour during a 77.5 mile drive between Swinden and London for an average of 81.6 miles an hour.

Record Made in 1905.

The arrival at Chicago in 39 hours and 10 minutes from Los Angeles, averaging 60 miles an hour, will lop five hours and 44 minutes from the train time record which has stood since 1905.

In crossing the sun-baked, sage-grown Escalante desert of southern Nevada and Utah this afternoon, M-10001 was cruising at a little better than 90 miles an hour and on one check with a stop watch was doing a flat 100 miles an hour. The 12 cylinder oil burner was not laboring in its task of revolving a generator furnishing power for electric motors mounted near the wheels that drive the train.

It Scares a Horse.

"If it scares one of those critters, this is indeed a new era in railroading," said W. A. Harriman, 44 year old chairman of the Union Pacific board.

Seriously, it isn't the modernistic appearance of this craft nor the speed records it is about to establish that

TUGWELL URGES WORLD ADOPT THE NEW DEAL

International Trade Control, His Plan.

ROME, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A plea for a world system of planned economy, under which each nation would look after its own, yet contribute to the welfare of all humanity, was made here today by Rexford G. Tugwell, United States under secretary of agriculture. He spoke before the International Institute of Agriculture.

"We (in the United States) have been overresentful perhaps of what we have called agrarian nationalism in Europe," Tugwell said.

"We could see no reason for the small field cultivation of wheat when our large scale operations had reduced costs so greatly. And we have thought that this was the kind of thing on which rational men might agree, given the opportunity of negotiation.

Urges World Trade Control.

"In other words, let the United States sell wheat to Europe and let the European wheat raisers turn to some other article which they could produce at a lower cost than the United States."

He suggested then that the institute concern itself with world-wide control of trade. Since it was known that his remarks had been transmitted to Washington it was believed he had authority to speak for the United States in making that suggestion.

Tugwell, known as "No. 1 Brain Truster" at home, was unsparing in criticism of what his and other nations had done in the past. He conceded frankly that the United States has "not recovered and we shall not until we have learned to reform."

"The time will come when governments, now so pre-occupied at home, can raise their eyes and look abroad again," he said, "and what they have learned at home they are not likely to forget in the shaping of their international relations.

Seeks "Middle Road."

"They will not go back to laissez faire any more than they will continue simply protectionist.

"Somewhere between the international anarchy, which we have called free trade, and the protectionist nationalism, which logically would stop any trade at all, we shall find a way to build a more substantial structure of equal exchange."

Enunciating the elementary economic theory that no nation can continue to sell indefinitly without buying too, he conceded that all trade restrictions cannot be abolished because they "amount to national quarantines against unwanted standards of life, ways of social behavior, methods of social management."

"The truth is," he continued, "that in international trade we cannot expect to exploit each other's markets in order to favor our producers; and we cannot expect to get cheap goods through the wastage of others' resources or injuries to foreign labor.

Urges Compromise Solution.

"We shall have to assess the resources we need or can furnish, decide what our efforts can best be devoted to and what we can best let others do, and try to establish these conditions by negotiation and compromise in which fact and fancy are mixed as little as may be humanly possible."

That will take time and work, he conceded, but a "process of pragmatic and willful selection is certain to follow."

Tugwell drew a comparison between the proposed world economy and the plan now being tried in the United States.

"The enemy we face [at home] is not yet demoralized," he said, "but it is in retreat, and we have good ground for hope. That enemy is the system of uncoördinated enterprise we inherited and which had become deeply entrenched in privilege."

3 SHIPS SPEED TO AID TANKER HIT BY TYPHOON

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 24.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Messages picked up by the Globe wireless here today said two steamers, the President Jackson and the Olympia, and the naval transport Gold Star, were going to the rescue of the oil tanker Larry Doheny, which flashed an S O S for help.

When the request for assistance was made the Gold Star was 270 miles from the distressed vessel, closer than the other ships. The naval craft is en route from Guam to Manila. The Olympia picked up the Doheny's call when 600 miles away.

Piccards Land; Soar 10 Miles inStratosphere

Cadiz, O., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Another scientific excursion into the stratosphere ended late today when the huge balloon of Prof. Jean and Mrs. Jeanette Piccard landed in a treetop on a farm four miles west of here. It had been aloft eight hours during which it is believed to have ascended to a height of 10 miles.

Neither of the balloonists, who are parents of two children, was injured in the abrupt landing. The 600,000 cubic foot bag was only slightly damaged and the Piccards' scientific instruments were not harmed.

The comely Mrs. Piccard, who is the only licensed woman balloon pilot in the United States, asserted that the flight was a success. She said they came down because they had accomplished the purpose of their ascension, which was a study of the mysterious cosmic rays, and not to make an altitude record.

Balloon Losing Buoyancy.

She added, however, that the balloon was beginning to lose its buoyancy because of the decreasing penetration power of the sun's rays.

"We did not know where we were," she said. "We had no radio communication of any kind after 8 a. m. Our last radio contact was with the Detroit airport by short wave.

"We were not cold at any time. The sun was shining brightly all of the time. We saw nothing of the earth until we landed."

The isolated farm of John Fulton on which they landed is in an inaccessible hilly district about 50 miles west of the Appalachian mountains. At one time during the flight it had been feared that the bag might drift out over the Atlantic, and attempts were made by short wave radio to warn the balloonists of this hazard.

Hundreds Rush to Landing.

Hundreds of farmers and hill folks, aroused by the curiosity of viewing the descent of a gas filled bag as large as a big office building, rushed to the scene of the landing. For about an hour all attempts to reach the region by telephone proved futile, for all had left their homes.

The rather unceremonious landing of the balloon corresponded somewhat to the beginning of the flight early this morning at Detroit. Before a crowd of nearly 45,000 persons, including Henry Ford, who assembled at the Ford airport, it appeared for a moment that the flight might end immediately after it started.

The big bag moved sluggishly upward, pulling the silvery gondola after it but only a few feet above the ground. The spectators' cheers were stilled as the heavy, dangling gondola swept toward a line of automobiles and a fringe of trees.

Then Mrs. Piccard proved her skill by quickly releasing 50 pounds of lead ballast to enable the bag to clear the branches. It did clear the cars and trees by a narrow margin and then began its majestic rise.

The official balloon record of 61,237 feet was set last fall by Lieutenant Commander Thomas G. W. Settle on a flight from Akron, O.

CIRCULATION OF GOLD COINS IS URGED BY FRENCH FINANCE BODY

PARIS, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The circulation of gold coins was urged today by the chamber of deputies finance commission to show the world France is on the gold standard and to help restore confidence.

The Bank of France has 82 billion francs in gold [about $5,412,000,000], but the public has not handled the metal since before the war, when gold was commonly hoarded.

Premier Doumergue recently was reported considering paying interest on the nation's outstanding bonds in gold coins. Minister of Finance Germain-Martin, strong defender of the gold standard, believes if the government guarantees to pay interest in gold there will be little hoarding once the coins get into circulation.

WEATHER TRENDS PROMISE LATEST FROST ON RECORD

Jack Frost is going to set a record for late arrival in Chicago if weather conditions in the next eleven days follow the trends which have prevailed since the first of October, it was declared yesterday by the government forecaster, W. P. Day. The record was established in 1881, when frost was delayed until Nov. 2. It has been equaled once in 1900.

With the exception of a few suburbs which unofficially reported light frost as early as August, Chicago has yet to see the delicate traceries of frost this season. The latest a killing frost has made its debut was on Nov. 24, 1931. On the average, the first light frost usually appears by Oct. 19.

Yesterday's maximum temperature of 65 degrees was 18 degrees higher than the maximum a year ago.

Flee in Snowstorm Clad in Nightgowns; Recaptured

Livingston, Mont., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Two youths who fled in a snowstorm clad only in hospital nightgowns were recaptured early today in the basement of a church at Bozeman, little the worse for wear. The two, Lee Bishop, 19, and Charles Perry, 18, both of Oakland, Cal., were injured when their car overturned while racing at 80 miles an hour early Sunday after the last of an alleged series of robberies. They fled the hospital and were traced by footprints.

Mob Menaces Kidnaper Who Rapes Girl, 9

A crowd of several hundred gathered last night around the Grand Crossing police station at 834 East 75th street and attempted to take from the police an alleged moron who had been arrested after the kidnaping of a 9 year old girl.

Reserves were called out and the prisoner, Edward Clauson, 29 years old, 7420 Champlain avenue, was pushed through the threatening mob, thrust into a car and taken to the detective bureau. There were cries of "Let's get him!" and "Let us have him!" as the police car was driven away.

The girl, who had been seized by Clauson near her home, is Eva Cavoto, 1000 East 76th street. An examination by a police surgeon disclosed that she had been raped. Clauson confessed the attack.

Warned Against Taking Ride.

Eva, with several companions, was playing in the street about 8:30 p. m. when Clauson drove up in a battered yellow car. He asked which of the little girls would like to get in with him and ride down to Cottage Grove avenue, and promised a dime's worth of candy to the one who accepted.

Against the advice of one of her friends, Eva got in the car and Clauson drove away with her. Carmen Cavoto, father of the youngster, was told what had happened and he hurried to the Grand Crossing station to report the kidnaping.

Radio messages were sent out by the police and mortorized squads were called into the search. They were given a description of the man and of the girl. It was about 9:30 p. m. when the yellow car was found at 76th street and Drexel avenue by Sergt. James Daley and his detective bureau squad. In it were Clauson and Eva. The child was crying and Clauson was attempting to quiet her.

Neighbors Incensed at Affair.

Sergt. Daley returned the girl to her home and went to the Grand Crossing station with the prisoner. The news of Eva's return spread rapidly among the neighbors of the Cavotos, most of whom are Italians. They had already been searching the vicinity and their anger at the kidnaper grew after they had heard the child's story. The police decided to take Clauson downtown.

Clauson, who is a refrigerator mechanic, more than 6 feet tall, at first denied that he had harmed the girl. He is married, he said, but has a sweetheart and he wished to get Eva to deliver a note to his inamorata. Later he changed the story and admitted he had taken the child to a lonely spot at 83d street and Prairie avenue, where he raped her.

Eva's father and mother are the parents of ten children.

Chicago Train Wrecked; 25 Are Injured

Earl Park, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—At least twenty-five persons were injured late tonight when a Chicago-Cincinnati passenger train on the Big Four route was wrecked a mile south of Earl Park, which is nine miles south of Kentland, Ind., and forty miles southeast of Kankakee, Ill.

The accident was caused apparently either by a defective switch or by spreading rails. The engine and four cars, loaded with mail, express, and baggage, remained on the tracks. Four day coaches and two Pullman cars, all containing passengers, were overturned.

Five of those hurt were treated by Dr. V. L. Turley at his office in Fowler, Ind. They are James Black and his wife of Fowler, Mrs. Dora Street of Itmann, W. Va., and her son James, 8 years old, and her daughter Anna, 12 years old.

These in Earl Park Hospital.

Among those taken to the Bundy Keefe hospital in Earl Park were George Kisler, news merchant on the train; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Miller of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Dodd of Indianapolis, Mrs. Rose Serman of Chillicothe, O.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Maring of Omaha, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Redd of Dover, Ky.; Max Cremer and Mrs. Ralph Murphy.

Kisler and Mrs. Miller, it was said, had injuries that might prove fatal. Like most of the others hurt, they were taken to Fowler or brought to the hospital here by motorists passing the scene of the wreck on Route 41. One of the day coaches fell across this highway.

Officials of the road, when they learned of the wreck, sent out a hospital train from Indianapolis. All the injured were in hospitals or under care of physicians before it arrived.

The train, known as the night express, left Chicago at 9:35 p. m. and reached Earl Park about 11:40 p. m.

Passenger Describes Wreck.

A graphic description of the cars leaving the track was given by J. R. Hooper, 3828 Franklin avenue, passenger who was on one of the Pullmans but escaped without injury.

"I was just getting to sleep," he said, "when I felt the car leave the track and start bumping along on the ties. Then the car went over. There was no particular crash, but it was a sickening feeling. I was on the under side and soil came in through the broken window as the sill cut through the sod.

"There was no great panic. Those of us who were unhurt crawled out the doors and then helped the crew get out those who could not move themselves.

Motorists Aid in Rescues.

"Motorists who were on the highway also aided. Those of the crew who were not hurt worked hard. In a short time the injured were all outside and laid along the tracks. Most of them were carried away to medical help before ambulances could get here. The motorists volunteered for this service."

Jerry Doyle of Earl Park was on the highway and saw the coach fall across it. He parked his car and was among the first to crawl into the wrecked cars and aid in carrying out those who were hurt.

DESENZANO, Italy, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Lieut. Francesco Agello, the "crazy boy" of Italian aviation, today won the world's record for speed in flight. Revised but still unofficial figures made public tonight boosted the 32 year old flyer's record to 440.29 miles an hour.

Computations had been completed with a device operating with photoelectric cells.

The figure was based on speed checkings during four passages over the control points. The speed checked for these four times was given at 705, 710, 711, and 709 kilometers an hour, an average of 709 kilometers or approximately 440.29 miles an hour.

It was his own record that he broke by about 16 miles an hour.

3,500 Horse Power Motor.

Agello, who won his nickname, "Crazy Boy," in death defying aerial performances of the last few years, set the old mark of 682.078 kilometers (423.822 miles) an hour April 10, 1933.

The ship was the same one Agello used in setting his last record, but it had undergone secret alterations to prepare it for another speed attempt. A new Fiat AS 6-V type motor, developing 3,500 horse power, drove it in today's flight.

The tiny Agello—he stands only five feet four inches high and weighs only 140 pounds—has emerged as Italy's foremost speed flyer in recent years. He has been in several crashes, from each of which he emerged unscathed. He boasts that he has never been ill.

DUTCH SECOND IN AIR RACE

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 24.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Two American airplanes finished second and third today in the England to Melbourne speed race, both nearly a day behind C. W. A. Scott and Tom Campbell Black, Englishmen, who won the race at 3:34 p. m. yesterday, in a British De Havilland Comet with Gipsy VI. motors.

K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll, Dutch pilots, guided their Douglas DC-2 transport plane, with three passengers, a radio operator, mechanic, and cargo of mail across the chalk finish line at Flemington race course at 10:52 a. m. today [6:52 p. m. Tuesday, Chicago time].

Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, flying a Boeing 247-D transport plane, crossed the line at 1:36 p. m. The Dutchmen lost 8 hours 35 minutes after a forced landing at Albury last night, and Turner was downed for nearly two hours by motor trouble at Bourke today.

Race for Two Prizes.

Although Parmentier and Moll, the Dutchmen, were definitly second in the speed race, they prejudiced their three chances of winning a place in the handicap by dropping their three passengers at Albury in order to facilitate the takeoff in the mud. Two hundred pounds of weight for each passenger must be deducted from the total weight and this will be forfeited in computations, regardless of their having been carried almost within shouting distance of the finish line.

Turner and Pangborn were credited with making an exceptionally good showing in view of the fact they were flying over the route for the first time, while the winners of first and second places were both familiar with the territory.

Second prize in the speed race is $6,000 and third $2,000. First and second prizes in the handicap race are $8,000 and $4,000.

These prizes are under strong competition between Lieut. Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller, who were en route from Batavia, Java, to Port Darwin today, and Squadron Leader Malcolm MacGregor and Henry Walker of New Zealand, who were en route to Batavia.

Jones and Waller are flying a De Havilland plane, a duplicate of Scott's except for color. MacGregor and Walker are flying a Miles Hawk machine with Gipsy III. motor.

Others Far in Rear.

J. D. Hewett and C. E. Kay of New Zealand were at Allahabad, India.

Flying Officer C. G. Davies and Flight Commander C. N. Hill of England were unreported but believed heading for Karachi.

Scott and Black reached Melbourne in 70 hours, 59 minutes, 50 seconds, for an average, including ground time, of 160 miles per hour. Their air speed averaged 176.5 miles per hour. Parmentier and Moll reached the goal in 90 hours 17½ minutes, but traveled about 1,000 miles farther than the winners, making a number of intermediate stops as in a regular commercial flight. Turner and Pangborn finished in 93 hours, 2 minutes.

Parmentier and Moll left Charleville, the last compulsory control point, at 8 p. m. last night in heavy weather. Three-fourths of the way—within 200 miles of Melbourne—they lost direction in a rainstorm and wandered for more than an hour, then sent an SOS to Melbourne.

Radio direction signals failed to set them right, but the city engineer of Albury flashed the town lights in Morse code and spelled out Albury. Farmers, called by radio, turned their automobile lights on Albury race course and Parmentier landed safely, but imbedded in mud.

Citizens Free Plane.

This morning the whole town turned out to aid in freeing the wheels and building an improvised runway of planks. The Dutchmen took off at 9:55 a. m. and reached Melbourne in 57 minutes.

Turner and Pangborn left Charleville at 7:30 a. m. today and about 250 miles out were forced by motor trouble to land at Bourke. They rose again at 10:20 a. m. and nursed the machine carefully to Melbourne.

Turner's ship at the start of the race was forced to sea: up a 90 gallon gasoline tank, rip out sound proofing in his transport ship, and even substitute composition windows for glass in order to save 18 pounds.

KINGSFORD-SMITH DELAYS TAKEOFF ON HAWAIIAN HOP

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith delayed indefinitly his takeoff from Naselai Beach, Fiji Islands, on a projected hop to Honolulu, said a message relayed here tonight from Suva to the navy radio.

The navy said the message, relayed from Suva via Tutilia, Samoa, stated: "Smith will not take off today [Oct. 24] and not definite when will takeoff."

The reason for the delay on the second leg of the famed aviator's Australia-California flight was not stated, although a previous message relayed here by the S. S. Monterey told of his difficulty in an unsuccessful attempt to get the ship into the air.

Take Off Fails.

SUVA, Fiji, Oct. 24.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, famous Australian flier, and Capt. P. G. Taylor, navigator, hopped today from Albert park for Naselai Beach, 20 miles, preparatory to taking off for Honolulu in continuance of their flight of 7,365 miles from Brisbane, Australia, to Oakland, Cal.

Kingsford-Smith was unsuccessful in his first attempt to take off from the beach. The heavily loaded plane ran into shallow water, then was taken back to the beach.

WINNER OF AIR RACE GETS EXTRA PRIZE—A BRIDE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The victory of C. W. A. Scott's British De Haviland Comet plane in the England to Australia air race aroused tremendous enthusiasm in London today. Special editions of newspapers splashed the story on their front pages, with pictures sent by radio from Australia.

A secret romance behind the race was revealed when it was learned that before taking off T. Campbell Black, Scott's co-pilot, asked Miss Florence Desmond, British actress, to marry him. Miss Desmond promised to reply after the race.

"I dare say you can guess the answer," she stated tonight when questioned.

Congratulatory telegrams were sent to the pilots today by King George of England, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, the minister of air, the marquess of Londonderry, and Secretary of Dominions J. H. Thomas. The prince of Wales, in a speech at Birmingham, declared:

EXPERTS AGREE RACE PROVES U. S. PLANES' WORTH

Standard Machines Finish in Good Condition.

The American built Douglas and Boeing airplanes entered in the London to Melbourne air race—standard transport machines in every respect—proved themselves in a fashion never hitherto approached by any aircraft in daily use over air lines where passengers, mail and express are carried for the purpose of making a profit for the operators. This was agreed here last evening by aviation experts.

Flying against special race planes over what constitutes probably the most grueling course in the world, the Douglas DC-2, carrying a crew of four and three passengers, making frequent stops, and following a course at least 1,000 miles longer than that of the winning British ship, pressed on the heels of the victors throughout the contest. The plane was only 20 hours behind the winners when it landed second.

The big Douglas, an all metal twin motored low wing monoplane, with a spacious, quiet cabin accommodating 14 passengers, was entered by the Royal Dutch Airlines, known as KLM. The line flies passengers and mail between Batavia in the Dutch East Indies and Amsterdam, and two of the company's crack pilots, K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll, were at the controls throughout the race.

An "Accelerated Flight."

The flyers were under orders from their superiors to make "merely an accelerated flight" over the course, and they were instructed never to run their motors "full out" as did the Englishmen, C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black. The Dutch pilots were also instructed to see that their passengers received every attention given during normal operations of the line's planes. Apparently these orders were carried out to the letter, for dispatches from Melbourne stated that "both crew and passengers appeared untired, their clothing pressed and linen fresh in contrast to the staggering fatigue and grease covered clothing of the winners."

The KLM officials said that when the remainder of a fleet of eight of these Douglas planes have been delivered the ships will fly on a schedule similar to the time made by the ship used in the competition.

In California executives of the Douglas Manufacturing company said that the ship sent to Holland was identical with the air liners which have been in use on Transcontinental Western Air, Eastern Airlines, and American Airlines in this country for nearly nine months.

Boeing's Fine Exhibition.

Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, flying the Boeing 247-D ten passenger transport plane, a type which has been in use on United Airlines for three years, gave almost as fine an exhibition as did the Douglas, arriving in third place only three hours behind the Dutch pilots.

The real worth of the two American ships was shown, experts pointed out here, by the fact that they arrived in a good condition at the finish line while the little British ship limped in with one of its two engines completely burned out and the other barely holding up.

The British De Havilland plane fought engine trouble over the last 2,000 miles of its course, while only one of the American ships was slightly delayed by motor trouble.

Airmen here pointed out that the British ship had a pay load for the race of only 400 pounds—merely the weight of the two pilots and a change of clothing. The Douglas had a potential pay load of 5,800 pounds throughout the race, and the Boeing had a potential pay load of approximately 4,000 pounds.

Acknowledging these facts, Lieut. Col. J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon of London, a pioneer British aviator and an air expert, said when the final results of the race became known last evening: "It shows that the Americans are miles ahead of us when they can produce machines like those."

THINKS EXPERIENCED WORKMEN WRECKED CRACK PENNA. TRAIN

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A theory that the American Limited, crack Pensylvanian railroad passenger train, was wrecked by experienced railroaders was advanced today.

The train, bound from St. Louis to New York, ploughed off the tracks about 15 miles southwest of Pittsburgh Sunday night. The engineer, Robert Black, 49, of Carnegie, was fatally hurt and George A. Stock, 35, fireman, was injured.

W. P. Geiser, track supervisor, told police and interstate commerce commission officials today that the "fish plates" and the spikes along the right of way were loosened by an experienced track worker.

TEAR DROP TRAIN CROSSES DIVIDE IN RECORD TIME

might rate this trip as an epic. It's that this run is testing a schedule for regular service in streamliners to shuttle between Chicago and Los Angeles, starting next February, in 19 hours and 35 minutes less than the time required by the best steam trains, which do not charge extra fare, and 15 hours and 50 minutes less than the extra fare trains.

Salt Lake in Afternoon.

Salt Lake City, the Mormon and the Utah capitals, on a body of water too salty for sea fish, was reached at 1:40 p. m. [2:40 Chicago time]. The 780 miles from Los Angeles, including a slow drag to 3,820 feet elevation through the Cajon pass of the Sierra Madre mountains, was covered in 14 hours and 40 minutes, as compared with the 21 hours on the time table of the Los Angeles Limited.

This luxury Pullman train left Los Angeles last night two hours ahead of the streamliner. Two hours and six minutes later it was on a side track to let the modern carrier pass.

To the transportation experts aboard the aluminum speedster the giant locomotive had more cause to kick up its heels than did the cow pony—it might well be frightened as was the old gray mare when it sighted its first horseless buggy.

The 120 ton steam locomotive had a load of 13 cars of eighty tons each, making a train weight of approximately 1,160 tons to haul about 100 passengers, or about 160 tons of dead weight per customer. The streamliner, carrying 52 passengers, weighs 200 tons, less than four tons of train per passenger. The aluminum train of three sleepers, a buffet coach, mail and baggage car and power car, all articulated with exterior contours blended as a single unit, has a passenger capacity of 124.

Steam Train Wastes Power.

The exterior architecture of the steam train, conforming more to precedent rather than to aerodynamics, when under way was wasting its power buffeting air resistance.

"A conventional steam train of the same capacity as this stream liner would require 3,000 horse power where we use 900 horse power," said E. E. Adams, vice president of Pullman, Inc. "Eighty per cent of this saving at 90 miles an hour on level tracks can be credited to the aerodynamic design. On upgrades a larger portion of the saving is due to light weight."

W. M. Jeffers, executive vice president of the U. P., estimated that the stream liner will operate at between 40 and 50 per cent of the cost for similar service from a steam-propelled train of conventional design. The Diesel engine is making about 1.6 miles per gallon of fuel oil costing approximately 4 cents a gallon.

"The basic benefit from this evolution in railroading," said Carl Gray, president of the U. P., "is the increased rail passenger business to be attracted by the short time schedules."

The ride over the rough Pacific watershed of America during the last 21 and a fraction hours would indicate that further refinements are needed to induce the public to patronize these stream liners rather than private automobiles or airplanes. The lightweight train bounced and bumped like an old time flivver.

JAPAN DEMANDS NAVAL EQUALITY WITH U. S., BRITAIN

Insists Ratio System Must Be Abolished.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Japan today told Great Britain it wants navies henceforth limited on the basis of their total tonnage and demands that the word "ratio" be left out of future treaties.

Those, in substance, were the proposals submitted by Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira and Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto at today's Anglo-Japanese meeting formally opening conversations here among Japan, Great Britain, and the United States in preparation for the 1935 naval conference.

The Japanese further insisted that Britain and America recognize "the principle" of equality in "defensive" armaments — Nippon's plan would classify ships of war as offensive and defensive weapons—and thus get rid of the "ratio" plan, which Japan maintains keeps it on an inferior footing.

British Are Puzzled.

Tokio's scheme, especially that part concerned with the equality principle, tonight apparently had the British scratching their heads in perplexity. Observers were puzzled as to just how the proposal could be inserted into an agreement. A cabinet meeting that followed the Anglo-Japanese conversation gave the proposal long consideration.

It was indicated, however, that no decision will be reached until Japan's plans are revealed to the American delegates, Norman H. Davis and Admiral William H. Standley, at their talk tomorrow.

The British delegates, headed by Prime Minister MacDonald, probably will confer with the Americans Thursday. This will give the two powers, standing together for keeping the substance of the present treaties which Japan proposes to renounce, an opportunity to agree on their reply.

Anglo-Japanese conferences, it was announced, would be resumed Friday.

Japanese Points Listed.

Tokio's main points, growing out of its dissatisfaction with the "ratio" principle, which allows Japan only three-fifths the naval weapons Britain or the United States may have, were these:

1. The powers should agree that Japan may have equality, "in principle," in defensive armaments.

2. The ratio system should be abolished, and "defensive" ships limited on a total tonnage basis, instead of by categories.

3. Each nation would drastically reduce "offensive" armaments, thus cutting down the chances of any war of aggression, while building whatever "defensive" ships within the tonnage limit agreed it feels it needs for security.

There was little optimism in naval circles over the outlook for an agreement.

15 WARSHIPS AT CANAL

CRISTOBAL, Panama, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Fifteen ships of the United States fleet entered Limon bay tonight without lights, steaming at full speed toward the Gatun locks, in a surprise attempt to make the fastest transit of the Panama canal on record.

The two first in line approached the locks, where treble shifts were preparing to work at top speed to get the vessels through.

It was generally believed an attempt was being made to transit the whole fleet in less that the 48 hour record established last April.

The fleet is due to arrive from Guantanama on Oct. 26.

PICCARDS' ROUTE

Dr. and Mrs. Jean Piccard began their ten mile jaunt into the stratosphere at Detroit, taking off at 5:58 a. m. Chicago time. Drifting eastward, they were sighted above Sandusky, O., and later over Cleveland and Akron. They landed 200 miles from their start when the huge bag settled into a tree near Cadiz, O., in an isolated hilly region 50 miles west of the Appalachian mountains.

NEW TRAIN IS DUE TO ENTER CITY AT 2:20 P. M. TODAY

Chicago will get its first view of the streamlined train, M-10001, at 2:20 o'clock this afternoon when it enters the city limits over the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks from Oak Park at Kinzie street. The train will skirt the yards at Kedzie avenue at 2:30 o'clock, turning south on a track used by several railroads for interchanging cars.

This spur, known to railroad men as the St. Charles Air or Rockwell street line, which the North Western uses for sending cars to the stockyards, turns east at 16th street. Traveling on this track and over the C., B. & Q. and Pennsylvania tracks near Canal street and the south branch of the Chicago river, the M-10001 will arrive at the 16th street tower of the New York Central railroad lines at 2:50 o'clock.

On a "Y," an arrangement of tracks used for switching purposes, the engineer will then back his train into the La Salle street station over track No. 13 at 3 o'clock. Half an hour later it will start for New York.

B. & O. MAKES BID FOR WORLD MARK WITH 2 ENGINES

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 23.—(AP)—That the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's contender for the world's rail speed championship—a streamlined train with two 800 horsepower Diesel engines—is nearing completion in the General Motors plant at Detroit, was revealed by railroad men today.

The train is being built in addition to the new B. and O. streamlined locomotives under construction in the Mount Clare shops.

The B. and O. is counting on its Detroit built train—comprising a locomotive and five or six cars—to outrun both the Burlington's Zephyr with a 660 horse power engine, and the Union Pacific train that generates 900. The new B. and O. contender, with its twin engines, is expected to develop a total of 1,600.

NEW AIR LINERS WILL FLY ROUTES OVER 15 STATES

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—A new fleet of Douglas C-2 air liners, similar to the one flown in the London-Melbourne race by the Netherlands flyers, will be placed in service in fifteen states and along the Atlantic seaboard, it was announced today.

The Douglas Aircraft corporation at Santa Monica, Cal., received the order for the planes from North American Aviation. It was $765,000 in amount.

The planes will be used on Eastern Air Lines and other divisions of the corporation.

COUNCIL BLAMED FOR LONG USE OF OLD STREET CARS

Lines Await City's Action on New Ordinance.

Uncertainty about the ultimate action of the city council on a new traction ordinance has delayed purchase of modernized equipment by the Chicago Surface lines, Guy A. Richardson, head of the lines, said yesterday.

The statement was made to answer criticism of the company for allowing $19,000,000 to lie idle in Chicago banks. The fund was accumulated to replace worn out and absolete cars.

New Ordinance Ordered.

Mr. Richardson pointed out that investment of the fund would be impractical until the city council determined the city's traction policy. On March 22, the council shelved as obsolete the proposed traction unification ordinance calling for merger of the surface and elevated lines. At the same time the council ordered that a new ordinance be drawn to meet present day transportation problems in Chicago.

"We planned to begin work of replacing cars with more modern equipment this fall if the merger became a fact," Mr. Richardson said. "Research started more than a year ago to determine the best type of car for Chicago."

Prepared to Rush Re-equipment.

The lines have tested three cars under actual service conditions, Mr. Richardson related, and could complete specifications for the purchase of modern cars within a month. Immediate action on the traction ordinance would make it possible to place orders for new cars within eight months, he estimated.

"Settlement of the traction question and renewal of equipment would mean more than added service to Chicagoans," Mr. Richardson said. "It would be felt throughout an entire industry in the purchase of equipment and the employment of men."

8 Actors Vanish, but It's Larceny and Not Kidnaping

For a few minutes last night Policemen Pat Nolan and John McLaughin thought they were investigating a kidnaping. It turned out to be a larceny. They arrived in response to an alarm at 55th street and Hyde Park boulevard. There sat H. L. Beck, 422 Davis street, Evanston, who reported that eight of his best actors had been taken while he left his automobile unattended for half an hour. While the policemen looked at each other in surprise, Beck explained he was a puppeteer, and that he was on his way to give a performance with his animated dolls.

WAVE OF CRIME IN WASHINGTON STIRS PROTESTS

Churches Charge Gaming and Thievery Flourish.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—America's front parlor was sadly besplattered today as crime rose to usurp the headlines ordinarily reserved for the New Deal.

First, a young father of three, delivering morning newspapers on the outskirts of Washington, was shot to death by machine gun gangsters who mistook him for a gambler.

Even while this crime was being committed, a letter was in the mails, addressed to the leading law enforcement officials of Washington, in which protests were made against a siege of immorality and crime which has taken hold on the capital city.

Churches Make Protest.

The letter, signed on behalf of the committee on civic affairs, Washington Federation of Churches, by Wilbur La Roe Jr., chairman, listed as "disgraceful" conditions which had permitted the city to be steeped in gambling, the "numbers racket," prostitution, drunkenness, housebreaking. A "red light" district flourishes in this historic spot, it was charged.

Sharp issue was taken with the manner in which the national fathers—capital laws and officials are controled by congress and the President—have failed to preserve order in what has at times been labeled proudly "the model residential city of America."

"It is our conviction," the committee declared, "that the situation is extremely serious and that it is little less than disgraceful in a city which is the capital of the nation. As we view the situation it is substantially as follows:

"Gambling—So-called 'big shot' gamblers are and have been for some time operating in this city on a large scale. Two murders recently in the Houston hotel directly resulted from their operations.

Describes Numbers Racket.

"Numbers racket—This is an insidious form of gambling which takes money chiefly from the poorer classes. It is rampant throughout this city. The police have made very little headway, against it, not so much because of lack of activity on their part as because of defects in the present laws. Definite recommendations for strengthening the law were made by the district attorney to the district committee of the house months ago, but that committee took no action and the racket continues to flourish.

"Immoral solicitation—A disgraceful situation exists on our streets at night, especially in the proximity of some of the leading hotels. The police can make little headway in combating this evil because the maximum fine of $25, with no provision for jail sentence, is not a sufficient deterrent. Efforts to increase the fine have not met with success, and the evil continues. In one section of Washington there is the virtual equivalent of a 'red light' district.

Drunkenness Doubles.

"Drunkenness—Arrests for alcoholic intoxication are almost double what they were two years ago. The number of arrests per day for drunkenness is now approximately 70. Drunk driving is on the increase in spite of a rather intensive safety campaign.

Inadequate sentences and a parole law which permits the release of felons after they have served only one-fifth of their maximum sentences were blamed by the committee for a situation "that is endangering even the safety of citizens."

TWINE USED IN ORIOLE'S NEST.

DECATUR, Ind.—An oriole's nest woven entirely of twine was found by Willis Fonner here. The nest is about six inches long and three inches in diameter. At every turn the cord is cleverly tied to make an extremely strong nest.

CHAPPLE CUTS SPEECH AT SLUR ON ROOSEVELT

Waukesha, Wis., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—John B. Chapple, Republican candidate for United States senator, refused to deliver his scheduled speech at a Republican rally here tonight after John Gay, nominee for congress, who preceded him on the program, had referred to the President as "a man who can't stand on his own feet without crutches."

The reference to the President's infirmity met with cries of resentment from many in the audience.

The meeting, held in the pavilion, had been designed as a Chapple rally, and the Ashland aspirant to the United States senate seat was to have made the principal address.

When Chapple was introduced, he arose and said.

"Men and women of Waukesha, the President of the United States has been insulted by a previous speaker on this program in a serious personal way, and while I may differ with Democratic policies, I will not stand for that kind of an attack on the President's physical infirmity, and I therefore refuse to speak on this program and will return to Waukesha at some later time."

MR. SHEA TAKES A LOT BUT LOSES TEMPER AT LAST

Frank Shea is a man of courage.

Last March 21, his brother-in-law, John Mulvihill, was slain by robbers in his restaurant at 701 West Van Buren street. Shea took over the management at the request of his sister, Mulvihill's widow. On Sunday night burglars broke in and stole $200 and some valuable equipment.

Last night two youths entered the restaurant, drew guns, and announced to Shea it was "a stickup." Shea quickly locked the front door, seized his own revolver, ducked down behind a counter, and began shooting. The would-be robbers broke through the glass door and the plate glass window, leaped into a waiting automobile, and sped away as Shea continued to fire at them. He told police he believed he wounded one of the bandits.

Vote 4 True Bills

Irving Weitzman, south side baker, and three other men were reported named in true bills voted by the grand jury yesterday as a result of the investigation into the alleged "hired" murder last March 3 of Eli Daiches, vice president of the Thomas M. Bowers Advertising agency. The actual indictments, which will recommend that the men be held without bail, are expected to be returned before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan today. Mrs. Lillian O'Shea was the last witness to testify before the grand jury. She is reported to have established corpus delicti and to have given other information.

Walter Murphy, 30 years old, 307 East 35th street, and Jack London, a fugitive, are named as co-defendants with Weitzman in a murder true bill. Weitzman, Murphy, London, and Arthur Emblem, 44 years old, of Gary, are charged in a second true bill with conspiracy to murder Daiches. Emblem and Murphy, according to the state's attorney's office, have confessed.

Attorneys Harold Levy and Emmet Byrne said they would move for bail for Weitzman as soon as the indictment is returned in court.

BREAK IN ROOM OF ACTRESS; FIND IT FULL OF GAS

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Velma Gresham, Memphis, Tenn., actress who incorporated herself for $20,000 as Vilma, Inc., when she came here two years ago seeking a film career, was given emergency treatment by police today after they broke into her gas filled apartment.

Friends of the actress said she accidentally had turned on the gas.

Investigating officers reported she had swallowed two sleeping tablets, that the windows of the apartment were closed and that it was full of gas when they broke in. Miss Gresham incorporated herself to repay her backers from her film earnings.

NEW STEEL ROOM AT CLUB TELLS INDUSTRY'S EPIC

Murals Picture Power; Dedication Held.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

With that text the Union League club dedicated yesterday afternoon a new dining and conference room which honors the executives and the craftsmen of the American steel industry.

The result is a compact and vivid panorama of that industry from sources to product. Gone is the conventional clutter of tapestries and mosaics which one can see in any ornate hotel. In their place are fabrics and furniture which either are steel or give the semblance of steel, and decorations which impart the mighty epic of the industry.

Return to Guild Spirit.

"This room," said Benjamin Franklin Affleck, who represented the American Iron and Steel institute at the dedication, "represents a return to the spirit of the old craft guilds that delighted to honor with an art peculiarly expressive of themselves the resources that made them great, the materials in which they wrought, and the articles which they produced.

"Here you see the so-called 'tired business man' taking an interest in 'art for art's sake' and expressing himself in the terms of an art that gives a loftier significance to his daily affairs.

"In the spacious quarters of this club the movement will be carried further. Already the heads of great transportation companies among our membership are demanding a dining and conference room in the club which shall similarly express their ideals and the development of their activities. We hope that the installation of other such rooms for conferences and festivities will help to break down stupid barriers between competitors and to restore the fine old guild spirit of pride and understanding between workers in the same fields.

"Another contemplated room will commemorate the civic spirit which in difficult times made possible the glories of A Century of Progress."

Massive Door of Steel.

The new steel room is on the eighth floor of the club. Its door is a massive fabric of stainless steel which is the United States Steel corporation's gift from its exhibit at A Century of Progress. It weighs 500 pounds, is richly etched on the inner side, and so hard that the workman intrusted with the task of changing the position of its lock burned all his drills in trying to get through it.

Entering the unique chamber the visitor is enveloped in the soft glow produced by materials that seem to be, and in some part are, of burnished steel. The ceiling is covered with aluminum leaf. The wide dado is covered with the same leaf and is fastened to the wall by devices simple in themselves but giving the effect of steel rivets.

Curtains Resemble Steel.

Window curtains are a new rubberized cotton fabric finished in silver and they create an amazing illusion of swaying folds of steel. The furniture is in tubular bent steel, upholstered with leather of a hue called "flame red."

Between dado and ceiling the walls are covered with huge photographic murals which take the beholder from remote iron mines on through the lights and shadows of ore docks seen by night, through the smoke and flame of vast steel plants, across majestic bridges, and to the tops of skyscrapers that make new history in altitudes.

Serene though the room is, it seems to resound with power. It is the pictorial epic of an industry.

Dayton Keith, chairman of the Union League's house committee, and his 39 colleagues on that committee carried through the steel room project. Roy Johnson was the designer of the room and Messrs. Kaufman and Fabry produced the murals. Between them they have written large on the walls of the Union League the drama of an industry which, in Chicago alone, employs 75,000 men in normal times and pays them 150 million dollars a year in wages.

At the dedication the Illinois Steel company was represented by George G. Thorpe, its president; the American Steel and Wire company by Dennis Merriman; the American Bridge company by E. H. Heald; the United States Steel corporation by F. H. Johnson; the Joseph T. Ryerson & Sons company by E. L. Hartig; the Inland Steel company by F. R. Meyer Jr., and the Atlas Steel company by R. H. Norton.

CHARGE INSULLS PUSHED STOCK OF INSOLVENT TRUST

Defense Fights Evidence in Fraud Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The heart of the Insull mail fraud trial was reached yesterday in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court.

Government evidence, taken by Alfred E. Sweeney, expert accountant, from the books of the companies dominated by Samuel Insull and his associates, was presented in an effort to show that Corporation Securities company of Chicago was an inflated venture from the first and that stock in it was sold to the public when the defendants knew it was in a dying condition.

Two charts were presented late yesterday showing the foundation on which Corporation Securities was built. Sweeney previously had testified that the company owned no physical assets save $1,820 worth of furniture.

How Stock Was Kept Up.

He then presented charts showing how the value of common stock of Middle West Utilities and the Insull Utilities Investment company, which formed the basis of the assets of Corporation Securities, was driven up in the fall of 1929 to unprecedented heights, how it was maintained far above the book value during the worst of the depression and finally fell below zero.

The book value of Middle West Utilities was $98.81 a share just before its reorganization in 1929, it was shown. On Sept. 20, 1929, this stock went up to $505 a share. The government previously had shown the alleged methods of the Insull companies in manipulating this market. The book value of Insull Utilities was $7.54 on Jan. 11, 1929. This went up to $150 a share during the year. Three hundred and four thousand shares of this stock were taken into the portfolio of the Corporation Securities at a valuation of $30,000,000.

New Values Written in.

The Middle West Utilities stock, bought at $13,500,000, was written down in the assets at $24,000,000. These were about all the assets the company had, except the $30,000,000 that later came in from the public for stock.

The market thereafter determined the fate of this venture in finance. It was shown that it was upheld for two years at a fairly high level, by pouring in more money at the same time that the company salesmen were selling stocks to the public and representing the assets at $80,000,000.

Another chart, made up out of the books of these companies by the accountant witness, showed that on April 16, 1932, when the company failed, a holder of one share of common stock would have had to pay $18.75 to liquidate his holding.

Trend Steadily Downward.

This chart showed that on Sept. 15, 1931, the liabilities of the company exceeded the assets by $6,381,544. The drop into the red increased after that until the end.

The measures of value taken by the government witness were the basis of frequent court battles. Floyd E. Thompson, representing the Insulls, said that the charts presented a false picture, and that the government theory of value and depreciation had no foundation in sound economics.

One chart presented by the government showed total cost of the assets of the company at $169,024,435. Against this was a computed depreciation in assets of $154,684,665. The liabilities were $59,879,903. These two deductions wiped out the assets and left a deficit of $45,540,132.

U. S. Valuation Methods Assailed.

The question of how the witness arrived at his valuations was often in debate, and will be made part of the defense case later. The witness said he fixed the stock valuation at their "liquidation value," particularly in computing the value of Insull Utility Investment stock and Middle West Utilities stock held by Corporation Securities. According to Mr. Sweeney's figures the liquidating value was always below the market value.

"These figures are intended," he said, "to show the actual value of the stock while it was being represented as a sound investment."

The figures, he added later, were taken from the books of the Insull companies. Samuel Insull, Samuel Insull Jr., Martin J. Insull and Harold Stuart were members of two committees which controled both Corporation Securities and Insull Utilities. Meetings were held half an hour apart. They had liquidation values fixed in their weekly reports and it is these, the government states, which were used in showing the real value of the holdings, rather than the market value which it is contended was being held at an artificial level.

Various motions were made by the defense to have the charts excluded from the testimony, but these were overruled after the witness had explained the basis of his figures.

R. P. Baldwin, an accountant, testified for the government as to the membership in the finance committees of the two companies.

Mr. Salter read from the minute books of Middle West Utilities the record of the reorganization plan for that company in 1929, in which it was arranged to refinance the company and pay its dividends in stocks.

It was the necessity of making the new financial structure, the government contends, that led to the organization of Corporation Securities as a "dumping ground" for the stocks that must be acquired.

More "Victims" to Testify.

The next witnesses for the prosecution probably will be more "victims" of the Insull disaster, men and women who bought the stock at the representation of company salesmen.

Howard Ketting, Mr. Insull's secretary, said yesterday that the chief defendant was anxious to tell his story on the witness stand. He also said that Mr. Insull was planning to have his memoirs published about the first of the year in a magazine. The story begins with his childhood in England and ends on Oct. 2, last, when he answered "present" to the call of this trial.

PEERESS TO GET VANDERBILT SUIT TESTIMONY COPY

Counsel for Marchioness Obtains Authority.

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The Marchioness of Milford Haven today was authorized by Justice John F. Carew to obtain a copy of the testimony in the Vanderbilt-Whitney case, which he has heard behind closed doors in the Supreme court, since her name was mentioned in a manner which he pronounced "scandalous."

The authorization followed a call on the justice in his chambers by Theobald Mathew, English solicitor, sent here by the marquess of Milford Haven to protect the name of the marchioness.

Counsel Attend Call.

It was a formal call attended by counsel for both sides, Nathan Burkan for Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, and Herbert C. Smyth for Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, as well as their associates, together with a representative of Hornblower, Miller, Miller & Boston, retained as American representatives of the English peeress.

During the day Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney continued on the witness stand under cross-examination by counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt, whom Mrs. Whitney has cited as unfit to recover possession of her 10 year old child, Gloria. It was her second day on the stand, and Burkan said he would probably take a third and may be a fourth.

Silent on Former Model.

Burkan is expected to explore Mrs. Whitney's private life, as she has done to Mrs. Vanderbilt's. He is known to have summoned several witnesses familiar with the pre-war Bohemianism cultivated in Greenwich village and was made fashionable by Mrs. Whitney.

He would not comment, however, on a dispatch from Los Angeles reporting that Mrs. Lillian Lagier, former artists' model and Follies girl, had arranged with him to come to New York to testify about Mrs. Whitney's earlier life.

Dr. Oscar M. Schloss of 125 East 72d street appeared at the hearing today. He said he had been summoned at the suggestion of Justice Carew because he had attended the child Gloria prior to 1932, before she went to live with Mrs. Whitney.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was attended in court as usual by her two sisters, her brother and his wife, and the Prince and Princess Zu Hohenlohe. The hearing will continue tomorrow at 10 a. m.

COUPLE FILES SUIT AGAINST ED WYNN ASKING FOR $115,000

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Two suits for $115,000 have been brought against Ed Wynn, also known as Isidor Leopold, by Mrs. Ruth Greenberg and her husband, Samuel Greenberg, it was learned today. Mrs. Greenberg asks $100,000 under an alleged agreement by which she was companion and attendant for Mrs. Wynn, wife of the comedian, in 1929 and 1930. In another action her husband asks $15,000.

Mr. Wynn's answer denies liability to the plaintiff, asserting that if there was any agreement with them it was not binding because it was not in writing.

Mrs. Greenberg alleges that Mrs. Wynn was addicted to the use of artificial stimulants and required the care of an attendant. She asserts she agreed to become Mrs. Wynn's companion in January, 1929, for which, she says, Wynn agreed to compensate her liberally.

Greenberg asserts that the defendant agreed to reimburse him for expenditures made necessary by Mrs. Greenberg's employment.

MOTHERS BLOCK DES MOINES RUM STORE'S OPENING

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—A petition containing 1,500 names of East Des Moines mothers today blocked the opening of the proposed new state liquor store in East Des Moines.

The petition, to be presented to the Iowa liquor commission by Mrs. A. R. Sargent, a Methodist Episcopal church worker, is as follows:

"We insist that the womanhood of east Des Moines should not be compelled to face an open liquor store whenever they go to the heart of our business district. There is no reason why the demand for such commodities cannot be satisfied at the store already in operation in West Des Moines."

Harold Cooper, commission chairman, promised that the petition will be given "careful consideration."

My little girl WORRIED ME SO!

LOST INTEREST IN EVERYTHING

Just at the age when most girls begin to get excited about parties and good times, my little girl lost interest in everything. She wouldn't read, play, sew, or do any of the things that usually kept her busy.

Hour after hour she'd just sit and do nothing. Her disposition, always sunny before, became worse and worse. Her grades in school began to drop, and her teacher complained that she was sullen and unresponsive.

I knew something must be wrong, but I didn't know exactly what to do. So I just sort of let things go. Then I noticed that the other little girls were beginning to avoid her.

WASN'T INVITED TO PARTIES

I knew I'd have to do something if I didn't want her to become a permanent wallflower. So I called on an old friend of mine, a nurse. She told me something I suppose I should have known . . . that a child can actually be energy-starved no matter how much she eats, unless she gets enough energy food. My friend told me to try giving her plenty of good bread.

GOOD BREAD WORKED WONDERS

She suggested Wonder Bread, and I got two loaves on the way home. I've never served any other bread since. Wonder Bread is the kind that's Slo-baked. This means that every bit of every slice is tender and delicious. Slo-baking makes Wonder Bread easy to digest—a ready source of energy. It has done my little girl a world of good and I never have to coax her to eat it. That's the reason why I've been so enthusiastic in recommending Wonder Bread to all my friends.

NO MORE DULL MOMENTS FOR HER

Don't wait until your children begin to fail . . . give them slo-baked Wonder Bread today! All they want, as often as they want. It's delicious, tender, easy to digest . . . and it's rich in the natural energy children need. Remember the name Wonder. Look for the famous red, yellow and blue balloon wrapper. At your grocer's.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Episcopalians Attack the Drama and Books.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 23.—(AP)—With an appeal to youth to check the "evil and lustful ways" of a "wicked and adulterous generation," bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church today addressed a message of mixed despair and hope to the communicants of their faith.

The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, D. C., read the bishops' pastoral letter, which ended the fifty-first triennial convention.

In contrast to the throng of over 20,000 which gathered Oct. 10, for the opening service, there were but 1,200 lay delegates, presbyters and bishops in the small auditorium of the Convention hall at the final session.

Attacks Books and Dramas.

"A primary contributing cause of the long continued depression," that letter said, "is the decline of moral and ethical standards of the post war age.

"The drama and much of our modern literature is erotic and panders to the base in human nature. Plays and novels cleverly conceived and written, present in gross and shameless ways and in language that is suggestive and indecent, scenes and incidents that are immoral and grossly licentious.

"It is to be deplored that Christian people all too frequently are the patrons of such corrupting agencies and that children and young people in particular are made the victims of their devices.

"We have had the conceit that America with its vast estate and its incomparable ingenuity could survive misfortune and disaster; that her rich resources and mechanical skill could be her stay in the day of her testing.

Disillusioned and Distracted.

"We have appealed to the stabilizing and restraining influence of the law, we have poured out of our treasure in prodigal measure, we have invoked the coöperative influence of commerce and industry, we have appealed to the patience and loyalty of our people, but we still linger in the shadows of a disillusioned and distracted world."

The pastoral letter attacked also "the menace of Reno, the increasing looseness in marital relations and the scandals which are given logical sanction by certain of our courts."

"This unchecked and growing evil, largely indulged in by people of wealth and position, destroys the sanctity of marriage and gives to it the character of legalized prostitution. We refuse to keep silent in the face of a situation that strikes at the very foundation of the social order."

LEGION REJECTS PLAN TO FAVOR ROOSEVELT IDEA

Halts Proposal from Philippines.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The American Legion's powerful resolution's committee, reaffirming its nonpartisan political policy, tonight veered away from a proposal that would have put it on record as indorsing "the efforts" of President Roosevelt.

A resolution by the Philippine department to have the Legion "support the efforts of President Roosevelt" quickly went into the "dead" file in the resolutions committee as a subcommittee reported it was "not germaine to Legion policy."

The committee action is final except where majority and minority reports are decided upon.

Bonus Report Awaited.

The legislative committee which will consider the controversial bonus question waited for a report from its subcommittee which went back for further consideration of the bonus after first reporting it was unable to agree.

Chairman Ray Kelly of Detroit announced the legislative committee had indorsed proposed universal draft of men, money and materials in wartime.

The resolutions committee adopted a proposal to recommend that the general convention refer to its Americanism commission for "consideration and report" proposals by California and other Legion departments for old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

Other Proposals Rejected.

Another resolution held "not germaine to Legion policy" was a Massachusetts' resolution to have federal and state projects performed by hand labor and at local bases of pay, and Minnesota's indorsement of the St. Lawrence waterway project.

The election of Frank N. Belgrano Jr. of California as national commander of the Legion was said to be probable following withdrawal of Ray Murphy of Ida Grove, Ia.

The resolutions committee said it would present to the convention probably tomorrow a reaffirmation of its nonpartisan political policy.

THIN SLICES REDUCE BREAD CONSUMPTION, BAKERS ARE WARNED

When bakers blew up their loaves, made them longer and sliced them thin, they failed to realize that bread eaters eat by the slice and not by the loaf, and thereby caused a loss of business for the baking industry. So declared Gerard R. Williams of Scanton, Pa., in a speech to 1,000 bakers assembled last night in the Hotel Sherman for their national convention.

"The greater number of slices we give in a loaf," said Mr. Williams, "the fewer loaves we sell. But we go ahead foolishly making the slices thin. And we are not fooling anybody by blowing up the loaves like balloons."

Mr. Williams added that the baking industry had done nothing to offset advertising by makers of competitive foods and that it was "time to get on the bandwagon."

NEW DEAL LAW STARTS WAR OF RECEIVER FEES

Chicago Cases Carried to U. S. Court in Danville.

Charles M. Bates, clerk of the federal District court in Chicago, announced yesterday a discontinuance of bargain rates for the filing of petitions under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act, a piece of New Deal legislation which has aroused the opposition of some judges in state courts.

Under this act the state courts may be stripped of jurisdiction in certain receivership cases. This accounts for some of the opposition to the new law. A further complaint of state judges, attorneys, and receivers is that downstate residents are superseding them in the control of big properties in Chicago.

U. S. Courts in Competition.

Attention was directed to petitions filed under 77-B at Danville, Ill., and then it became known that the federal courts of Chicago and Danville were in competition.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley at Danville waived the payment of a $100 court fee required in filing petitions under 77-B, and as a consequence, attorneys said, there grew up what some of them called the "Danville racket." Judge Lindley accepted jurisdiction in the cases filed, appointing downstate citizens as trustees of Chicago buildings at salaries of $500 a month.

The District court in Chicago then cut its fees, waiving the $100 payment called for in the law, and 276 cases were filed here, as compared to 36 cases filed at Danville involving Chicago properties. From now on, however, the $100 filing fee will be restored here, Clerk Bates announced, and the attorneys in the 276 cases may be asked to produce it.

Expect a Flood of Cases.

A flood of petitions under 77B is expected, according to state judges, and a bitter fight is presaged between lawyers now receiving fees under state receiverships and lawyers hoping to earn fees under federal administration of the properties involved.

How this New Deal legislation will affect the creditors, mainly the thousands of bondholders, brought contrary predictions from more than a dozen interested lawyers interviewed on the subject.

The attorneys favoring the continuation of state receiverships referred to the lawyers filing the 77B petitions as chiselers. Lawyers representing petitioners under 77B say they are going to stop the tremendous receivership costs which are eating up the equities of investors. They expect a new deal in the federal courts.

Predicts Clogging of Courts.

Clerk Bates said 77B cases would soon clog up the federal courts as prohibition cases had done. Whether additional judges will be required cannot be determined at this time, he said.

An explanation of the purposes and possibilities of 77B given by an attorney, expert in his field, who sided neither with those who claimed the government was encroaching on the authority of the states nor with those who said the federal courts would dispossess a lot of leeches.

"The purpose of 77B is to permit the reorganization of corporations in financial distress," this authority explained. "It is a halfway step toward bankruptcy. The consent of two-thirds of the creditors is needed before a reorganization can be effected, but with the two-thirds willing the debts of a corporation can be scaled down so that a portion may be paid and the business kept as a going concern."

Differ on Purpose of Law.

Some contentions were advanced that 77B was never intended to affect real estate corporations, but was meant only to aid industrial concerns. Many of the cases filed, however, involve buildings that were said to be overbonded.

"Take as an example a building on which one million dollars of bonds were sold," said the authority. "Whether or not it was overbonded at the time is immaterial. The building is probably worth a half million now. At present rents the building could never earn enough to pay the interest on one million dollars, but it could on $500,000.

"Under 77B, with two-thirds of the creditors consenting, the federal court could make the building corporation's debt $500,000 instead of one million dollars, and the bondholders immediately would have something of fixed value, readily marketable. Likewise a concern that owed a million it could never pay could make a new start with a debt of $500,000, which it could pay."

Section 77B was put into the bankruptcy act by the last session of congress and it became effective in June. Congressman Tom D. McKeown [Dem., Okla.] was its father in the house of representatives. He was admitted to practice in the federal courts here on Aug. 15 by Judge Lindley, whom he had been investigating through a congressional committee hearing in Chicago a few months previously.

As chairman of the house judiciary committee, Congressman McKeown was to prepare a report on whether certain federal judges, including Judge Lindley, should be named in impeachment proceedings because of actions concerning the appointment of receivers and receivers' attorneys. He was defeated for renomination, however, and there will be no lame duck sessions of congress.

Congressman A. J. Sabath, Democrat of Chicago, a member of McKeown's committee, headed another congressional inquiry here last month with the avowed purpose of exposing "bondholders' protective committee rackets." Judge Harry Lewis of the Superior court said yesterday that Congressman Sabath's law partner, Attorney I. B. Perlman, called on him last week and asked his opinion about an appointment given Perlman by Federal Judge Lindley as attorney for a trustee appointed under 77B.

Judge Lewis said he advised Attorney Perlman not to accept because of his relationship to the congressman. The bondholders in this case objected to the appointment of Perlman, Judge Lewis said, and he added that Perlman had resigned the post.

Judge Lewis is one of the state judges who lost jurisdiction over several hotel receiverships to the federal courts. He said that petitions involving a number of his receivership cases had been filed at Danville.

Two Lawyers Give Reasons.

Attorney Archie Schimberg, who filed eight petitions at Danville involving Chicago properties, explained yesterday that he went there because he could get better results than in Chicago. Judge Lindley could give him better service than the Chicago federal judges who are too busy, he said.

Attorney Harry Biossat said he went to the Danville jurisdiction because he could save $100 a petition there. After the federal court in Chicago cut the rates $100 he filed his cases here, he said.

JURORS TO HEAR HAUPTMANN TELL OWN STORY

Defense Lawyer Talks of Plans for Trial.

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will be called as the chief witness in his own defense when he goes on trial for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

"When he tells the jury the same story he has related to me, they'll acquit him," James M. Fawcett, Hauptmann's attorney asserted today.

Fawcett was back at his New York office, preparing for the formal arraignment of his client tomorrow morning at the courthouse in Flemington, Hunterdon county, New Jersey. He told reporters he will "match expert against expert" as to authorship of the ransom notes.

Talks of Ransom Cash.

As to the ransom money which was found in Hauptmann's possession, Fawcett said, "his explanation of the manner in which he came into possession of it will be logical and reasonable, and it will convince any fair minded jury of his truthfulness and sincerity."

The New Jersey law is said to require that a trial must begin and end during a regular court term. The regular terms end on the second Tuesday of April, the second Tuesday of September, and the second Tuesday of December, which this year falls on Dec. 11. There is a strong possibility that the trial may be started in the term of court beginning after Dec. 11.

Call to Get Exhibits.

A delegation of New Jersey state troopers, including Capt. John J. Lamb and Lieut. Arthur Keaton, and Assistant Attorney General Harry Walsh of New Jersey called at the office of the Bronx prosecutor today to get exhibits for the trial in the former state.

These included a shotgun, the closet door from Hauptmann's home on which the gold certificate serial numbers were found, the door jamb with Dr. J. F. Condon's telephone number and address written on it, the oil can in which the ransom money was hidden, three suitcases, three cartons of clothing, one console cabinet radio and phonograph in which some money, not necessarily the ransom money, was believed to have been hidden, and a German-English dictionary belonging to Hauptmann.

WIFE OF ROBINSON PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO STOLL KIDNAPING

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—In a courtroom crowded mainly with women, Mrs. Frances Robinson, 23, today pleaded not guilty to the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, for which her husband, Thomas H. Robinson Jr., is widely sought.

Tentative plans were being made to try her in federal court here on Oct. 29. Her counsel made no effort to have her $50,000 bond reduced and she was returned to the Jefferson county jail after the hearing. The lawyer said Mrs. Robinson did not wish to be free because she fears death at the hands of her husband, who was twice an inmate of an insane asylum.

United States District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks informed the court he wanted to start the trial on Oct. 29 if he could bring the elder Robinson here for trial at the same time. Robinson Sr., who is free in Nashville on bond of $25,000, has indicated he will resist extradition.

IDENTIFY SUSPECT IN TWO YEAR OLD EXTORTION CASE

John Pawlowski, 28 years old, of Cicero, was identified yesterday as the man whom Aurora and state's attorney's police had been seeking for two years in connection with an attempt to kidnap and to extort money from Matthew Kersch, 634 South 4th avenue, Aurora, wealthy liquor dealer. Pawlowski was arrested on suspicion a week ago.

On Jan. 4, 1932, Kersch was seized near his home by three men who beat him severely with their guns. Neighbors, alarmed by his screams, frightened away the would-be kidnapers. It was the second abduction attempt against him in two months.

After leaving the hospital a month later Kersch received a telephone call that the gang wanted money or another attempt to kidnap him would be made. A letter was sent to him with instructions to place $7,500 in a package and mail it to a Cicero address. This was done, and state's attorney's police arrested Edward Przybyl, 5227 25th street, Cicero, when he accepted the package. Przybyl said Pawlowski gave him $100. He was held in jail for a year while police sought Pawlowski, then released. Police said he would be taken to Aurora to confront Pawlowski. Kersch, who is out of town, will also be asked to view the prisoner.

CICERO DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury yesterday decided that Joseph Havranek, 20 years old, 1626 South 61st court, Cicero, found shot to death in his home Monday, had committed suicide while despondent over a love affair.

BOETTCHER AIDS MRS. SANKEY'S KIDNAPING CASE

Didn't See Her While He Was Prisoner.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Charles Boettcher, II, kidnap victim of the Sankey gang in February, 1933, testified in federal court today in the trial of Mrs. Fern Mae Sankey on charges of conspiracy. He said he never had met or seen her from the time he was abducted Feb. 12 until he was released 17 days later on payment of $60,000 ransom.

Mrs. Sankey is being tried for the second time on the charge. The jury was unable to agree in the first trial at Pierre last May when she was codefendant with her sister, Mrs. Alvina Ruth Kohler. Mrs. Kohler is not being tried in the present case which started yesterday. The maximum penalty on conviction is life imprisonment.

Tells of His Kidnaping.

Called as the second witness for the government today, Boettcher described how he was taken captive in Denver the night of Feb. 12, 1933, by Verne Sankey, late husband of the defendant, and Gordon Alcorn, now under life sentence for the abduction, and transported to the Sankey ranch near Gann valley.

"Did you ever see or meet Mrs. Sankey between Feb. 12 [The date of the kidnaping] and March 4, 1933 [after Boettcher was released]?" asked Ben B. Laska, Denver, of Mrs. Sankey's counsel, on cross examination.

"No, I never did," Boettcher replied.

Police Chief Helps Her.

Testimony designed by the government to attack the defense's contention that Mrs. Sankey had no guilty knowledge of the kidnaping plans and was dominated by her husband was given by Albert T. Clark, Denver chief of police.

Chief Clark told of Mrs. Sankey's arrest in Denver on March 5, and of two conversations he had with her while she was held in jail. He said Mrs. Sankey denied knowing of the kidnaping prior to its execution.

Found with Wooden Guns; Fails to Explain; Seized

Police yesterday visited the home of Harvey Wirta, 18 years old, 3117-A Abbott court, on reports that he had been selling pistols. In his home they found four perfect wooden imitations of .38 caliber revolvers. Wirta was arrested when he failed to give a satisfactory explanation for the wooden pistols.

CONVICT WOMAN GROCER AND MAN OF RELIEF FRAUD

Mrs. Annice Ciralsky, 37 years old, the mother of two children, and Edward J. Nix, 41, of 3910 North Lincoln street, former clerk in the Oakwoods relief station, were found guilty of relief fraud yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Walter La Buy.

Mrs. Ciralsky operated a grocery at 4413 South State street. She and Nix are alleged to have taken $1,000 through the use of forged grocery orders. Hearing on a motion for a new trial was set for Oct. 30.

RICHETTI ADMITS BREAKING OHIO LAW ON GUNS

Wellesville, O., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Adam Richetti, confederate of the late Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd, was unexpectedly arraigned tonight on charges of carrying concealed weapons and shooting Police Chief J. H. Fultz with intent to kill.

Handcuffed and guarded, Richetti was brought into the court of Mayor W. H. Daugherty of Wellesville from his cell in the city jail here. He pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons and not guilty to the more serious charges of shooting with intent to kill.

Richetti waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to the Columbiana county grand jury under bond of $50,000. Mayor Daugherty said he would be taken to the county jail at Lisbon tomorrow or Thursday.

Richetti, in a swift move, was brought into court shortly after federal agents had left the city building where they had been conferring with Chief Fultz in an attempt to obtain custody of Richetti.

Asks Thief to Send Back Clothing of Dead Child

Mrs. N. W. Irwin, 5330 Hyde Park boulevard, made an appeal yesterday for the return of a paper bagful of baby's clothing taken from an automobile parked in front of her home Oct. 8. The clothes, she said, were those of her small son who had died shortly before the theft. "They are the only intimate things I have left," Mrs. Irwin said. "They have little value to any one else, but are sacred to me."

TELL OF FLOYD'S OFFER OF PEACE TO DODGE DEATH

East Liverpool, O., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd, whose bullet riddled body lay in a morgue here today, realized several weeks ago that he was doomed to death or capture. He tried to make a deal with federal men to promise him immunity from execution, if he surrendered.

This disclosure was made today in dispatches from Washington, D. C. There it was reported the Oklahoma outlaw's offers were rejected by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the division of investigation of the department of justice. The propositions, made discreetly by Floyd's friends, were said to have been repeated several times, indicating that the killer was in a state of desperation.

"He killed one of our men and he must take the consequences," Hoover was said to have replied to the offers of surrender. "Moreover, we don't deal with gangsters."

750 TENANTS ON RENT STRIKE IN N.Y. MODEL FLATS

Fear U. S. Will Sour on Slum Clearance.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—A note of sorrowful reproach was evident today in the attitude of operators of an 8 million dollars slum clearance project toward 750 tenants who are on a rent strike.

City and federal officials who sponsored the "model housing apartments" on the lower east side were reported to be in a state of panic. The strike is admittedly not good advertising for the administration's huge slum clearance program which involves the spending of hundreds of millions of dollars of easy money in big cities throughout the nation.

When "Knickerbocker village" was completed recently, with the help of an 8 million dollar loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, these same officials united in a mighty paean of praise. In behalf of the poor, they gave thanks to a beneficent government.

But the tenants now are unappreciative concerning the benefits they have received from being housed in the imposing structure. They announced they would pay no rent until they receive more benefits.

Might Sour Federal Hopes.

The conseusus among those interested in the project was that the tenants were displaying a brand of ingratitude that might well sour a federal agency's trust in human nature. The former inmates of the tenement houses in the area complain that the self-service elevators are inefficient. Frequently, they are forced to walk upstairs, they assert. Bathrooms are lacking in certain little luxuries that they were promised. Refrigerators are too small. The interior decorations offend the delicate sensibilities of many.

So 750 of them met in a massmeeting last night at which orators harangued them for submitting to these inconveniences. The decision, reached enthusiastically, was that they were being downtrodden and would pay no more rent until the improvements they demand have been installed.

Rentals, the tenants complained, were too high. The rentals average $12.50 a room. Communist workers at the meeting declared that the government, while seemingly benevolent, was in reality gouging the poor.

All this was very mortifying to the local housing officials, who are now negotiating for the loan of a few more millions for a similar slum clearance structure in Brooklyn.

Would Make Loan Dubious.

The fact that the RFC loans these millions and theoretically hopes to get its money back some day complicates the situation, it was pointed out. Continuance of a rent strike would make dubious the government's chances of recovering its loan and such a development might curtail the lighthearted doling out of millions for other such projects.

Most bitterly do the tenants complain that the management regards them as "relief cases." This attitude apparently arises out of the fact that the government was responsible for the financing of the project, they said. It is very humiliating to the erstwhile citizens of Cherry Hill, which once was attractively designated as New York's worst "lung block."

Fred F. French, president of the operating corporation, is in Europe. Corporation officials said they would strive to make peace with the strikers. But the harm has been done.

MRS. ROOSEVELT STARTS TOUR TO BACK MRS. O'DAY

May Meet Mrs. Hoover at Scout Parley.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt turned away from the White House tonight to do what no other President's wife has ever attempted—step out of the rôle of first lady into the rôle of stump speaker.

Only a decidedly "first lady-ish" engagement, an appearance at the Girl Scout's annual convention in Boston tomorrow, lay between Mrs. Roosevelt and her "plain Anna Eleanor Roosevelt" speaking tour of New York state in behalf of the congressional Democratic candidacy of her old friend and fellow worker, Mrs. Daniel O'Day.

Causes Biggest "Buzz."

Nothing Mrs. Roosevelt has done since she came to official Washington has caused such a buzz of comment as her plan to take back her old job as New York woman's finance chairman and make out-and-out political speeches.

Mrs. Roosevelt, before taking a train for Boston tonight, made clear she was leaving the White House completely behind her, and was going back to days and ways of yore. But a lot of Republican women are saying that such a course is obviously impossible.

"She can no more cease being first lady than she can cease breathing," one said, adding quickly, "but don't quote me by name please."

May Meet Mrs. Hoover.

To heighten the drama of the hop-off on her tour, Mrs. Roosevelt at the Girl Scout convention tomorrow, may meet Mrs. Herbert Hoover, enthusiastic Girl Scout leader, whose conservative career in the executive mansion was in marked contrast to the present first lady's informality.

Mrs. Roosevelt's campaign speaking dates are: Buffalo and Rochester, Thursday; Syracuse and Albany, Friday, and New York, Monday night. She will spend the intervening weekend at her home in Hyde Park.

DR. G. E. VINCENT URGES FREEDOM OF PRESS, SPEECH

Dr. George E. Vincent, noted educator and until 1919 head of the Rockefeller Foundation, yesterday, as the guest speaker before a luncheon gathering of the Rotary Club of Chicago in the red lacker room of the Palmer house, defined American democracy to mean "freedom of thought, speech, press, and public resentment."

Without mentioning the New Deal, he warned that political rights and economic opportunities must be preserved and extended on the basis of fundamental principles of freedom, tolerance, and flexibility.

"Democracy never sinks," he said, "but its feet are always in the water and we must keep struggling to get them out.

"We must have faith in such fundamental things as a sense of participation in the common life and activities of the community."

Carl F. Huth, dean of the University of Chicago and vice president of the Rotary club, presided as chairman.

Armour Truck and $2,500 Cargo Seized by Hijackers

Three hijackers yesterday halted an Armour & Co. truck at Adams street and Racine avenue, menaced the driver, Fred Banske, 1522 West 67th street, and stole the struck containing $2,500 worth of meat and cheese. It was the second hijacking of an Armour truck in recent weeks.

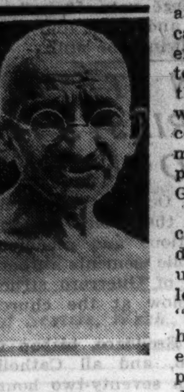
GANDHI QUITS AS HEAD OF INDIA'S FREEDOM PARTY

Resigns After Row Over Spinning Wheel's Role.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 23.—The All-India Nationalist congress today lost Mahatma Gandhi as its leader because of a difference of opinion as to the place of the spinning wheel in the country's movement for independence from Great Britain.



MAHATMA GANDHI.

The famed champion of India's millions of untouchables, looked upon as a "holy man" by his ardent followers, confirmed reports that he has decided to withdraw from the congress.

Hundreds of members of the congress, which meets in a three day convention this week, appealed to the mahatma to open the meetings, but the survivor of many self-imposed hunger fasts resolutely shook his head.

"Unfit to Lead."

"When the hands holding the reins are those of a sleeping person they are unfit to lead," he asserted dejectedly.

Gandhi's decision to relinquish the reins came after a long struggle with Socialist and other factions of the congress as to the future program for the Indian liberty drive. It was felt that Gandhi's platform, which includes abolition of untouchability and Hindu-Moslem reconciliation, is too Utopian.

At length the mahatma laid down final terms on which he would agree to continue as the Nationalist movement's leader. The congress, Gandhi said, must vote four amendments to its present constitution.

Gandhi's Amendments.

Those four amendments were:

1. "Truthful and non-violent" means of action must be substituted for "peaceful and legitimate means."

2. A monthly delivery of 8,000 feet of well twisted yarn—self-spun—must be required of every congress voter.

3. The congress voter must pass a six months' khadi [homespun] wearing test.

4. Number of delegates to be reduced to 1,000 from 6,000.

Of these amendments Gandhi regarded the spinning and wearing of khadi—"sacred cloth" to the mahatma—as by far the most important. He insisted on a spinning wheel in every home as a symbol of Indian independence.

"The spinning wheel and khadi have to be as natural to the educated few as to the semi-starved millions, who for not using their hands for the purpose for which nature has endowed man with them have become almost as beasts of burden," Gandhi argued.

The mahatma's foes, however, refused to compromise, and as the delegates to the congress gathered, the frail Gandhi, sensing unwillingness to translate his ideals into practice, surrendered.

MISS ROSENWALD MARRIES IN EAST AFTER ELOPING

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The youthful romance of Helen A. Rosenwald, 18 year old granddaughter of the late Chicago merchant and philanthropist, Julius Rosenwald, came to a climax in a whirlwind elopement with Harry H. Snellenburg Jr., 19, son of a Philadelphia department store merchant.

The young couple attended school in New England, Miss Rosenwald being a student at Simmons college, Boston, and Snellenburg attending Brown university at Providence, R. I. Last night they sprang a surprise on their parents by motoring to Harrison, N. Y., and persuading a justice of the peace to leave a movie long enough to perform the ceremony.

Miss Rosenwald is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lessing J. Rosenwald, of Abington, a suburb of Philadelphia. Her mother, who had just returned from Bermuda, drove to New York today when the couple telephoned her and brought them back to Abington, where they will spend several days before leaving on a wedding trip. Mr. Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears Roebuck & Co., was notified in Chicago and Mrs. Rosenwald said he informed them he approved heartily.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Snellenburg of Wyncote, and the grandson of Nathan Snellenburg, founder of the Snellenburg department store.

"Since we bought a 'Tested and Approved' Gas Range, John comes home every night for dinner instead of phoning me that he will be detained downtown 'on business'. I can't say that I blamed him much. Now with a 'Double Check' Gas Range my kitchen is always cool and attractive, and I know exactly how my dinner is going to turn out. Automatic oven heat control assures the proper heat for each baking and roasting. The oven is fully insulated to keep the heat in the oven and out of the kitchen. The smokeless broiler and self-lighting top burners are two other new features that make cooking so easy, so enjoyable with a 'Tested and Approved' Gas Range. In fact, John now looks forward to coming home for dinner as much as I look forward to preparing the marvelous roasts and steaks and pastries that he is so fond of."

COLDS
Go Thru 3 Stages

A cold ordinarily goes through 3 stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is the time to "nail" a cold.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment for colds. It is expressly a cold remedy and not a preparation good for half a dozen other things as well. It is direct and internal, which is what a cold, an internal infection, requires. It is also complete—it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is inviting trouble. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and refuse a substitute.

G. O. P. TO PUSH CAMPAIGN ON A WIDER FRONT

Success of Rally Monday Cheers Party.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Elated over the success of their Stadium meeting, which was attended by 25,000 on Monday night, Chicago Republican leaders began getting up additional steam yesterday for the relatively few days left for active campaigning.

They admitted that they were taken by surprise by Monday night's crowd, as some of their most experienced advisers warned them that, completely lacking in pay rollers, of which the Democrats have such an army, it would be impossible to fill the hall in which the last two national conventions were held.

They not only filled it, they pointed out, but hundreds and possibly thousands were turned away at the doors by premature notice that the seating capacity had been exhausted.

Decide to Expand Operations.

This turnout, coming on top of the results of the recent Literary Digest poll showing a gain of almost 20 per cent in public opinion in Illinois against the New Deal, led the county central committee to consider operations on a bigger scale than heretofore had been contemplated.

Until these developments showing a big switch in sentiment, the G. O. P. had been planning to do most of its campaigning in a "close up" way, meaning detailed work in the wards and precincts with the "local Tammany" as the principal and almost the only, target. Lack of funds in contrast to the Democratic war chest was partly responsible for this modest planning.

Now, hearing that the Democrats, with plenty to spend, are arranging for a series of sectional massmeetings and noon meetings in the loop theaters with Senators Dieterich and Lewis, and Gov. Horner as their stars, the Republican leaders are considering at least a few similar shows with some national speakers to increase the ground gained against the New Deal. No announcements were made but some are expected soon.

See Democratic Schism.

One additional reason the Republicans felt the time had arrived to strike their hardest was in a report that Secretary of the Interior Ickes' associates at Washington plan to smash the present Democratic lineup in Chicago and Illinois immediately after the election. The weapon contemplated for this, accocrding to the Republicans, is wholesale prosecution of income tax violations.

"The political situation that exists in Illinois today, according to trustworthy information," said Jacob D. Allen, secretary of the candidates' committee, "is one that probably never existed before. We have the Tammany crowd shouting 'support Roosevelt,' and at the same time word comes from Washington that this machine is to be wiped out immediately after the election.

"According to the 'underground' from the national capital, State's Attorney Courtney is to become the front of a new Democratic machine and is to take his orders from Walter J. Cummings, the Chicago banker who says he accepted the office of treasurer of the Democratic national committee because President Roosevelt asked him to.

Inquiries Afoot in Chicago.

"So it is not surprising that the morale of the Tammany machine is shattered. They know that for several weeks federal investigators from the department of the interior, the department of the treasury, and other departments, have been in Illinois, inquiring into their activities. It is difficult for even a Tammany boss to keep his mind on his work under such circumstances."

The Republican candidates and their managers paid no attention to a noon meeting at the Erlanger theater where Robert E. Crowe put on a lively one man show for an hour. They even refused to comment on it except to say that it was in no sense a Republican meeting since Crowe was read out of the organization several weeks ago.

It was because of this attempt to oust him that the former state's attorney sailed into many of his one time associates who were members of the county committee while he controled it.

He appeared to enjoy himself thoroughly as he threw darts at Chairman William H. Weber, Secretary Edward F. Moore, John T. Dempsey, and other committeemen, but the target for most of his shots was the publisher of an afternoon newspaper.

The little theater was filled before noon and the hundreds of city hall and county employés who poured out of the offices across the street at that hour jammed the sidewalks listening to the amplifiers that brought the speaker's words to them. Many of them were disappointed that Mr. Crowe did not add much new material to the jabs he had used previously in open letters to Weber and Moore.

Candidates on Nov. 6 Ballot

Democratic

Michael J. Flynn was born in Chicago. He was city treasurer from 1913 to 1915 and at present is civil service commissioner of the south parks and president of the Inland Rubber company. He is also Democratic committeeman of the 13th ward and a former committeeman of the old 31st ward. He was one of the organizers of the 'Let's Go, Chicago" movement, a booster program sponsored by the city administration.

Republican

Thomas I. Healy was born in Chicago and lives at 5556 Adams street with his wife and three children. He is president of the Farrar Drug company, 4100 Madison street, which he established in 1914. Mr. Healy is a former president of the Garfield Park Business Men's club, a member of the West Town Chamber of Commerce and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. He has never held political office.

EX-PROSECUTOR IS INDICTED IN POSTAL THEFT

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward released yesterday suppressed indictments against Attorney Ralph J. Sharp, a former assistant state's attorney under John A. Swanson, and Matt Finnerty of Green Bay, Wis. The charges are possession of stolen postal matter and conspiracy in the theft of bonds from a registered mail shipment. The indictments were voted on Tuesday by the federal grand jury, which set bond of $10,000 for each. Finnerty is held in the county jail, while Sharp is being sought by postal inspectors.

The theft was that of three $1,000 bonds from the mails at Neenah, Wis. These bonds were part of a shipment sent from Oshkosh, Wis., by the Securities company of Milwaukee to C. A. Sommers of Neenah. Sharp and Finnerty are charged with being in possession of the bonds between Aug. 14 and Oct. 15. It was learned they were trapped by a federal agent who represented himself to Sharp as a client.

FOUR ARRESTED AS U. S. AGENTS UNCOVER STILL

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Four men, two of them from Chicago and a third from Gary, Ind., were in the St. Joseph jail here tonight on federal charges of internal revenue law violation after federal agents uncovered a still on a farm two miles west of Knox.

Under arrest were Peter Mistro, 48, 11578 Wabash avenue, and John Crosaro, 23, 514 East 115th street, Chicago; Natale Rigolato, 46, who gave his address as 23 Fifth avenue, Gary, and Dennis Joseph, 38, tenant on the farm.

Agents raided the farm last night. A search of a large concrete barn developed the distillery plant. The layout included a still rated at 10,000 gallons daily capacity, 17,000 gallons of corn sugar mash in 40 large hogsheads and ten large vats, 50 gallons of sugar alcohol, and about four tons of coke used in firing the still.

MEXICAN STATE GIVES PRIESTS 72 HOURS TO GET OUT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Seeking to end what the federal government terms seditious and rebellious activities of Catholic elements authorities of the state of Guerrero struck another severe blow at the church today.

Leopoldo Diaz Escudero, bishop of Chilapa, Guerrero, and all Catholic priests were given seventy-two hours to leave the state under penalty of "energetic action" if they fail to comply with the orders.

The legislature of the state of Mexico, meeting in Toluca, first decreed the closing of all churches in that state and the banning of religious ceremonies, but later reconsidered.

In Chihuahua City police took possession of the seminar of the Church of the Sacred Family, ousting two priest instructors and twenty-two students, who were holding classes.

Can you Prove Your Oil is better than the Others?

We Can and Do!

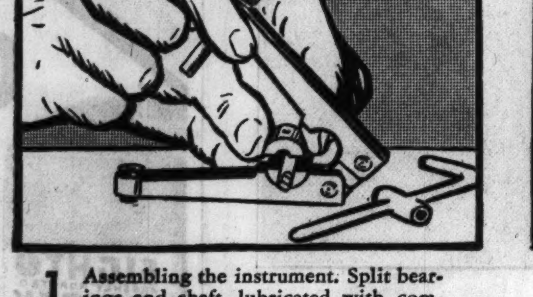
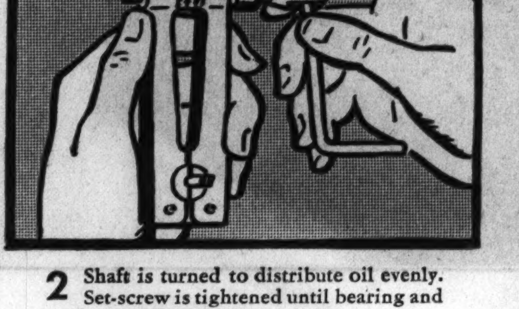
You, as a buyer of Motor Oil, should ask that question—and demand facts! Here is Continental's answer:

In the demonstration pictured below, the film strength and oiliness of every well known motor oil in America have been shown to be increased by the addition of a drop of Germ Essence.

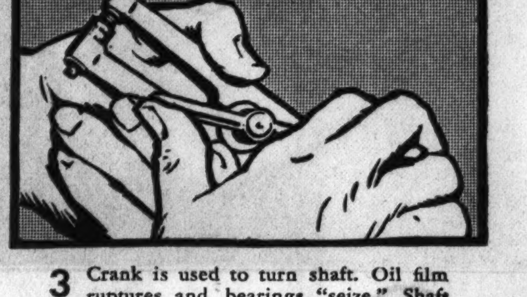
Demonstrations before at least two hundred thousand motor-minded men have proved that "Any oil would be better oil if Germ Processed!" But there is only one oil made by the patented Germ Process—New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! Use this oil of proved strength in your car! It saves you money by giving greater motor protection and lower oil consumption. It gives you the comfortable feeling that you know your car is protected by the safest, finest motor oil made!



1 Assembling the instrument. Split bearings and shaft, lubricated with competitive oil, are clamped between "jaws" of instrument.

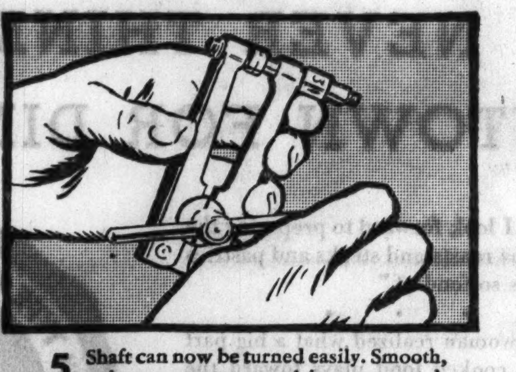


2 Shaft is turned to distribute oil evenly. Set-screw is tightened until bearing and shaft are under extreme pressure.



3 Crank is used to turn shaft. Oil film ruptures and bearings "seize." Shaft extremely hard to turn. You can even hear the metal-to-metal contact!

4 Drop of patented Germ Essence is added to oil in bearing. Same extreme pressure is applied. Original oil has now been Germ Processed.



5 Shaft can now be turned easily. Smooth, quiet movement—no seizing—no sound. Proof that Germ Processing increases oiliness and film strength of any oil!

TO ALL CAR OWNERS OF CHICAGO

PROVED BY A DARING DESTRUCTION TEST

Continental backs claims with facts. To prove that New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil gives you lower oil consumption as well as greater motor protection, we drove six brand new cars to destruction, testing this oil against five other nationally known oils. Any Conoco station will give you a booklet that tells the story of this convincing test. It will pay you in money saved to read it. Drive in and ask for a copy—or try this oil!

BOB SIMMONS STRIKES HARD AT NEW DEALERS

Nebraskan Debates with Rival for Senate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Santa Claus is up against terrific battle in Nebraska.

BOB SIMMONS.

A hard hitting young foe of the New Deal, Bob Simmons, who spent ten years in the house at Washington, is the Republican candidate for United States senator and at this writing appears to have the Roosevelt administration on the defensive, Christmas tree and all.

The state is following with intense interest a series of ten joint debates on the New Deal between Simmons and his Democratic opponent, Congressman Edward R. Burke. In the first four or five of them Simmons, according to widespread opinion, has had Burke hanging on the ropes.

Attacks New Deal Court.

"Let Mr. Burke tell us," said Simmons in the latest of these debates, "what defense there is for increased living costs of the people at a time when their capacity to pay is being greatly decreased. Let him tell us what defense there is for suspension of anti-trust laws, forcing government monopolies upon the country, and enforcing monopoly prices and gouging by decrees of federal courts.

"Let him tell what defense there is for taking away the right of trial by jury from citizens and making the judge the one to decree the punishment for violating an injunction or an order of mandamus. Let him tell what defense there is for forcing upon this country a series of laws that violate the intent of the constitution, all restrictions upon congress.

Fights Fixing of Prices.

"Let him tell what defense there is for the price fixing in industry, enforced by decrees of federal courts, and making the American farmer the only industry that is compelled to operate without price fixing by the government. Let him tell what defense there is for the government taking advantage of the farmer in the purchase of drouth stricken animals to require the farmer to turn over the control of his herds to the secretary of agriculture.

"I have suggested in these discussions that the government aid in the solution of the problem of marketing for the farmer by building from the ground up with voluntary organization and not from the top down by compulsion; that it is the right of a business man and the laborer and the farmer to be the final judge of what is best for him in his store or his work on his farm; that the palsying hand of burocracy be lifted from America and the government let us run our own business again in this country."

Burke States His Case.

"I'm not on the defensive about the NRA or the AAA," said Burke. "In truth, they represent the most important legislation ever passed in the United States. Does Simmons object to the doctrine that any business which cannot pay a set minimum wage ought not to exist? The NRA gave labor the right to deal collectively, and may be that is the reason for some strikes; but isn't it better that labor should be lifted out of the mire, even if it goes to excess in asserting its rights. The New Deal has great possibilities."

Burke added that prominent Republicans had advocated control of productions, naming former Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and former Vice President Dawes. The Republican party, Burke said, "either lacked the common sense or the courage to work out such a program."

Citing the agricultural benefits to Nebraska farmers from the New Deal [five million dollars in wheat benefits, 31 million dollars in corn-hog like the industrial east, which could see no reason why it should pay higher prices for agricultural products so that Nebraska and other farming states should receive these benefits.

Burke is sponsored by Arthur Mullen, Democratic boss of Nebraska, who was compelled to resign from the post of Democratic national committeeman in the scandal involving the operations of Democratic lawyer-lobbyists in Washington. Burke won the nomination over Gov. Charles Bryan, a foe of Mullen of many years standing.

Bryan clashed with Mullen over the PWA allotments to Nebraska made by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes. Ickes had been appointed to the cabinet partly through Mullen's influence. Bryan held up approval of the projects for some time on the ground that they were tainted with enormous fees paid or promised to Mullen for getting the grants from his friend Ickes.

This action of Bryan's is widely believed to have been an important factor in his defeat for the nomination for senator, either because the people did not understand the reason for the delay or because they were not scandalized by the thought of Mullen pulling down large fees for his influence.

Mr. Ickes has made allotments for two of the Nebraska water power projects—the Sutherland dam on the North Platte and the Columbus dam on the Loup [Wolf] river.

Upward of 80 million dollars of government money have been distributed in Nebraska up to date. Including farmers in the drouth stricken regions there are 35,000 families on federal relief.

Nebraska has joined Kansas in revolt against the AAA. In the recent referendum 29,590 farmers voted for and 36,104 against the proposal to continue the corn-hog restriction program in 1935. On the question of projecting a grain and live stock curtailment program into 1936, the vote was 17,061 for and 42,384 against.

RACE OF GROOM MAY HALT M'ADOO GIRL'S WEDDING

He's Much Incensed Over U. S. Questions.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Whether Woodrow Wilson's granddaughter, Ellen Wilson McAdoo, 19 year old daughter of United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and not long out of an eastern finishing school, will be permitted to go through with plans to wed Rafael Lopez de Onate, 38 year old motion picture bit actor, tonight remained a question. It was weighed but unanswered by officials of Riverside county and the federal immigration officers here.

Miss McAdoo and De Onate, who is a sparsely built, thin nosed, thin haired, and erect individual, 6 feet two inches tall, speaking English with a clipped accent, yesterday surprised everybody but Miss McAdoo's recently divorced mother, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, and a few confidants, by motoring to Riverside and taking out a three day notice of intent to wed.

Then Comes Complications.

Complications arose thick and fast today.

County Clerk D. G. Clayton of Riverside, 75 miles from the couple's residences in Los Angeles, raised the question whether De Onate [known in movies as Ralph Novarro], was of Filipino, meaning Malay, blood.

"When De Onate signed the intention to wed he gave his birth place as the Phillippine islands," Clayton said. "Although this does not necessarily mean he is a Filipino, it does make it necessary that we inquire. The Civil code of California forbids intermarriage between a white citizen of the United States and one of Negro, Mongolian, or Malay blood. Now De Onate may be of Spanish parentage and born in the Philippines, but so far we have on record only his intentions to wed, which states he was born in the Philippine islands, and when he comes to Riverside to get the marriage license I intend to interview him at length."

In Los Angeles it was learned that an investigator from the immigration offices had returned from a mission to talk to De Onate and had laid a report before his superiors. Contents of this report were not made public.

Considers Self Spaniard.

De Onate, reached at his apartment at 7975 Fountain ave., Hollywood, said, "I do not know what all this fuss is about. I was born in Manila in 1896. I consider myself a Basque. Both my parents were from Spain.

"Both of them are now dead. I have a sister, Mrs. Thomas West, living in Seattle. Most certainly I am not a Filipino. I came to the United States in 1912. I lived in San Francisco and later in New York, where I was in the exporting business. Five years ago I came to Hollywood and have been playing in Spanish language motion pictures. I am a citizen of the United States, although I never took out naturalization papers. It was not necessary. I met Miss McAdoo eight months ago at the home of mutual friends. We confessed our mutual love in June. She often visited me on motion picture sets."

Attempts were futile to reach Miss McAdoo or her mother at the latter's home. Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, who recently obtained a divorce from the United States senator, issued a brief comment over a telephone. She stated that there were no immediate plans for her daughter to wed De Onate and that "I knew all about it when my daughter and Mr. de Onate went to Riverside."

CAPITOL'S HALL OF FAME LOSES 34 OF ITS NOTED

Curator Finds Solomon Had It Easy.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The dashing bronze figure of James Shields, soldier statesman of Illinois, glared resentfully at the prim, tight lipped marble of Frances Willard, W. C. T. U. leader, in the Hall of Statuary in the Capitol this afternoon. For, in a few days, the statue of the general will be removed unceremoniously from the domed room to leave the woman reformer as the state's sole representative in the national hall of fame.

Gen. Shields will have glorious company, as 34 mute heroes are to be hoisted from their perches to the Hall of Columns, several hundred feet away. Their combined weight, 72 tons, imperiled the congressional wing of the Capitol, in the opinion of engineers, who recently recommended the removals.

One Hero Per State.

Under the program each state is to be represented by one hero instead of the allotted two.

The choice between Miss Willard and Shields, who represented Illinois, Minnesota, and Missouri in the senate, gave Art Curator Charles E. Fairman one of a series of headaches. He made this confession as workmen began their operations by slipping a hangman's noose about the bronze neck of J. P. G. Muhlenberg, Pennsylvania's clergyman warrior.

"I was almost persuaded in Shields' favor by the story of his duel with Lincoln. You will remember he challenged Lincoln over some articles that a young girl, afterwards wife of the martyred President, wrote in a Springfield paper. Shields believed they were the work of Lincoln.

"Lincoln answered the challenge by choosing his weapons as "broadswords over a rail fence." The duel was never fought, ending in a reconciliation on the field in a gray dawn.

Fears for Repercussions.

"But when I considered the howls that would come from every one of Miss Willard's followers throughout the land, I had to let her remain. I hope the general takes it like a gentleman."

Muhlenberg, who left his pulpit to carry the gospel of the sword in the revolution, lost the decision to Robert Fulton, inventor of a steamboat, because the artist portrays him seated. Curator Fairman said seated statues cannot be placed in the Hall of Columns.

This also works to the favor of Robert La Follette, the elder, of Wisconsin, against James Marquette, Jesuit missionary.

RELIEF WORKERS TO GET TASK OF IMPROVING PARKS

Recreational facilities of three parks included in the old Albany Park district are to be improved under a work relief project approved by the work division of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, according to an announcement yesterday. The parks to benefit are Gompers park, Foster and Tripp avenues; Field park, 5100 North Ridgway avenue, and Kiwanis park, Carmen and Christiana avenues.

The project calls for a work assignment of 448 relief recipients. It provides for the landscaping of Gompers and Field parks, including filling, grading, sodding, and planting grass seed and for the installation of sprinkler systems. Retaining walls are to be built along the north branch of the Chicago river where it borders park property.

Two childrens' wading pools, each approximately 30 feet by 60 feet are to be constructed—one in Gompers park and the other in Field park. Park buildings will be painted and decorated in Kiwanis park.

"There has been no quarrel," she said. "We have been talking it over since his return here and decided to break the engagement."

STUDENTS, POLICE PATROL CAMPUS FOR SLUGGER OF 9 CO-EDS

Boulder, Colo., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A student's vigilance committee and police patroled the University of Colorado campus tonight stalking a slugger who has bludgeoned nine university coeds in four days.

The sluggings became known today when the student paper revealed women students have been ordered to remain indoors at night unless accompanied by male escorts.

Chief of Police R. C. Prater said he kept the information secret while he attempted to "bait" the slugger with policemen dressed as women.

The first attack occurred Friday night. On each successive night one or two women students have been slugged. Chief Prater said the slugger undoubtedly was demented, for there apparently was no motive for the attacks.

HORNER, LOWDEN AND EMMERSON FOR BOND ISSUE

Gov. Horner and two former governors, Frank O. Lowden and Louis L. Emmerson, yesterday added their appeals in favor of the $30,000,000 emergency relief bond issue which will be submitted to a referendum vote at the Nov. 6 election. It was emphasized that there is no partisan political question involved.

Voters were warned by Gov. Horner against carelessness that might cause them to overlook the separate bond issue ballot and fail to vote "Yes"; he pointed out this has the same result as voting "No." Instead of merely a majority of votes cast on the issue itself, the bonds require a majority of the number of votes cast for members of the legislature.

Former Gov. Lowden asserted "there is no alternative but greatly increased taxation for the ensuing year, and in the end much unnecessary expense." Mr. Emmerson made his plea from his home in Mount Vernon.

Soviets Bar Famine Relief Funds from Other Nations

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 23.—While a campaign for "Russian famine sufferers" is being carried on in several foreign countries steps have been taken by the Soviet government to prevent relief funds entering the country on the ground that there is no famine or prospect of one, relief is not needed and the campaigns themselves are considered a form of anti-Soviet propaganda.

300 at Session Hear Code Blamed for Ills.

After vainly wandering around in the "code jungle" for 16 months, the Master Photo Finishers of America will turn back to trade promotion activities in search of their lost prosperity, it was indicated as the group opened its 12th annual convention at the Palmer house yesterday. More than 300 delegates from the United States and Canada are attending.

"The delays and confusion of the NRA have put the industry in sore straits," said the president of the organization, R. J. Wilkinson of Jackson, Mich. "The association feels that it has spent 16 months in building and delivering to the industry all that was possible in formulating this code. Now we are turning back to the typical trade promotion work around which we have always built our activities."

"Didn't Deliver," Is Charge.

Mr. Wilkinson is scheduled to speak today on "Recovery Is Our Goal." The substance of his talk is printed in the program as follows:

"NRA has failed to deliver for our industry. It may fail with industry in general. In any event, national recovery will be from the inside instead of through government regulation and control.

"This means that all industries, ours included, must launch their own recovery programs, partly or wholly free of possible government efforts. Associated Photo Finishers met this issue during the first ten years of association existence and won. Shall we fail during the second ten?"

Administrators Assailed.

The general opinion of the delegates appeared to be that the 90 per cent of the industry wanting to comply with the code has been "put on the spot" because of the administration's failure to take a firm stand on enforcement and test the constitutionality of the New Deal legislation in the courts.

Red tape and stalling in the prosecution of violators have convinced the remaining 10 per cent of the industry that it is open season for chiseling, some of the delegates declared.

HIT BY CAR; DIES.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Henry Meyerholtz, 57, of Stendal vicinity, died today of a fractured skull suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven by Lee Hendrickson. Hendrickson said he was blinded by lights of an approaching car.

CLASH OF UNIONS MAY COST CITY A $500,000 FACTORY

Work Tied Up on New Soy Bean Oil Plant.

A jurisdictional dispute between the structural iron workers' union and the boilermakers' union over construction of several large tanks to be built in a new manufacturing plant here may send the factory project out of Chicago and deprive Illinois farmers of an annual market for $1,000,000 worth of soy beans.

This was learned yesterday when union officials disclosed that work on a $500,000 plant of the Glidden company, manufacturers of paint and varnish with mixing and extraction factories throughout the United States, has been delayed for nearly eight weeks by the factional quarrel. The new plant, already more than half completed, is on ground extending from Leclaire to Laramie avenues just north of Moffat street.

Arbitration Effort Fails.

Efforts to arbitrate the matter met with failure when structural iron workers, needed for the work yet to be done in the plant, refused to return to their jobs after a committee of arbiters awarded the construction of the tanks to the boilermakers. The committee consisted of representatives of the Building Trades council and the Employers' Association of Chicago.

The parent offices of the Glidden company are in Cleveland. Dispatches from there yesterday asserted that several executives of the concern had expressed "disgust and impatience" with the delay here. One company official was quoted as saying: "The has been discussed the advisability of withdrawing the projected plant from Chicago to a city where labor troubles would not interfere with business."

Officials Here Refuse Comment.

C. C. Johnson, who for twenty years has been the head of the Glidden company's industrial sales department in Chicago, and R. G. Brett, engineer in charge of construction, yesterday refused to discuss the labor dispute or comment on the Cleveland dispatches.

The new plant, for which foundations and some portions of the side walls have already been erected, is intended to be used to extract oil from soy beans which already are being purchased from Illinois farmers. Beans now being delivered are being placed in storage in the hope that they ultimately may be used.

Gets First Job in Three Years; Dies on Way to It

En route to begin his first job in three years, John Robinson, 50 years old, 6817 South Aberdeen street, a bricklayer, died of a heart attack yesterday in front of 6836 South Halsted street. His widow, Mary, said he had gotten the job Monday and was elated at the prospect of being taken from the relief rolls.

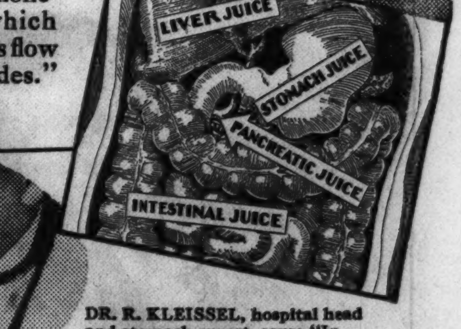
explains DR. R. E. LEE

. . . Fleischmann Health Research head. He states: "It's an entirely new 'strain' of yeast, very rich in hormone-like* substances."

Astonishing Results in Hundreds of Test Cases, clinic heads report

Thirteen American and 12 famous European clinics gave the new "XR" Yeast to people with very stubborn constipation, indigestion, skin troubles, and general "run-down" condition. "Never a yeast like it!" doctors reported. "Results in 2-3 days in many cases." "Remarkable!" Secret lies in hormone-like substances, which make digestive juices flow fast, strengthen "insides."



—corrects constipation, indigestion and related skin disorders and "run-down" condition far quicker. (Newly added Vitamin A combats colds, too!)

DR. R. KLEISSEL, hospital head and stomach expert, says: "In my tests, every case was benefited quickly, thanks to effect on digestive secretions."

THOUSANDS, amazed by news of this quicker acting new yeast, have asked question after question. Here are Dr. Lee's answers:

1. What led to its Discovery?
Years of research by many of the leading scientists in great American medical colleges. A noted bacteriologist finally isolated this new yeast was astounded by its quick action when tested.

2. But isn't all Yeast alike?
No. There are dozens of "strains" or varieties. This new one (known as "XR" Yeast to scientists) is the strongest ever found . acts most vigorously—faster—in the body
*It's very rich in hormone-like substances (body "activators") which speed the flow of your digestive juices and strengthen digestive action all through you astonishingly.

3. How do these juices affect Constipation and Indigestion?
Most constipation, indigestion, etc., start when these juices slow up! This new yeast makes your juices flow faster and muscles work harder from your stomach on down
Thus your food is better "churned"—digested. Your stomach empties sooner, food is passed along and out of you more quickly. You shouldn't feel "stuffed up," or have indigestion after meals. Constipation usually stops entirely in a short time. Cathartics, which act harshly only on part of the bowels, can't really correct constipation at all. "XR" Yeast actually "normalizes" you!

4. The Skin clears quicker, too?
Yes! Most common cases of "bad skin," it is now known, arise when poisons from clogged intestines try to get out through your skin.
"XR" Yeast speeds up your digestive system and feeds pure nourishment into your blood—not poisons. Your skin gains "tone," becomes healthier. Pimples, etc., should soon disappear!

5. How does it give you Energy?
By cleansing you inside and helping you get more "good" from your food! People over 40, especially, need "XR" Yeast to correct the slowing up of digestive secretions often occurring rapidly after that age . . . and in this way to relieve one of the greatest causes of premature "old age." It helps often in rheumatism, by correcting the bodily auto-intoxication (intestinal poisoning) frequently associated with this complaint.

6. Will it prevent Colds?
It helps—not only by cleaning you out, but by supplying Vitamin A (newly added), the "infection-preventing" vitamin. Fleischmann's "XR" Yeast also contains Vitamins B, D and G—four vitamins we all need vitally for health!

VERY IMPORTANT!
Eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's "XR" Yeast every day, plain or dissolved in one-third glass of water—preferably half an hour before each meal. Discontinue cathartics gradually. "XR" Yeast is a food, so keep on after you begin to get quick results—till you're well! Start to eat it right now.

"This new 'XR' Yeast acts twice as Fast!"

"After eating the new Yeast two days I felt better," writes Mrs. J. A. Corney, New York City. "I was sluggish, had indigestion. Fleischmann's 'XR' Yeast is twice as fast as the former yeast."

SOCIETY MODELS REPLY TO PLEA OF PROFESSIONALS

Many Admit Unfairness of Competition.

Society girls who have acted as models discussed yesterday charges made the previous day by a group of professional models that competition from socially prominent Chicagoans was lowering the standards of pay in modeling and taking work needed by professionals for their livelihood.

An "appeal" to society girls and to shops employing them was drawn up and signed on Monday by the professionals in the office of their attorney, Kenneth K. Krippene.

Miss Francise Clow, tall and blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., of Lake Forest, was interviewed with others in the dressing rooms at the Stevens hotel where they took part in the St. Luke's hospital fashion show.

Admits Charges in Full.

"I have done professional modeling," she asserted, "and I do think it is unfair competition. I've usually done it for the fun of it, which is the weakest possible excuse for doing it. I think society girls should not compete with professional models.

"I do think some society girls do it because they need the money, but I don't. I've always been paid over the regular market price, so that I haven't helped lower the wage standard, but I've kept some girl from getting a job perhaps.

"If I did it better than professionals, that would be something, but I do it far worse. Why do the shops ask us when they could get professionals who were better for less money? Because of our names. They have publicity value. I'm opposed to the whole idea."

Just Something to Do.

Mrs. John B. Barnes of 1120 Lake Shore drive, blonde daughter of Thomas Howell, wealthy grain operator, pushed back a strand of her naturally gold hair and with a frank glance from languid blue eyes said:

"I'm doing some commercial modeling, posing for ads and photographs. I know I compete with girls who need the money. I think a lot of us do it just to have something to do. I know I do. It's even worse in New York. I have friends there who are making a lot of money modeling.

"I know I get jobs through a registry at times which other girls could do as well. It isn't my name that gives me the advantage, but my clothes. A certain type of dinner dress will be wanted, for instance. Some girls show up looking like the 'five and ten,' because they haven't much money to spend on clothes. It is unfair."

Declares Debs Need Money.

Miss Peggy Hambleton, on the other hand, said she thought few society girls modeled "for fun," that she had always done it for money, because she needed it, and that she had never been paid under the standard wage.

"I feel strongly that we shouldn't take jobs away from unfortunate persons," she said, "but many of the society girls who model or work in shops are down and out."

Miss Frances Weary, daughter of Edwin F. Weary, 4950 Chicago Beach drive, said she had modeled occasionally, sometimes for nothing, and that she had worked at a Michigan avenue store for a time selling and modeling.

"I have sympathy with the girls who are making a living modeling, and I do think they have a legitimate complaint," she said. "But there are some jobs we get which they couldn't get, because they couldn't get customers to come into the stores.

A Lesson in Sociology.

"When I got my job at the store dad was proud of me. Things were rather difficult financially then for every one. Later, though, he decided it was not fair, that I was keeping some girl out of work who needed it worse than I did. But mother admits that to work was the making of me. I had been spoiled. I learned a lot."

Miss Jane Schuttler, daughter of Walter Schuttler, 2355 Commonwealth avenue, declared with enthusiasm:

"I'm sorry, but I'm all for the professional models. They have to make a living. Of course I've done a little modeling. I was one of the girls who modeled for a newspaper here for money. Like most of us, I can always use a little more money and it's a temptation, though I don't actually need it."

Miss Jean Stevens of 1412 Astor street, known as a beauty among society folk, said she had never taken a job as a model if she knew she crowded out a professional.

Terms Services Overvalued.

"For that matter, even in these charity affairs, such as this," she said, "they could employ professionals. I do not think we form any serious competition for professionals in Chicago as is done in New York, though, where there is a bureau for society girls acting as models. It's a racket there.

"I think the shops and stores overvalue the society girl model. We can't wear clothes as well as professionals can. They can walk better than we can, they know how to show the dress off. I thought I was pretty good, but in my mother's shop she recently employed a professional to take my place, and she had it all over me."

FRENCH MOTOR EXECUTIVE HERE TO SEE THE FAIR

Maurice Dollfuss, managing director of Ford Motor Company of France and a "distant cousin" of the recently assassinated Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, arrived in Chicago from Detroit last night on the Twilight Limited of the Michigan Central railroad to see the World's Fair. Before leaving for New York and home this afternoon, Mr. Dollfuss hopes to get some ideas for the international exposition to be held in Paris in 1937.

Asked what the French think about the NRA, the automobile executive said they "don't understand it, and if they did, they wouldn't have it." The French would "resist to the last" any attempt at monopoly, most of all any monopoly which might be created by governmental competition with private industry, he declared.

A tall, ruddy figure in tan topcoat and suit, Mr. Dollfuss strode hurriedly from the Central station to a car which was waiting to take him to the Stevens hotel. He let his words trail behind him as he walked ahead of reporters. As to automobiles, he said that European and American cars are becoming more nearly alike in appearance because of the universal adoption of streamlining.

NOTED PHYSICIAN VOICES PLEA FOR PLASTIC SURGERY

Sir Harold Gillies Calls Benefits Real.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A plea for recognition of "esthetic surgery" by members of the medical profession and a defense of use of the surgeon's knife for the sake of beauty alone when the psychological benefit to be derived by the patient is large were presented last night by Sir Harold Gillies, noted London surgeon.

SIR HAROLD GILLIES.

Sir Harold presented the fourth annual Mayo lecture of the Northwestern university medical school in Thorne hall on McKinlock campus. His subject was "Reconstructive Surgery."

Alluding to plastic surgery as "the Cinderella of surgery," he urged his senior colleagues in medicine to adopt toward it an attitude which would remove "the sense of shame" which clings to it.

Urges Protection of Public.

"We all know that there are plastic surgeons who are not connected with any hospital, do no charity work, and are too interested in remuneration," he said. "With a change of attitude toward it, with recognition of the justifiable nature of restoring not only function but beauty, all the mystery and glamor of plastic surgery will be exposed, and thus only can the public be protected.

"The borderline of what is justifiable and what is not is often difficult to determine. When a child has a hairy mole covering half her face and it is removed and skin grafted on, her inferiority complex also is removed."

Using slides to illustrate his lecture, Sir Harold pointed out other "esthetic surgery" operations he considered justifiable. A man with protruding ears, a girl with a large hooked nose, a woman with misshapen breasts, a woman with a fat neck, a man whose original nose appeared as two, all were patients. Their mental condition was entirely changed by operations, he said.

Calls Skin Grafting Vital.

Sir Harold declared research in transplantation of living skin from one person to another is of vital importance. To date it is unsuccessful so far as permanent effects go, he said. He described the case of a baby whose leg from toe to hip was injured, necessitating new skin. An attempt to transplant it from the mother caused great pain, but was unsuccessful.

There was no circulation in the blood vessels after dividing the skin, he said. In another case, both a woman and a child became toxic in an 11-day period after the skin grafting began.

These were in contrast to successful operations he showed where sections of living skin were detoured from one part of a patient's body to another. In one case, a section of abdomen eventually became a woman's forehead, and a portion of her forehead became a new cheek. Transplanted cartilage helped form a new nose, while living skin was taken from the lower necker to make new eyelids and nose and jaw covering.

Sir Harold was introduced by Dr. G. B. New, head of the oral and plastic surgery department of Mayo clinic, who represented Dr. Charles Mayo, founder of the lectureship. Dr. Loyal Davis, neurological surgeon of Northwestern university, presided.

BODY FOUND IN PARK LAGOON.

The body of Peter Bloomstrand, 60 years old, 1744 West 100th place, a carpenter contractor, was found in the lagoon at Ogden park, 65th street and Racine avenue, yesterday. His son, Raymond, said his father had left home in the morning to seek work.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Another day of bright fall weather yesterday drew thousands to the Fair and late afternoon found avenues and midways filled. At midnight 81,590 sightseers had entered the gates, many of them viewing the Exposition's wonders for the last time.

Two hundred photographs of Georgia's industrial resources, part of the Georgia exhibit in the Hall of States, and an aeronautic display, showing airplanes of the future, will be turned over to the Museum of Science and Industry after the close of the Fair.

Soldiers, sailors, and marines from Camp Roosevelt at the Fair will be reviewed today at 11 a. m. in the Court of Honor by Brig. Gen. Frank C. Boles, acting commander of the 6th corps area, as part of the ceremonies of military week. Climaxing the week, Naval day will be celebrated Saturday, in which one of the main events will be a sham battle between troops of Camp Roosevelt and the naval and marine reserve corps of Chicago.

With the large number of entries coming in for the operatic contest, judges decided yesterday that no selections would be made during the preliminary tryouts. Voices will be judged as to operatic quality and those with the best ratings will be notified to appear in the finals Saturday night. A season contract with the Chicago Grand Opera company will be awarded the winning man and woman.

Mrs. Dinah Degan, 92 years old, came to the Fair yesterday to compare the 1934 production with the Columbian Exposition of 1893. Mrs. Degan lives with her son and daughter-in-law at 2212 East 68th street. She said the Columbian Exposition with its dazzling White City was more beautiful in the daytime, but that the 1934 Exposition eclipsed it in night wonders.

ANCIENT HOUSE WILL GET NEW DRESS AT FAIR

James A. Moffet, administrator of the Federal Housing act and other federal housing officials, today will view a six hour demonstration of home remodeling starting at 9 a. m. in the Home Planning area. It will be the feature attraction of Home Modernization day. When Mr. Moffet gives the signal, one of two dilapidated old structures will be turned over to a horde of carpenters, painters, decorators, and landscapers who will then convert it into a modern cottage of the Cape Cod type. The other house will be left untouched in contrast. The houses were procured and moved to the Fair by the Metropolitan Housing council from Federal street, where they had stood nearly a hundred years.

ATTORNEY SENT TO JAIL.

Because he appeared in court intoxicated yesterday, Attorney William Jenkins, colored, was sentenced by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward to three days in the county jail.

BIG AERIAL SHOW THRILLS CROWDS AT WORLD'S FAIR

Planes and Fireworks in Festival of Light.

With the sky as a stage, the Festival of Light was presented at the World's Fair last night while thousands cheered it as one of the most thrilling of the season's aerial spectacles. Airplanes, powerful searchlights and fireworks were combined in a 45 minute program that left the crowd breathless.

The spectacle began at 9:56 p. m. with a roar of aerial bombs. Ten thousand persons seated in the Lagoon theater saw flashes of fire from the east bank as the projectiles were sent hurtling skyward.

Searchlights Illuminate Flags.

Simultaneously all of the outside lights of the Exposition were extinguished. High above, the bombs burst, each releasing an American flag. As the audience sang the Star Spangled Banner, searchlights picked out the colors as they floated over the Lagoon.

As the last strains of the air then died away, more bombs were shot into the sky. Bursting, they released likenesses of stage, screen and comic strip characters.

Then the fireworks faded and the lights of the Exposition came slowly to full power. From the southwest planes of the 108th observation squadron of the Illinois National Guard roared into the sky stage.

Thrilled by Air Stunts.

Leading the squadron in thrilling maneuvers was Capt. Clifford A. McElvain, world war ace, who concluded the show by painting ribbons of smoke across the sky, flying blind at moments across his own trail. The smoke billows were released from two tanks on the wings of his plane.

As the squadron followed the leader back to the airport the scene was cleared for the final act, a thrilling fire power dive from 5,000 feet. As the smoke clouds drifted out toward Lake Michigan, Lieut. William Newhall roared over the Lagoon theater in a 575-horsepower Douglas observation plane, at 200 miles an hour. From twenty-four rockets fastened to the tail of his ship fire billowed out in a steady stream as he began his dive. A thousand feet above the ground he leveled off, then looped upward, leaving in smoke a gigantic "number 6."

WOMAN DIES OF POISON.

Mrs. Juliade Flores, 39 years old, 4327 South Marshfield avenue, died yesterday of poisoning. She was taken to the hospital on Oct. 20 by her husband, Ramon, who was to be questioned by New City police.

THE BOYS IN THE BACK ROOM.

Robert Moses, Republican candidate for governor of New York, livened things up a bit by saying that the federal housing project was a soft thing for contractors with New Deal connections. Specifically he mentioned the General Builders' Supply company and the brother-in-law of Postmaster General James A. Farley. Mr. Farley was formerly president of the company. The New York New Dealers replied that this was mud slinging, and Mr. Farley for a while lost his even temper.

There may be some innocents in the stupendous affairs being conducted out of Washington, but there are also a few seasoned and experienced men who must know that huge public funds attract practical men of affairs to make hay where hay is. Politics has been the art of getting office and spending money. The money makes it attractive as a career. Public works have always been known as pork and have served not only to carry elections but to enrich the politically favored.

Although the New Deal ostensibly tried to get the practical men out of the public frame, it could not change the fact that political power means political favor. Democratic government is primarily conducted by men who are able to get votes and convert them into profit. The old style politician may have had his breath taken away by the sweep and scope of idealistic audacity in Washington, but when he came to he was the first to realize a lot of money is a lot of money, no matter who is spending it or why.

The politicians were not prepared, it can very well be believed, for expenditures in the manner and on the scale undertaken by the New Dealers. But they would be the first to recognize the open points of approach to this money. Eventually the men to whom politics is a business will adjust themselves to the methods by which amazing public expenditures are being made and they will get the best of the system. They never before had such an opportunity in the United States, an opportunity made the richer by the speed, diversity, and immensity of the outlays.

This chapter of the national expenditure is yet to be written. Many of the theorists in Washington have been proceeding on the idea that they had reconstructed human nature, and that what had invariably appeared in the conduct of public affairs in other times could not reappear under them. The optimism was absurd and consequences later will reveal it.

Evidence of this is cropping up in various parts of the country without a systematic, comprehensive investigation to discover it. As an illustration, you read that the foreman of a federal grand jury in Boston has been compelled by circumstances to appeal to the citizens to bring the jury evidence of federal emergency relief frauds. He does not charge the district attorney with intent to obstruct the investigation, but he says it is all too apparent that politics is trying to prevent a revelation of the waste and graft which have scandalized the relief of the impoverished. The foreman appears to be a conscientious citizen who sees plainly enough what is happening under political protection in the misuse of the relief funds.

It will be remembered that a few days ago Attorney General Cummings admitted that influential political fixers had appeared in the case of a gangster, now dead, whose death had closed federal prosecution on income tax frauds. The attorney general admitted that politics had tried to protect the criminal, but although he has said that exposure is the cure for this evil he declined to disclose the names of the fixers for the curious reason that the criminal himself was now dead, as if that fact mitigated the offense of the politicians in question.

Evidence of the political profiteers seeking to divert public money to their own uses can be found in the files of the department of the interior in the allotment of public works appropriations. Mr. Ickes must pour it out with a fire hose and tries to mop it up with a sponge. His own records, as in the Rio Verde case, reveal how he can be imposed upon, and a full investigation would discover that his judgment has been set aside because of political influence which he was unwilling and unable to oppose. The heaviest continuing pressure everywhere in the spending of public money is one of grab and waste. Politics on the make never sleeps and never relaxes.

The theorists have two natural enemies, one on each side, and little chance of escape from either of them. On one side are the extremists who hasten them into greater extravagance and wilder adventures, and on the other side the profit seeking opportunists who welcome each new adventure as a new opportunity to get the money so recklessly tossed about. These forces not only will wreck the theorists but they may wreck the country.

AIR RACES AND AIR SCHEDULES.

Eleven thousand three hundred miles in seventy hours! The London to Melbourne air race must forcefully draw to public attention the rapid strides that have been made in the art of aviation. Just twenty-five years ago M. Bleriot electrified the world by flying thirty-two miles across the English channel in thirty-seven minutes. Now planes race half way around the globe. The performance of the machines and the endurance of the aviators are wonders one day to be taken for granted tomorrow.

The winners had the advantage of a long distance racing plane and some familiarity with the route, so that the losers must share in the honor for piloting their heavier transport ships over the unmarked airway. What has been accomplished? We venture to predict that if necessary passenger demand and mail contracts are available a regular schedule will follow, offering standard service at an approximation of the racing performance. In aviation the record breaking feat of today becomes the schedule of tomorrow.

But long distance flights at average speeds of one hundred and sixty miles per hour do not particularly impress the American airman. By referring to our air time tables we find that the average flying distance from New York to Los Angeles is two thousand seven hundred and fifty miles, flown daily in the elapsed time of eighteen hours west bound and sixteen hours east bound. A passenger making two successive round trips across our continent will have flown eleven thousand miles in sixty-eight hours. It is true that he has the advantage of marked and lighted airways and that ships as well as crews are changed en route, but these are safety devices that are necessary adjuncts to commercial aviation. Moreover, commercial ships are designed for a maximum load of passengers, mail, and express matter, which of course produces the handicap of increased air resistance.

In the statistics of this great race we find confirmation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S frequent statement that the United States leads the world in aviation and that its air lines are entitled to a restoration of the policies under which they were developed. The pride of an American industry in pioneering certainly should not continue to be used as a source of political capital.

ADVERTISING UNFITNESS.

A recurrent public nuisance is the marking of sidewalks, public buildings, and light or power poles with the advertising of candidates for office. Police Commissioner Allman has ordered the police to remove these lawless defacements. Citizens can discourage the offense by refusing to vote for candidates who commit it. That would be a logical and in most cases a sensible form of protest, for the candidate who indulges in this unlawful form of advertising is advertising a disregard of law and of the public's rights which does not promise consideration of the public good when in office. A candidate who commits or procures the committing of a public nuisance, contrary to explicit law as well as offensive to the appearance of the city, is announcing unfitness for official responsibility.

A HORSE OF DIFFERENT COLOR.

Dr. William A. Wirt, the Gary educator, is sued by a forward looking, liberal, intellectual lady, a New Dealer and Washington adviser in labor relations, for $400,000 damages. From a pedagogic viewpoint that is real money, even in New Deal dollars. It would have been real money even to the founder of Gary. Dr. Wirt in his celebrated discursus on the Washington Kerenskys and Stalins of the planned society is alleged to have quoted some one on the color of the lady's political opinions. Supposedly these opinions are, if it is safe to say so, proletarian. They may even, if further speculation may be ventured, be opposed to the concentration and control of wealth.

It is impossible to say where Washington draws the color line. There are Blue Eagles, pink Socialists, purple cows, and Red diplomatic agents, the latter following the recognition of the soviet republics. Red would thus seem to be included within the prismatic proprieties in the national capital, as it certainly is within the financial probabilities.

The liberal lady who is suing Dr. Wirt apparently thinks in terms of considerable consolidation of wealth when she takes stock of possible injury done her political beliefs. She is willing to become a capitalist. Dr. Wirt may regard the amount as too much of a compliment both to him and to her.

MAGILL MAKES A CHOICE.

[Illinois State Journal.]

Residents of Springfield note with satisfaction an editorial in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE which discusses the resignation of Dr. Hugh S. Magill as general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education. He quit his work with the council in order to give full time to his duties as president of the American Federation of Utility Investors.

Dr. Magill, who formerly was a member of the Illinois state senate and later was superintendent of the Springfield schools, has been criticized for dropping the council work for the more worldly duties involved in his new position. One religious journal has accused him of selling out to the utilities interests.

As a matter of fact, the organization he serves is undertaking to protect the interest of innocent stockholders in wrecked utilities and in other utility organizations which are threatened with bankruptcy. It is indicated that he became interested in the subject by reason of the fact that a retirement fund for ministers, which is invested largely in utilities securities, has been imperiled.

Doubtless the International Council of Religious Education has lost something through the withdrawal of Dr. Magill. Its work, however, was not so urgent as that involved in the emergency created by the utilities securities situation. There are thousands of able religious educators capable of carrying on for the council. Relatively speaking, there are few men prepared to meet promptly the emergency task Dr. Magill has undertaken.

It so falls out that by reason of practical experience Dr. Magill is equipped for the work. Moreover, his reputation as an honest and conscientious man inspires confidence of the investors whose holdings are in jeopardy. It would be difficult to find another whose leadership in this work would encourage the unity of action which is essential to the protection of these investments. No one who knows Hugh S. Magill will believe that his motives are meanly inspired.

CECIL B. DE MILLE, the w. k. movie impresario, says that if we Americans keep dropping consonants when we talk there will soon be no recognizable English spoken in this country. And there'll be no "yes men." For Americans simply can't say "yes" any more. Mr. De Mille declares they can only answer in the affirmative by saying "yeah." But that isn't entirely correct. All Americans do not say "yeah." I tried out six people yesterday and in answer to my questions they answered in the affirmative as follows: [1] "Yeah"; [2] "Yuh"; [3] "Yip"; [4] "Huh"; [5] "You sed it'; [6] "All rightie."

THE GERMANS are warning men who hoard their wool suits. They say it's unpatriotic to swank around in a nice woolen suit when most of the people have to wear substitutes. They wouldn't have to warn me about hoarding a wool suit. I pulled out the only real genuine Scotch wool suit I had left yesterday and the moths had eaten everything except the buttons.

‡

AND THOSE PEOPLE IN THIS VERY town who have never been are going to have a chance to see the World's Fair, or, at least, big sections of it. Because the Streets of Paris is going to be set up entirely down in Miami and other shows will find their way to Coney Island and various amusement parks around the country. Then people in Chicago who haven't had the opportunity or inclination to get as far south as Eighteenth street will eagerly harness up the old gasoline buggy and go away down to Florida so that they may enjoy a visit to the Streets of Paris. Or they'll tour down to Coney to see the villages moved down there from the World's Fair. Say what you will, humans are mighty funny.

SIMPLE INCIDENT.

It was a simple, quiet incident—
Two frail old ladies walking down the street
At sunset arm in arm, a soft content
Illumining their faces gravely sweet;
And yet I shall not soon forget how they
Made beautiful the closing of the day.

There was a peace upon each face that told
How good life's end may be, how full of trust
The heart may grow, how far too wise to hold
Anxiety or fear that "dust to dust"
Comprises all of that long secret death
Alone divulges at our ultimate breath.

They moved serenely, speaking not a word,
Then paused at length to watch the sinking sun,
And both looked upward at a homing bird
And smiled to see his haste as day was done.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

"ICKES WARNS CONSERVATIVES to Beware Fate of Lot's Wife."—Headline. Much good that will do. How many of you ever heard of Lot's wife? Hold up your hands. I thought so. Most of you would guess offhand from the fact that something must have happened to her that she either trumped her husband's ace in a game of bridge or that she ate crackers in bed. What she did was to look back. Oh, says Laura, then she was driving an auto and didn't see the red light and went right on through and a policeman gave her a dirty look and a ticket. No, but it must be admitted that holding Lot's wife up as a horrible example doesn't do much good these days. If she isn't front page stuff we never heard of her.

‡

A LADY out in California sues a husband for divorce because he turned somersaults on the lawn. Where in heck should he turn 'em—in the parlor and knock over a marble bust of G. Washington? Or in the dining room and land with his head in the soup tureen? The lawn seems a very good place for a husband who likes to turn somersaults. Since they've had their rights there just doesn't seem any way of pleasing the ladies.

IT USED TO TAKE SIX WEEKS to go to Australia from England; now the airplanes do it in three days. Three days! Think of that! Will wonders never cease? Three days! Three days to accomplish a journey that once took six weeks. Oh, we do move fast these days. Three ringing cheers for a marvelous achievement. Rah! rah! rah! TIGER! But now that we're getting used to reaching Australia in three days, isn't that a pretty long time just to go from England to Australia? Three days! Why, that's seventy-two hours. A pretty long time, that. We'll have to do it in better than three days. Let's have a little speed!

OUTLET.

What use has the blind man
Of his poor snuffed eyes,
When he can't see the earth,
The sea, or skies?
I have often wondered,
As I saw him go
Past my door at evening,
Walking to and fro;
A cane in one hand,
A cup in the other,
A sign on his chest:
"Help the blind, my brother."
That all things are useful
I've often been told—
(Yet—this man was born blind,
And now he is old . . .)
So I've come to believe
That through the dark years
Those blind eyes have been
An outlet for tears.

"YOU CAN NOW," said a warm and somewhat gushing circular letter I received yesterday from a travel bureau, "take a trip in luxury around the world on a magnificent floating palace for only $2,500. I don't want to call the man that wrote that a harsh name. I simply say, "NO, I CANNOT!"

HEMORRHOIDS OR PILES.

DISEASES of the rectum are often overlooked since this particular part of the body is all too frequently neglected because of a false sense of modesty.

The cnoditin known as hemorrhoids, commonly called piles, is brought on by an enlargement of one or more of the hemorrhoidal veins which lie just beneath the mucous lining of the rectum. The terms, itching piles, bleeding piles, and weeping piles, generally fail to describe the situation accurately. Bleeding from the rectum may arise from many causes other than hemorrhoids. The same may be said of itching and of a slight discharge of mucus.

Hemorrhoids may be compared to the varicose veins seen under the skin of the leg. Veins enlarge and become tortuous because their walls are weakened. The pressure of blood within the veins then causes stretching and deformity. In a hemorrhoidal vein the erect posture of the body and the sluggish return flow of blood may bring about enlargement and finally a clotting of the blood within a vein. Constipation causing undue pressure on the walls of the rectum is often a causative factor. Sometimes the enlarged veins become stretched and may protrude outside the rectum, seriously interfering with normal bowel movements. Pain, irritation, and slight bleeding on pressure are characteristic symptoms.

Treatment depends on the stage of the hemorrhoids at the time of examination. In certain cases these enlarged veins may be obliterated by the injection of an irritating chemical that causes them to shrink. Among the substances used is a 5 to 20 per cent solution of carbolic acid in a glycerin-water mixture.

Not all cases are adapted to this type of treatment. If the injection method is regarded as suitable the enlarged veins so treated will generally absorb in from one to three weeks. The injection method usually causes little if any pain and in the hands of skilful physicians has been attended with considerable success. An advantage of this method is that hospitalization is either entirely avoided or shortened.

In some cases surgical removal is necessary. A local anesthetic is frequently all that is needed, although general anesthesia may be required. Rectal surgery is one of the most particular and exacting branches of general surgery and an experienced operator is required in order to insure a complete and thorough removal of the diseased veins. Under competent management, however, there is no need to fear the procedure. The improvement in general health that follows the removal of hemorrhoidal enlargements is most noticeable.

One should not temporize or delay through the use of alleviating remedies such as suppositories in cases of bleeding from the rectum. No drug applied locally to the mucous surface of the rectum can possibly cure hemorrhoids. Evidence of disease about the rectum must be regarded as of definite importance. Unfortunately, persistent and continuous irritation of the rectum may give rise to the development of a cancerous condition. In fact, any bleeding from the rectum should always be investigated.

Patients with hemorrhoids should use a very mild diet, particularly avoiding alcohol and all condiments. To prevent hemorrhoids and to check their development, constipation should be guarded against. An ounce of olive oil injected into the rectum at bedtime and retained through the night often produces an easy bowel movement in the morning. Straining at stool should be avoided.

CALCIUM DEPOSIT.

L. S. V. writes: 1. I am 29 years old. I was told that a calcium deposit has formed over a spot in one of my lungs. Is this dangerous?

2. Will it develop into tuberculosis eventually?

3. May I marry?

4. Will it be hereditary?

REPLY.

1. A deposit of calcium in the lung usually means that you have had an infected spot and that the area has healed.

2. If you permit yourself to become run down and unduly fatigued the calcium may absorb and infection be liberated. A deposit of calcium is one of nature's ways of protecting you against infection.

3. Yes.

4. No.

PROBABLY TWO YEARS.

T. writes: 1. Is it possible to cure syphilis?

2. What is secondary syphilis?

3. How long does it take to treat this form of syphilis?

REPLY.

1. Yes.

2. This stage of the disease is ushered in by an eruption of the skin that may cover a considerable portion of the body. The stage lasts until the eruption has entirely disappeared.

3. Vigorous treatment should be continued for at least two years.

PROBABLY NOT CANCER.

Mrs. M. S. writes: For the last two years I have been bothered with my tongue. It feels as though I had severely burned it. The condition came on during pregnancy. I smoke a lot. Could it be cancerous?

REPLY.

It may originally have been a food deficiency. Infections in the mouth may aggravate it, as will smoking. Good mouth hygiene is the cure. It is probably not cancer. If it does not clear up soon a competent physician should be consulted.

ARTHRITIS.

J. L. D. writes: In your recent article on chronic arthritis you spoke of the organic changes that take place in a joint affected with arthritis. What are these changes?

REPLY.

Arthritis usually starts as an infection around the joint. As the infection proceeds, if you do not get the upper hand, overgrowth of bone may take place, resulting in deformity.

SAFER TO BUY MORTGAGE.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My aunt's husband died in 1928 and left no will. He was married twice. The first marriage produced five sons and the second no children. There is a two flat brick building with a $2,500 mortgage on it and $160 in unpaid taxes. My aunt wants me to pay off the indebtedness and says she will give me the building when she dies. 1. If I do this can the five stepsons claim any share of it? She told me she talked to the lawyer who drew up the deed and he said the place was hers and she could leave it to anybody she wanted. If I make the payments and [2] she wills me the building, can they take it to court and protest the will? She has the deed to the place and [3] said the others have no claim to anything in the house.

1. Depends on who originally owned it. It seems probable that your best course would be to purchase the mortgage rather than pay it, but in any event we advise you to employ an attorney.

2. She might sell the building to other parties during her lifetime, or fail to make the agreed will in your favor.

3. We do not have the facts before us to determine the accuracy of her statement.

LIFE INSURANCE.

Riverside, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Forty odd years ago a father died leaving five children, and his estate was not probated. Not long ago the mother [widow] died and she carried an insurance policy which was worded "Payable to the living children," and same was paid by the insurance company and divided accordingly. One of the children died a few years ahead of the mother and he left a couple of children. The estate is to be probated and [1] as the premiums on the above mentioned policy were paid from income derived from the estate, should not a fifth of the premium paid be treated as a claim by the two heirs of the son against the estate?

I. H.

1. If you mean that life insurance premiums were paid after the death of the insured this would be a most unusual situation and we would have to have the facts before us to advise. If you mean that the premiums were paid during the lifetime of the insured this would not alter the ordinary rule that the insurance money will be divided in accordance with the wording of the policy.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ALIEN ENTRY.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—On July 30, 1933, a woman was deported to her native country, probably because she innocently became a public charge [sanitarium] from which she was discharged as cured. Could this woman return to the United States as an engaged person and get married to an American citizen immediately after her arrival? Is this woman allowed to return to the United States after being married to an American citizen in a foreign country? Could she come to this country with her husband immediately after marriage? Must her American husband file an affidavit of support?

W. B.

As a necessary preliminary to any action looking to her return to the United States the alien must secure from the secretary of labor, Washington, permission to reapply for admission to the United States. Thereafter she must secure from an American consul an immigration visa and must otherwise, in all respects, conform to the requirements to which all aliens migrating to the United States are subject. This applies whether she is married to a citizen of the United States or whether she comes here to marry such a citizen. As one of the conditions preliminary to the issuance of a visa by an American consul it will be necessary that the husband, if they actually marry, show ability to maintain the alien if she is admitted.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

It probably is a disappointment to many people to know that science has never found any evidence to support the idea that the stars have any influence over our character and destiny. ### PARABLE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 20.—School children of fairly recent years know the story of "The Emperor's New Clothes." The vain monarch, so the story goes, was very fond of fine clothes. Two rogues came to the palace and said that they were weavers of unusual skill; that they could weave an extraordinary fabric which would be invisible to all who were stupid or unfit for office.

The vain monarch was greatly pleased and put them to work. After weaving on empty looms for some time the rogues presented imaginary robes to the monarch, who pretended that he thought them very fine, since to admit that he could not see them would be to admit that he was stupid or unfit for office. When he appeared before his people many were loud in their praises of the new garments, fearing to admit that the fabric was invisible to them, lest they be considered stupid or unfit for office.

However, a small child exclaimed: "But he has nothing on!" Alas, it was true and the emperor realized it!

The American people have been led to expect something very fine in the fabric of the New Deal. The average thoughtful citizen, undismayed by the epithet "Tory" or "Mule," watches the parade calmly and cannot be expected to be less honest than the child on the sidelines. Aware of the unprecedented ballyhoo for the various recovery measures, he is not hard boiled but is merely attempting to see clearly when he asks himself the question "So what?"

He would like to know, among other things, why we should spend vast sums on irrigation projects to reclaim desert land and put it into production while we are paying farmers to take land out of production. Understanding as he did that the avowed purpose of the NRA was to increase purchasing power, he has seen an increase in living costs with a consequent decrease in his own purchasing power and in that of his friends. He has seen government in competition with private business, but government at the same time leaning heavily on private business for its income.

He has seen devaluation of the dollar which seemed reasonable in the light of placing this country on a parity with foreign countries in international trade, but a concerted effort to raise domestic prices, the accomplishment of which would tend to destroy that parity. He has seen a rise in farm prices, but a rise in the prices of the commodities for which the farmer spends his money. He has seen recognition of Russia, but asks himself, "What of it?"

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson said a very reasonable thing some time ago. He asked the American public to strike a balance sheet and judge results accordingly. The average thoughtful citizen will do just that and will not be induced by fanfare of trumpets to feign admiration for a fabric which he cannot see.

HIS BLOOD BOILS.

Irvington, Ill., Oct. 20.—It makes my blood boil when I read some of the editorials and look at some of the cartoons in a big paper like THE TRIBUNE to think that they would print such trash.

May I ask you how and why did our nation get in such a shape? What was the matter with the Republican party the twelve years they were in office? Don't you think they could have prevented most of the grief of today? Yes, I do, and so does most every broad-minded person.

Considering everything, I think President Roosevelt has done very well, for this nation sure was a sick one when he took office, and you know that it is much easier to get sick than it is to get well. It is easy for your editors and cartoonists to criticize the New Deal. What was the matter with the old deal? If the business men of our nation prefer to pay out money for relief rather than wages, all right.

May God help the brain trusters, as THE TRIBUNE calls them, to educate the people of this nation that the sooner they give the people a chance to earn their living and receive their share the better it will be for the good old U. S. A.

AN ALIEN GETS THE BREAKS.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—An answer to William Mitchell's letter, "A Citizen Out of a Job." I have been a permanent resident of this country for twenty-one years. I have neglected to apply for citizenship papers. I am classed as an undesirable alien awaiting deportation to a country which has refused to acknowledge me as her subject. The district director of immigration is aware of that fact, but still I have been in jail nearly seven months, denied dental attention and food fit to eat. Eventually I will be released without a dime in my pocket and with no prospects of any sort of work. I gather from your letter that you would be happy if both you and your wife were steadily employed. My mother is compelled to work while I am held in jail because technically I am not a citizen. An alien gets the breaks, huh!

SHAME.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 21.—Sunday morning I attended services at Christ Evangelical Lutheran church of Oak Park. The preacher, the Rev. Cornelius Aaron, a full blooded Mohican Indian, at the invitation of said congregation, delivered one of the best sermons I have ever heard. Imagine how I felt after reading in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE that two great big brave policemen arrested the above named clergyman at State and Harrison streets on Saturday because he was waiting to board a street car. The cops took this Indian missionary to the police station and held him there for six hours because he was unable to put up a $25 cash bond to guarantee his appearance in court on Monday. I say "Shame!"

GERMANY OPENS DRIVE TO PROVE IT WANTS PEACE

Sets Terms for Return to Arms Parley.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—Following the return from the funeral of King Alexander in Belgrade of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia, and his numerous conversations there with Europe's leading statesmen, Germany is preparing a "new peace drive in an effort to convince the world of the sincerity of Germany's desire for peace, and the untruthfulness of those who suspect Germany of warlike intentions."

The drive will be opened by Joachim von Ribbentrop, Chancellor Hitler's personal ambassador extraordinary, who will speak tomorrow night on the problems of disarmament and the conditions under which Germany is willing to return to the disarmament conference. Diplomatic circles attach special significance to the speech at this time when conversations are preceding in London in preparation for the 1935 naval conference.

Point to Polish Pact.

The Germans point out that in the past year they succeeded in reaching a satisfactory agreement with Poland, and hope that in the near future "the difficulties with Austria will be partly smoothed out."

Austria's resentment against the Germans is especially bitter because of the $400 tax the Germans are to impose on German citizens who go to Austria. Well informed circles assert that when he returns to Austria Franz von Papen, German minister, will carry a German promise to allow officially sanctioned German conducted tours to go to Austria without paying the tax. This arrangement is expected to benefit especially the Tyrol, a pro-Nazi district of Austria, where Germans formerly indulged in winter sports. Individuals are not to be granted these permits.

Special interest is also attached to the visit to Berlin of an international cotton committee, which was received by Chancellor Hitler today. Business circles understand that barter arrangements are ready for signature between Germany and South American nations which supply Germany with cotton, while there are agreements with southwest Africa and South Africa to provide both cotton and raw wool.

Will Trade Wine.

Moselle wine will be exchanged for raw wool in one of the biggest deals, agreements for which are expected to be signed in the near future.

Germany also is attempting to restore better relations with Italy, where Dr. Hans Erich Winter of the ministry of agriculture has been spending several weeks in negotiation of trade agreements.

The new soviet ambassador to Berlin, Jacquez Z. Suritz, will present his credentials to Chancellor Hitler Friday. The Germans also are attempting to improve their relations with Russia. This can be gleaned from the fact that the German press failed to launch an anti-Russian campaign this week when the Russian courts imposed heavy punishments on German engineers whom the soviets accused of spying.

Citroen, 'French Henry Ford,' Saved on Brink of Bankruptcy

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Unable to pay current supply bills and faced with the prospect of having to close down his enormous plant because there is not enough money in the treasury to meet the pay roll, Andre Citroen, "Henry Ford of France," today was saved from bankruptcy in the eleventh hour. One of his creditors agreed to underwrite his expenses for the next three months.

This financial drama, which centers around the most colorful figure in French business life and one of the most important industrial units in France's economic structure, has had the government and the bourse jittery for the last month. THE TRIBUNE understands that the ministers of Premier Doumergue's cabinet have been lying awake nights thinking of the political consequences of some 25,000 Citroen employés being thrown on the streets at this critical moment.

Credit Moguls Agast.

The moguls who control France's credit structure, on their side, are agast at the prospect of a financial crash involving thousands of stockholders and numerous creditors which could not fail to shake the whole nation. And their blood runs cold at the threat Citroen is said to have uttered at a recent conference when he was pressed to relinquish control of his factories to a group of bankers:

"Gentlemen, the day I am deprived of control over the business I have built up. I shall commit suicide."

Citroen stock has been slumping steadily on the bourse for the last six weeks and has been under fire since last winter when money put up by a syndicate kept the company from going under. In a desperate attempt to cut down his overhead, Citroen has been reducing his pay roll, which caused the Socialist newspaper Populaire to launch a vicious campaign against the financier.

Employés Demonstrate.

Last Saturday he was barely able to scrape up funds to meet the weekly pay rolls and demonstrations were staged by employés, obliged to stand in line for hours to get their envelopes.

He has not been able to pay bills for supplies for some time. Today the Michelin Tire company, to whom Citroen is said to owe $2,000,000, came to the rescue and agreed to guarantee all of Citroen's debt for the next three months. Michelin technicians and accountants were installed in the Citroen plant today to supervise things. At the end of the three month period the Michelin company will decide whether to continue its support.

It is understood that the government and the Bank of France have considered coming to Citroen's aid to prevent a crash, but they quailed before the enormous expenditures necessary.

Adopted Ford Methods.

Citroen earned the title of the Ford of France by adopting American mass production and publicity methods to supply the public with a popularly priced car.

He is a victim of the growing intensity of the crisis in France, the loss of foreign markets, and of business methods which won him fame and fortune. Citroen every year brings out a radically new model, which involves a heavy cost. This year, hoping to recoup, he tried an audacious experiment to enlarge his market by bringing out a sensational new model with a front wheel drive. Because of the heavy decline in buying power during the last eight months he was obliged to sell at a loss.

GERMANY TRACES MYSTERY WOMAN IN ASSASSIN PLOT

Father of Gungirl Says She Was Disowned.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—Marie Vjudroch, the mysterious blonde woman who is suspected of having smuggled arms to France for Petrus Kalemen, the assassin who took the lives of King Alexander I. of Jugo-Slavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France, is being traced by German police, although assurance is given that she is not in Germany.

Jugo-Slav authorities, in secret reports to European police chiefs, assert that the mysterious blonde is the sweetheart of Egon Kvaternik, alleged Croatian terrorist, who was arrested with Dr. Ante Pavelich in Turin, Italy, and that she comes from Berlin, although she is not of German parentage. Kvaternik has been named the "delegate" of Pavelich, alleged head of a Croat revolutionary organization.

Two days of search led to an elderly Croatian who was born in Zagreb and who has lived in Berlin for many years. His fellow countrymen claim that he is the father of the mysterious blonde.

This Croat at first said he had no daughter. Then he said he had not seen her for years and did not know her whereabouts. He admitted that she is considered beautiful and that her numerous romances in her late teens shocked the family which, he said, "washed its hands of her." The last he had heard of her was that she had married a German whom she had left shortly afterward.

Zivojin Balugdzic, Jugo-Slav minister to Berlin, called on Chancellor Hitler today "to thank Germany for its numerous expressions of sincere sympathy over the Jugo-Slavians' great loss."

Court Official Ends Life.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 23.—Shamed by losing the favor of the Jugo-Slav royal court for failing to prevent the assassination of King Alexander I. of Jugo-Slavia at Marseilles, Gen. Alexander Dimitriyevitch has committed suicide, according to an official news agency despatch from Belgrade.

The general, known for his devotion to the king, preceded Alexander to Marseilles to coöperate with French police in planning to guard the monarch on his visit. He returned with the sovereign's body to Belgrade. He then suffered what was said to have been a nervous breakdown and did not attend the funeral. After the funeral he was fired.

Serbs Attack Hungary.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 23.—Hungarian circles are much perturbed by the opening of a new Jugo-Slavian press campaign against Hungary.

The semi-official Jugo-Slav newspaper Vreme, which recently caused an international disturbance by publishing an article declaring that the Italian army was "a collection of cowards and more eager to run away than fight," came out today with a six column article attacking Hungary and Poland in violent language. It printed also some pictures and a cartoon which have caused great resentment.

The cartoon shows a gang of gunmen in a car and bears the caption "Terrorists of Janka Pusta, who are subsidized by the Hungarian government, practicing for the assassination of monarchs."

GERMAN CATHOLICS JOIN REVOLT AGAINST NAZI RULE OF CHURCH

COLOGNE, Germany, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The revolt against Nazi church rule spread today to the Catholic youth, recently claimed for Hitlerism, as 30,000 delegates to Catholic Youth day here staged tumultuous demonstrations of fealty to their leaders.

The meeting, one of the most impressive held in years, gave abundant evidence that Catholics, rebelling along with protestants against the reich's church policies, plan an early offensive.

A fortnight ago Baldur von Schirach, Hitler youth leader, welcomed to Cologne "tens of thousands" of the Catholic youth he said had come into the Hitler fold, but today the cheers were all for Cardinal Karl Joseph Schulte of Cologne and other church dignitaries.

A report from Munich said Cardinal Michael Faulhaber had authority from the pope to place an interdict on the diocese—thus banning mass, communion, Christian burial and like church functions in the entire region—should he be arrested.

Photoplay Magazine Sold to McFadden Group

New York, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Purchase of Photoplay magazine, a film fan publication, by Macfadden publications was announced tonight by Bernarr Macfadden. Katherine Doherty of Chicago, who has been publisher of the magazine, will continue to direct its editorial department.

Shadowplay, another film magazine, also was acquired by Macfadden.

REVOLT AGAINST FRENCH NEW DEAL PERILS CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Fear that Premier Gaston Doumergue's government may be broken up spread through France today, creating a new wave of uneasiness and causing government bonds to fall on the bourse while the dollar and the pound rose sharply in relation to the franc.

Revolt in the senate yesterday against Premier Doumergue's proposed constitutional reform and uncertainty over the result of the Radical Socialist party congress which will open at Nantes on Thursday are mainly responsible for the apprehension.

Left parties are furiously attacking Doumergue's project to give the premier more power on the ground that it paves the way for Fascism. Many believe that the Radicals will take such a strong position against the proposal that the Radical ministers will have to resign from the cabinet, opening a new era of chaos.

Political insiders, while they admit the situation is tense, take a less serious view of matters than the general public. They think that the leftist senators who yesterday delivered an ultimatum to Doumergue have cooled off somewhat and that eventually a compromise formula for constitutional reform will be worked out and approved by the senate.

Betting among insiders on the Nantes congress is that the radicals will pass resolutions embarrassing to the government, but will not actually force the ministers to resign.

Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin today told the finance committee of the chamber of deputies that worry over the domestic political situation is responsible for the steady decline of securities on the bourse during the last few weeks and that the decline will not be stopped until the country has been reassured.

BULGARIA ORDERS CITIZENS TO KILL 6 PUBLIC ENEMIES

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Every citizen of the kingdom today was given the right to shoot down on sight the notorious Macedonian revolutionist, Ivan Mihailoff, and five associates. The government declared all six men outside the pale of all laws.

The Macedonian struggle for independence goes back to the time when Turkey exercised sovereignty from the Bosporus to the Adriatic. The Mihailovists, who recognize Ivan Mihailoff as their leader, have worried the Balkans for years. Mihailoff in August fled to a refuge in Turkey. His enemies accused him of 3,500 assassinations in twelve years.

Alias Petrus Kalemen, assassin of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, was a former bodyguard of "King" Ivan, the Jugo-Slav legation announced recently.

"If anybody doubts the value of Gas Heat

Just let him speak to me"

"Installing gas heat was the biggest favor I ever did myself," says Mr. Joseph Kopecky, 1856 South Troy Street, Chicago

"As far as our heating problems are concerned," states Mr. Kopecky, "a winter day is just another day." The Kopecky family, as so many thousands of others, are enthusiastic in their praise of gas heat. They have found that no matter how quickly the weather changes, gas heat is ready at an instant's notice. There are no fires to nurse, no kindling to chop, no shoveling, no hauling of ashes. Gas heat is automatic. All you do is set the little thermostat on the wall and the heat comes up to the exact temperature you want.

No soot, no dust, no dirt

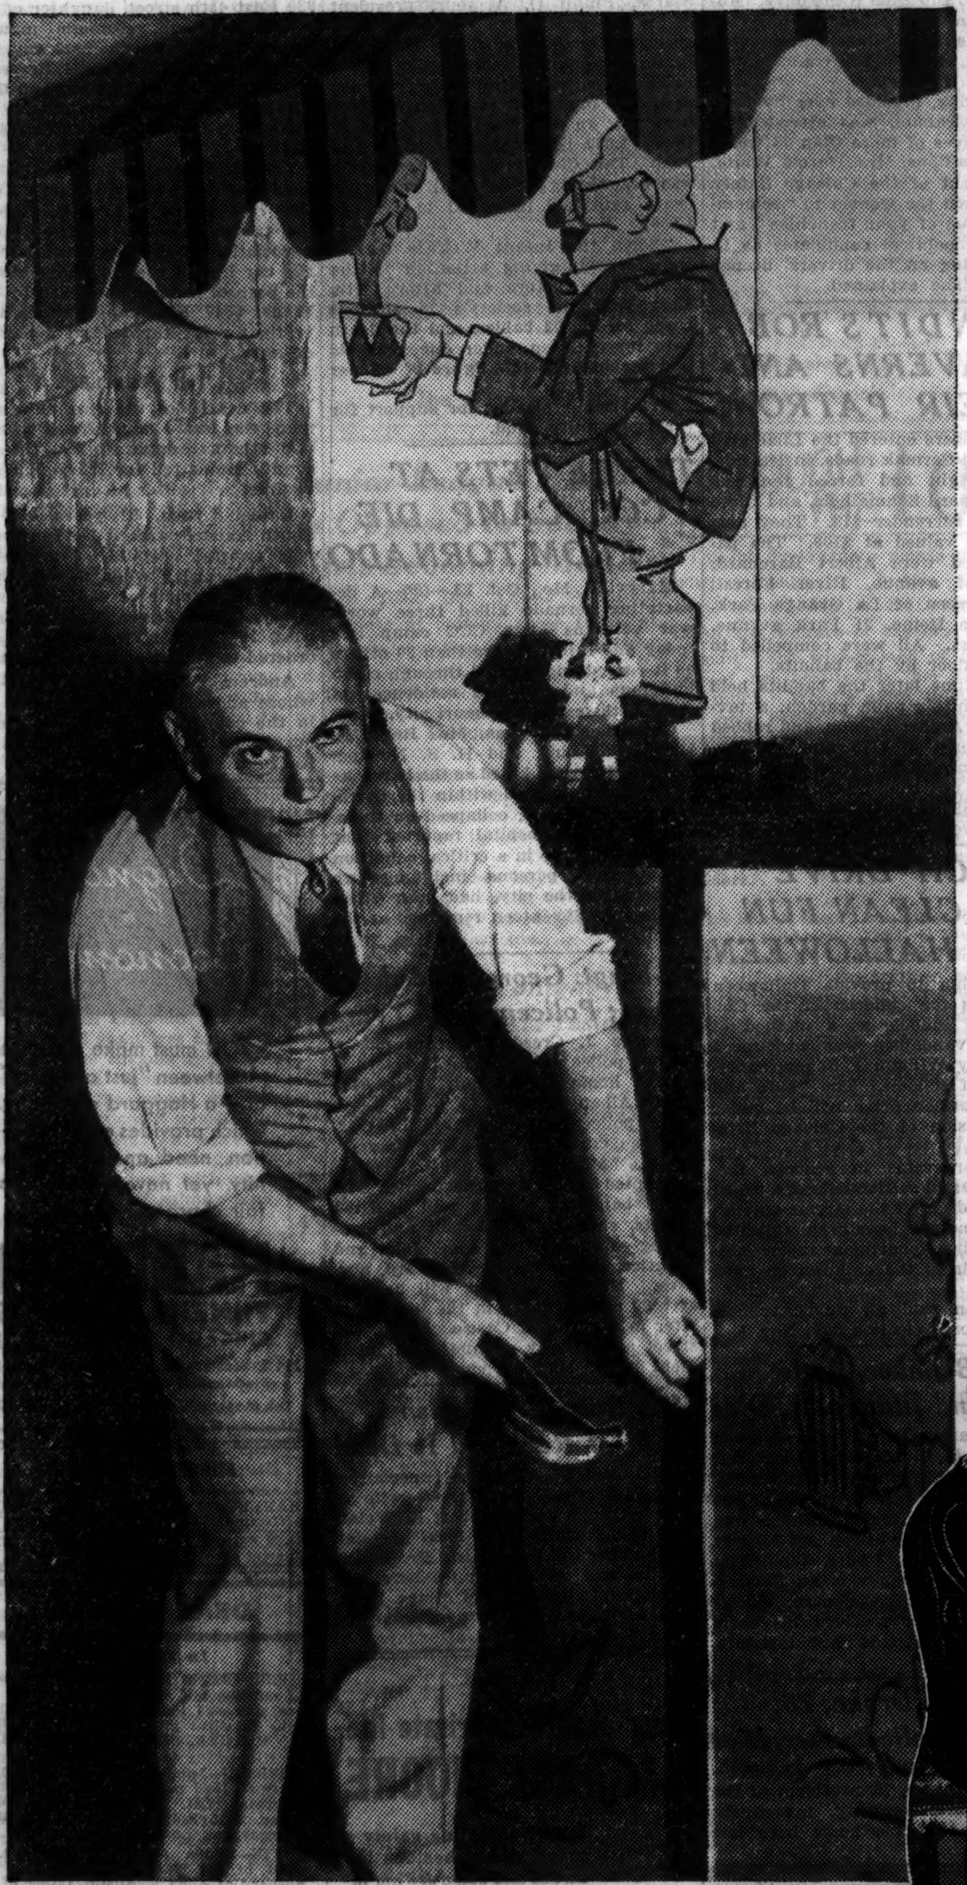
Gas heat is clean heat. Unlike old-fashioned heating methods, you don't have to be cleaning up the mess it causes. Walls and woodwork stay clean. Curtains, rugs—and even clothes—are never smudged with grime from fuel. You'll notice, too, that gas heat saves you many dollars in cleaning and decorating bills each year. And as far as labor is concerned, there is none. Get the facts now. Equip your home with automatic gas heat and spend a carefree winter.

We'll install gas heat in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You do not invest one penny for equipment. Try gas heat for one month, two months, or a year. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental—only $3 a month for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If at any time during the first year you find that you don't like gas heat—and you are the sole judge—we'll take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep gas heat, as so many thousands have done, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Don't delay. Call your nearest gas company office for full details of this liberal offer and for free estimate of the cost of heating your home with gas. Act at once . . . before the cold weather sets in.

YOU INVEST NOTHING
To Try Gas Heat

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.



Says Mr. Kopecky, "We're so completely satisfied with gas heat that we've forgotten that such a thing as shoveling ever existed."

4,000 WORK FOR YOU WHEN YOU LIGHT GAS

Every day, in the Crawford Avenue plant of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company, 2,000 tons of coal are converted to coke in the production of gas. The ovens are never cool, in all weather, day and night, the work goes on.

A thousand miles away, on the plains of west Texas, natural gas rushes up from the earth and is led through pipe lines to serve you in Chicago.

Within the city limits of Chicago, a 3,700-mile network of distribution mains is watched over constantly by a small army of experienced workers whose duty it is to keep this vast system working perfectly in every part.

More than 4,000 workers, on the job day and night in eight-hour shifts, are dedicated to your service—so that when you touch the valve handle on your gas range burner, the gas will be there.

Irving Aaronson's orchestra will be heard on the NBC airlanes from Chicago nightly beginning on Nov. 2, when he is to start an engagement at the Urban room of the Congress hotel. Henry King's orchestra, which Aaronson replaces, will go to Houston, Tex.

Countess Olga Albani of the Silken Strings program will sing tomorrow afternoon for the children at Angel Guardian orphanage on Devon avenue. . . . It's a girl in the household of Tom Baker, WBBM tenor. Her name is Elaine. . . . Red Grange will be a guest speaker on WAAF's Children's Magazine hour Saturday morning. . . . # TVA BACKS DOWN ON PROPOSAL FOR A FEDERAL RADIO

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The Tennessee Valley Authority today backed down from its advocacy of government control, ownership and operation of a national broadcasting system to compete with existing chains. This proposal was urged before the broadcast division of the federal communications commission last Friday by Floyd W. Reeves, TVA personnel director.

In a telegram to the broadcast division, Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the TVA board of directors, asked leave to withdraw the Reeves statement and restate the TVA position. The telegram carries an implied rebuke for Reeves, who had said he was speaking for the TVA.

"The authority has not urged or favored governmental administration of radio stations," Mr. Morgan said. "It is the opinion of the board that the educational and cultural agencies of the country should have a reasonable use of the radio facilities of the country, but that all such programs should be under nongovernment and nonpartisan supervision."

PRINCE CAETANI, EX-ENVOY TO U. S. FROM ITALY, DIES

ROME, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Prince Celasio Caetani, 57, former Italian ambassador to Washington, died today in a private clinic of meningitis.

The prince was well known in the United States. He studied mining in Columbia university, New York, then worked as an ordinary miner at Bunker Hill, Idaho. Later he was the consulting engineer of San Francisco. During the war he was an engineer in the Italian army and later was mayor of Rome, as his father, the duke of Sermoneta, had been before him.

He became ambassador to Washington in November, 1922, immediately after the advent of Fascism, resigning his post in 1924. He spent the last few years engaged in the great Italian project of the reclaiming of the Pontine marshes.

DRUNK DRIVER GETS 1-14 YEARS AFTER FATALITY

Leo Fucciolo, 20 years old, 2612 Newcastle avenue, a candymaker, was sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge John C. Lewe of the Criminal court on a charge of manslaughter. The charge grew out of an automobile collision on Aug 5 which resulted in the death a month later of Mrs. Mary Goldschmidt, 72 years old, 4219 North Damen avenue. Fucciolo admitted that he was intoxicated at the time of the crash. The accident occurred in Algonquin road, two miles west of Des Plaines.

HUNT FOUR WHO WOUNDED WIFE OF MERCHANT

The police yesterday were seeking four men who shot and wounded Mrs. Anna Morici, 60 years old, 144 North Mason avenue, at Ogden and Chicago avenues early in the day. They were undecided as to whether the gunmen were intent on robbery or kidnaping, or whether they were trying to kill Philip Morici, husband of the wounded woman and part owner of the Chicago Macaroni company. Morici, his wife, and their daughter, Genevieve, 27 years old, were riding in their automobile at the time of the attack.

Morici is said to be a brother of Antonio and Agostino Morici, wealthy wholesale grocers who were slain by gangsters at Ogden and Lincoln avenues in 1926. These killings have never been solved.

Mrs. Morici, who incurred a scalp wound, was reported to be recovering yesterday in the Wesley Memorial hospital.

URGES CHANGE IN TRAFIC FORCE TO CUT DEATH TOLL

A reorganization of the Chicago trafic force would cut the city's death rate from automobile accidents 50 per cent in five years, George W. Barton, safety engineer of the Chicago Motor club, said yesterday at a meeting of the women's safety bureau of the club.

The reorganization could be effected, he said, by detailing 250 additional policemen to full time trafic duty. Additional men are needed for outlying intersections, for the accident prevention bureau, and for the trafic motorcycle squad, he said.

The meeting, presided over by Mrs. Willis M. Graham, was attended by representatives of more than 75 women's organizations. Mrs. Harold White, vice president of the Chicago Safety council, urged the women to "remember the value of your franchise" and to question political candidates as to their standing on the drivers' license bill, which she explained.

7 BANDITS ROB 3 TAVERNS AND THEIR PATRONS

Seven robbers entered the Lilac grill at Wolf and Cermak roads, in Hillside, late last night and forced the bartender, Bernard Schmalholz, and three patrons to surrender $73. They also took cigars valued at $100. The patrons robbed were Albert Barchard, 1194 Forest avenue, River Forest; Martin Heizorn of La Grange Park, and Adeline Heine, 31 Park avenue, River Forest. All were compelled to lie on the floor by the bandits.

A short time later the bandits held up Paul Smith's palm garden, a tavern at 4177 Archer avenue, and robbed three patrons of $175 and jewelry. Twenty minutes later the same robbers held up the tavern of John Wizer, 4889 Archer avenue, and robbed eleven patrons.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR CLEAN FUN ON HALLOWEEN

A campaign to provide Halloween amusements for children of the Chicago public schools as a method of combating vandalism was announced yesterday by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. The "safe and sane" Halloween drive will be under the supervision of the Chicago Principals' club.

Special programs in schools, theaters, clubs, and settlements are urged to keep children off the streets on Halloween. Principals have been requested to invite police department representatives to address the children on good citizenship.

Mr. Bogan said all public schools would be closed election day, Nov. 6.

DEATH STRIKES TWO CO-WORKERS IN N. Y. IN FIFTEEN HOURS

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Within fifteen hours today death struck down two men who had served side by side on the personal staf of the late Andrew Carnegie and were still serving as officers in the corporation which is administering the Carnegie fortune for the advancement of knowledge.

John A. Poynton, a trustee of the Carnegie corporation, who was the last secretary of the late philanthropist, died of pneumonia at 1:50 a. m. His death deeply affected his more elderly friend and associate, James Bertram, secretary and a trustee of the corporation, who had appeared hale and hearty when he arrived at the corporation's office.

CHICAGO'S INFANT DEATH RATE HITS NEW LOW MARK

Chicago's infant death rate is the lowest of any large city in the United States, Philip D. Armour, president of the Infant Welfare society, told the special gifts division of the community fund campaign yesterday.

Mr. Armour ascribed the city's good record to organized attention to child health. "In 1902," he said, "109 of every 1,000 babies died in their first year. The Chicago Milk commission was organized, yet in eight years the death rate had increased to 122 per 1,000.

"Then the Infant Welfare society was formed, giving attention to the baby's care before and after birth. Last year the society's 18 stations cared for 10,302 babies, and the death rate for children under one year old had reached the low figure of 9.7 per 1,000."

Mr. Armour pleaded for support for the community fund.

St. Luke's Fashion Show Success Both as Benefit and Style Parade

Gorgeous Display of Clothes and Beauty Enjoyed by Afternoon and Evening Audiences.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

More money than last year's $17,800—1,680 in afternoon audience—fine for hospital but terrible for us—hardly room to wield a pencil, and I fear I'll have coffee down back—why don't girls who go to expensive finishing schools learn to walk properly?—should learn not to hump shoulders, stick out stomachs, and throw legs forward—all have lovely complexions—must wear braids in evening and perhaps jeweled hair clips—so many have on undergarments that wrinkle and others don't wear enough under form fitting gowns—thin girls awful in robes de style—heels higher than ever—must congratulate women behind scenes who make everything run so smoothly and professionally.

These notes don't tell the whole story, but they were the salient points that impressed this society editor, who has covered more fashion shows for charity than she cares to remember.

The St. Luke's show always is one of the outstanding affairs of every season, for it is managed so well that it has none of the earmarks of amateur productions and none of the audience ever feels that she hasn't received her money's worth after she has seen the gorgeous parade of fashion and beauty that is on display for the benefit of the social service and out-patient department of the hospital.

Outstanding Event From Financial View.

As far as financial success goes, it is the outstanding benefit of each year, too, for it always nets a large sum. In addition to the afternoon showing there is one in the evening at which the audience dines and dances. To list those who attended the two showings yesterday would be to copy the Chicago social register, for all of society was there. There were 650 in the audience last night, including the husbands, fiancés, and best beaux of all the models, and their proud fathers, too.

The entre-acte feature, a parade of old-fashioned weddings gowns, was very interesting for it included the gowns of nine members of well known Chicago families. It started with an exquisite cream colored taffeta dress, hoop skirted and bustled, that was the wedding gown of Mrs. Caleb H. Horner, who was married in Philadelphia in 1870. It was worn yesterday by her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Marshall Grosscup Sampsell [Margaret Carr]. Then came the bridal gown worn by Miss Grace Laflin when she was married to Elisha Paxton Whitehead in December, 1872. This gorgeous bustled heavy corded poplin silk gown with trimmings of tulle ruffles, real lace and dull frosted beads, was worn by Mrs. Louise E. Laflin Jr., grandniece of the original bride.

Nancy Avery Wears Joan Pinkerton's Dress.

The gown in which Miss Lolita Sheldon was married in 1891 to J. Ogden Armour was worn by Mrs. Solomon B. Smith [Barbara Neff]. It is made of exquisite satin brocade with trimmings of lace. With it as well as with some of the others were worn the original slippers. Other accessories and the lace veils still are in existence, too, in many cases and were worn yesterday, but the tulle veils had been replaced by fresh tulle, of course. Mrs. Dexter Cummings [Emilie Hoyt] wore the gown of white tulle and ribbon embroidery that her mother-in-law, Mrs. David Mark Cummings, wore as Ruth Dexter for her marriage in 1893.

Miss Nancy Avery wore the gown that Miss Joan Pinkerton wore in October, 1878, when she became Mrs. William J. Chalmers. It is of heavy cream taffeta and has a draped pannier skirt with a large bustle. Then came Miss Louise Forgan wearing her grandmother's wedding gown, that of Miss Louise Ackerman, when she was married in 1882 to George Meeker. It is a robe de style with a De Medici collar and bouffant skirt. Mrs. Douglas MacMillan [Betsy Hoyt] was like an old daguerreotype in a white Chantilly lace gown that had been worn by her grandaunt, Miss Emilie Lydia Hoyt, when she became Mrs. Frederick Fox in 1888.

Modern Wedding Concludes Feature.

More modern was the gown worn by Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr. [Elsa Armour], for it was her mother's, Mrs. A. Watson Armour's, who was Elsa Parker until 1907. The most modern and the only funny one was the gown worn by Mary Barnes when she became Mrs. Louis C. Sudler five years ago, for it is one of those unbelievably short-in-front-skirted models. Mrs. Sudler wore it herself yesterday, looking just as youthful and pretty as she did on that February day in 1929 when she was married in St. Chrysostom's church at one of the most fashionable ceremonies of that winter.

The wedding feature ended with a modern wedding in Renaissance style with Mrs. Edward L. Hersey, one of society's loveliest brunettes, as the bride, and two of the prettiest of the season's debutantes, Miss Caryl Ely and Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, as her attendants.

A few of the costumes that were especially smart and seemed to please the audience were the little brother and sister outfit modeled by Peter Roy Carney and Jean Carney; a stunning claret velvet robe with dropped shoulder effect, long sleeves, pillow muff of mink and Russian hat of the same rich fur, worn by Miss Nancy Traylor; and a gold lamé evening dress and jacket worn by Miss Jean Hyman. It was very tailored with wide directoire revers, and with it she wore a crownless hat of feathers.

The pale chartreuse green velvet evening gown topped with a boa of uncurled ostrich in a deep sapphire blue that was worn by Miss Muriel Picher was very lovely, too, and so was a deep gold rough satin evening gown and brown quilted shoulder wrap modeled by Mrs. Louis C. Sudler.

Josephine Templeton in Sports Costume.

One of the best looking sports costumes was worn by Miss Josephine Templeton. It consisted of a brown divided skirt and a rose and brown tweed jacket with hat of the same. The newest outfit of all, so our fashion expert whispered, was that worn by Miss Betty Brawley. It was a brown bagheera skirt with a short tunic blouse of bright red velvet banded in mink at the hips. The blouse buttoned with tiny buttons all the way down the front and was worn open to just below the neck. Miss Brawley carried a small muff of mink.

Every woman present must have longed to have the tea gown modeled by Mrs. Frederick Poole [Cornelia Fairbanks], for it was such a lovely thing, with an underskirt of real lace. It was made of French blue plaid taffeta, very becoming to her recently acquired red hair. Miss Louise Forgan wore the perfect debutante's dress, an exquisite Victorian creation of white tulle with dropped shoulders and trimmings of baby blue ribbons and pastel colored flowers. A debutante would prefer, however, the more sophisticated platinum gray outfit modeled by Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, we have no doubt. It was a stunning thing, with a coat of velvet trimmed with platinum fox and a lining of salmon pink, and a gown of taffeta.

Miss Dorothy Dawes Models Sealskin Coat.

Miss Dorothy Dewes' coat of sealskin and black broadcloth was greatly admired and so was Mrs. Fowler McCormick's red velveteen coat and muff. As charming and old fashioned looking as the cameo she wore at her breast was Miss Louis Brewer, who wore an ivory moire gown trimmed simply with yards and yards of braiding of self-color. Miss Jean Stevens in a black velvet skirt and Medici removable collar and a black taffeta tunic blouse was stunning, and so was Mrs. William K. Meyers in a black velvet gown with a hat which had a crown of green feathers and removable brim,—a very wide one—of black velvet.

Another outstanding gown was one of dove gray taffeta worn by Miss Alice May Dickinson. Mrs. Victor Elting Jr. and Mrs. C. Ross Cuthbert wore two of the loveliest evening outfits. Mrs. Elting's was of tobacco brown shot with gold, gown and cape, the latter edged with cross fox, and Mrs. Cuthbert's was of black velvet, the gown square necked in front and high in back, long sleeved, and the cape almost entirely of frosty silver fox.

Long Sleeves on Nightgowns Stylish Now

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The first of the shivering shoppers have discovered new warm, long-sleeved nightgowns. The designers really have done these things up in a good way this year. The models look like they have been cut from the same long silhouette as any of the slinkiest of satin evening gowns. True, the sleeves are long, which may damn them until you have seen them, but they are about the best looking practical numbers ever unpacked.

Ask for the printed soft flannel affairs with the skirt cut with bias seams, and set high in V formation into the yoke. The prints are lovely, soft pastel colors with tiny floral designs. They'll keep you cozily warm even on a windswept sleeping porch. At last sensible "flannels" have as much appeal as their silken sisters.

In the same shop are some printed silk sleeping and lounging pyjamas made with tailored trousers and knockout shirt tops, polo short sleeves, inverted pleat at the back, and three string bows down the front. They are feminine without being sissy, so the tailored gal will like them just as well as the rest of us do.

The velvet nightgowns are still going strong, with some new colors, the blush pink and a divinely flattering shade of blue being irresistible. A lot of them can be bought with picturesque lounging robes or hostess gowns, the colors and streamlines expertly matched.

Exquisitely made new French lingerie in sets, consisting of a lovely long lace trimmed nightgown, matching costume slip and panties are different because of a new color called champagne. The lace is as delicate as a moth wing and tinted to blend with the soft gleaming satin. And some other long sheer nightgowns have trains with lace ruffles to match the lace ruffles at the top. See the pale gray called moonstone, or the shell pink and the filmy black one trimmed with bistre tinted lace edgings.

Junior League Head Is Opposed to Society Girls Becoming Models

New York, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Distinct differences of opinion arose today at the annual meeting of the Association of Junior Leagues of America over society girls becoming professional models and competing with those who depend upon modeling for their livelihoods.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor of Little Rock, Ark., said she was definitly "against the practice of society girls modeling." She is president of the association.

Professional models have registered vigorous protests over what they term "muscling in" by socially prominent and wealthy women.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of our readers points out, and with considerable justice, the fact that we've been a bit overzealous about the welfare of the dry skinned woman. She wishes lack of oil were one of her beauty ills; her skin has too much. What's more, it is, to use her own words, muddy in color and weatherbeaten in texture. And she wants to know what to do about it.

Well, we're a rooter for a lemon cream and a lemon lotion, both products of an old and respected cosmetic house, for just that type of skin. We've seen the pair work complexion wonders.

The lemon cream is an ideal cleanser for the epidermis that is over oily or toughened. It has mild bleaching and astringent properties and it's beautifully refreshing. It's even refreshing to look at and fiddle with because its color is lemon yellow and its texture like velvet.

This appetizing cleansing cream is to be spread on as any other would be, always with the upward and outward motion, and with no cheating of the area around the temples or of the neck. If the skin of the neck is dark, as it so often is, a particularly good dose is in order.

When the cleansing cream is removed the lotion is patted on. And again you mustn't forget the neck. It's faintly stimulating and will tingle a bit—but that's just what the sluggish skin needs, so don't get excited. It doesn't have to be spanked in vigorously; smooth it on and let it dry. The lemon twins can be used as a night treatment or as a preparation for makeup; if skin texture and color call for it, use them both ways.

When the lotion dries you've got a very nice foundation. The war paint will go on smoothly and you'll look your sweet, freshly groomed self for hours on end.

A few weeks of this treatment with cream and lotion will restore your faith in your complexion. We've seen some of the toughest, dullest skins bloom miraculously under this régime.

BY MAE TINEE.

Good Morning!

[You'd have a fit if I told you I thought "Cleopatra" was funny, wouldn't you? All right, I wont.]

Fanfare, please. Orchestra! Cecil B. De Mille's sixtieth production is in our midst!

It has baths and barges. It has painted chariots, Roman senators, rabbles, clam shells filled with pearls, chorus girls as au nude as Censor Breen would permit, bluggy wars, sumptuous sinning, a sphinx, a baby leopard, peacocks, Great Dane dogs, city walls, trumpets and trumpeteers, the contents of ten crates of grapes brought by air mail from South America, Roman soldiers, regiments of Egyptians, a danseuse performing on the back of a bull, a complete assortment of tinware—helmets, wristlets, stomachers, etc.,—and, of course, Cleopatra, Caesar, Marc Antony, and the asp.

A REAL asp, too, by yumpin' yimminy! Though, after much thought and prayer, Mr. De Mille DID agree to the extraction of the reptile's poison sac.

When Mr. De Mille finally decided that the time had come for him to put forth another opus he clapped hand to brow and spoke deeply:

"We will do it RIGHT!" said he. And forthwith bought him a French military survey of Egypt in sixteen volumes.

Over this he burnt the midnight oil, attaring it with the pungent perfume of his imagination.

"Marble dust, phooey," thought Mr. De Mille, and went into the silence. He emerged all ready to meet the emergency. Instead of marble dust he would use frost, scraped from the studio's refrigerators. . . . Even so, I am told, was it. . . .!

And so he embarked on his version of the story of the affair between the siren of the Nile and her illustrious boy friends.

Ah well, it is all very lavish, very thunderous. And if, at times it seems also very funny, perhaps that is just as well. [Some time I would like to see Gracie Allen do Cleopatra.]

One scene that greatly intrigued the audience yesterday was the one where Caesar, surrounded by secretaries—I reckon they were called scribes in those days, snaps out abruptly, for all the world like any modern big or little business man:

"Take a letter to Marc Antony!"

And when, with shrug of toga-ed shoulders, he says to his guards re the body of a peeping Tom whom Cleopatra had neatly speared, "Take it away!" the observers shout with joy. How much more fun than if he had bellowed, "Remove yon carcass with all despatch!" or something else more truly Roman.

Well—Cleopatra enters Caesar's life all rolled up in a Persian carpet. She works her way with him and accompanies him to Rome. After he has gone unto his fathers by the route familiar to readers of Shakespeare, she beelines back to Egypt.

Comes Antony, completely surrounded by Great Dane dogs. [There are only two, to be exact, but they seem like more.] . . .

And so the action moves on, with crashing side issues of battles, unofficial orgies, ensemble numbers arranged by Cleopatra [presumably] which should make Busby Berkeley shiver in his timbers with envy, and continuous and diversified ado on the part of the 8,000 [?] extras, who look and act in their clanking accoutrements as if they were all set to attend the prize costume party of the season.

Though undeniably authentic as to fundamentals, there's a phoney ring to the entire production. It simply does NOT create illusion.

Claudette Colbert as Cleopatra is sweet, gentle, and a great kidder. Warren William as Caesar – just ISN'T—that's all. Henry Wilcoxon as Antony and C. Aubrey Smith as Enobarbus are the noblest Romans of them all.

Why does this picture remind me of the great opera singer who played John the Baptist in "Herodiade" upon an occasion when, with arms folded, head uplifted and rapt expression on his face, in his flowing robes he descended the stairs to be beheaded—and tripped on the last step. . . .?

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A BIG man wearing a blue smock and horn-rimmed spectacles, a man who bows slowly and speaks to visitors in a deep, leisurely, kindly voice, works all day long at wood carving in a studio in Jackson boulevard.

Woodcarver— Mime— Game— Complaint.

He is Carl Hallsthammer, Swedish woodcarver, who studied under Zorn, who did the life size figures of laborers exhibited in the General Motors building at A Century of Progress, who has examples of his work in the Chicago Art institute, in the Metropolitan museum, and in the museums of Dayton and Cincinnati and Los Angeles. John J. Mitchell owns his "After Dinner Speakers." Vincent Bendix posed for a portrait of himself in wood, sitting in his barber chair, a manicurist working on each hand, a barber busy at his hair. Most of Mr. Hallsthammer's smaller pieces are humorous, such as his "German Band." He worked a month on each of the life sized figures in the General Motors building, which were carved from solid blocks of wood seven feet high that cost $1,000 each. Recently Hallsthammer did a portrait in wood of Yolanda of the dancing team of Veloz and Yolanda. Sally Rand would make a wonderful model he says, but he adds he would rather portray the boobs watching her than Miss Rand herself.

* *

THE artiste of the week is Angna Enters, mime, who gives her "episodes" at the Blackstone theater Sunday afternoon and whose water colors are on exhibit at a Michigan avenue art gallery. Miss Enters was at the Casino at luncheon, an enigmatic, pale girl in black attire so unsmart that it achieved distinction, and at Alice Roullier's tea for her late that afternoon, where sherry and biscuits were handed about and guests really looked at the pictures. Miss Enters [her first name was given her by a numerologist and it spells the same forward and backward] had her first exhibition of paintings as the result of an art dealer in New York who saw her doing some costume designs on shipboard.

"Why don't you have an exhibition?" he inquired.

"But I've only got about ten," she told him.

"Well, we'll set the exhibition for six weeks from now, and you can do some more in the meantime," he suggested.

Six weeks later she exhibited 92 water colors in her first exhibition.

THERE was a party given in a Greek home the other evening that Nick John Matsoukas attended, at which the favorite game of "the buffos" was played. It means the "stupid" game, Mr. Matsoukas explains. Each one present told the story of a particular stupidity of his own, and each swore an oath to the Olympian deities as to the truth of the stories. The story that took second prize was the best, in our opinion. It was told by a Mrs. Vatsineas, who came to America to be the bride of a laundry owner. When the business was starting she went to the laundry daily to darn aprons and waiters' jackets. Each day as she waited for the street car she observed the green rectangular tin box on the corner with the inscription, "Help Keep the City Clean." Mrs. Vatsineas could translate only the word "Help." Not having encountered any beggars in America, she thought that here was her chance to do a charitable deed. So several times a week she pulled up the lid and dropped coins into the box.

HOW spoiled people are nowadays was illustrated by the patron of the Old Globe theater in Merrie England at the performance of "Dr. Faustus." He complained that the columns on the stage were too close together, and it was explained to him that the theater was an exact reproduction of the Old Globe theater of Shakespeare's day. Still he wasn't satisfied.

"Well, they could have made them so they would swing to the side," he said. "They could show how it looked originally and then when the show starts they could swing them to the sides, making the stage bigger."

Says Private Agencies Can't Meet Needs of Children

Many children are neglected in Cook county because private charity agencies are unable to care for them, C. V. Williams, superintendent of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, yesterday told members of the Central Lions' club in a meeting at the Hotel La Salle. "Last year the county board appropriated $325,000 to be used in the care of over 1,300 children. The Illinois Emergency Relief commission has been assisting the agencies in the care of 650 children."

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise becomes engaged to Maj. Ralph Stornack, nearly twice her age, due to the management of her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his prison warder. Rhoda met Maj. Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Rhoda writes Colin of her engagement.

INSTALMENT III.
A PRISON ESCAPE.

In half an hour Colin was able to ask himself what he was feeling. Certainly not anger! They might let him out in twenty years. No sane man could ask his love to wait for twenty years—to wait, too, for the pale ghost of a man that would come out of that living tomb.

Maj. Stornack—that face that had dominated the nightmare memory of his trial—now loomed over the future, cutting off hope. In the desert of years ahead, his own faculties slowly rotting, whenever he pictured Rhoda the face of Maj. Stornack would fall between him and the image of his love.

It was two days before he could bring himself to write an answer.

> "Dearest: Of course! Your people are quite right. In all sincerity I wish you and Maj. Stornack every happiness.

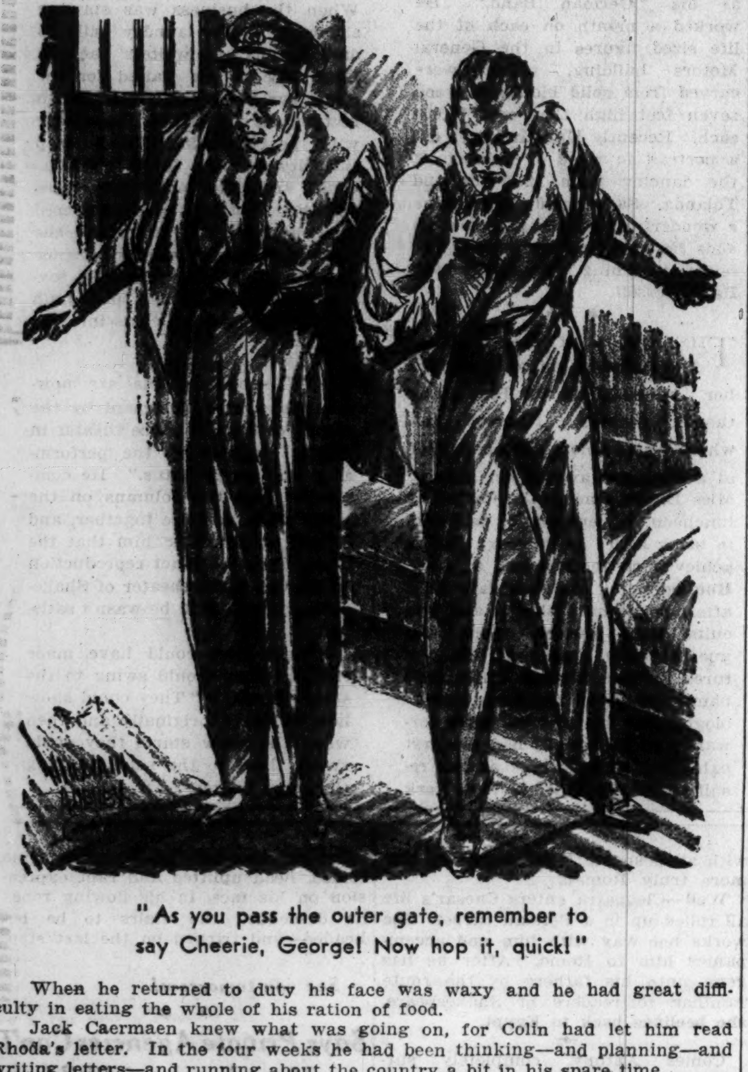
In all sincerity! Was it sincere? He could not for the life of him determine. There was the reasoning man—who could stand outside the whole personal tragedy—and wish Rhoda every happiness with Maj. Stornack—wish Maj. Stornack happiness, too.

But there was also in him the lover that was being tortured to death—and there was the primitive man who beat vainly like an animal upon the steel door—who fell on the floor of the cell, foaming, exhausted, muttering:

"Stornack—you perjured me into this living death—and you've stolen my girl. Stornack! Stornack, by God, I'll kill you!"

The doctor kept him in the hospital for a month, but couldn't do much with him, so let him go back to the ordinary routine. Soothing drugs had stopped the brainstorm. There were no more wild moments in which he thought that Stornack had put him in prison and stolen his girl.



"As you pass the outer gate, remember to say Cheerie, George! Now hop it, quick!"

When he returned to duty his face was waxy and he had great difficulty in eating the whole of his ration of food.

Jack Caermaen knew what was going on, for Colin had let him read Rhoda's letter. In the four weeks he had been thinking—and planning—and writing letters—and running about the country a bit in his spare time.

That evening he invented an excuse for entering cell number eighty-seven.

"Colin, listen to me," he whispered. "Rhoda is being forced into it by her mother. The last thing in the world she wants is to marry that fellow. She wants to marry you, whether she can live with you or not."

"The governor has given me a week of the fortnight's leave that's due me. The week begins on the second of June—which is a Tuesday—tomorrow fortnight. You and I are much of a muchness physically, if you don't look too closely—and no one looks closely at a convict."

"Jack—what do you mean?" Colin asked it as a question but he knew the answer.

"I mean that you've got to eat your grub and get your strength back—and sleep at night. You'll want all the nerve you've got and a bit of staying power, too. That's all for the present." . . . Then the official voice: "Now just get your broom under the bed next time, eighty-seven."

The prison doctor, noticing a slight improvement, put him on a special diet. But it was the sleep, chiefly, that restored his strength. The darkness of the years ahead was pierced now by a ray of hope. Hope fantastic enough, based on a schoolboy trick—like slipping out of the dormitory at night—and dressing up as a master.

But when it came to the point there was nothing schoolboyish about it.

At midday the convicts were marched back to their cells for the midday meal. As soon as his food had been brought to him—as soon as the door had been closed again—Colin whipped off all his clothes. He was keyed now to the highest pitch and it seemed, not five minutes as arranged, but five hours before the key grated in the door of the cell. At that moment he knew a sudden twinge of conscience. He was allowing Jack, his friend, to risk his honor and his career.

On the other hand there was Rhoda. He must not fail Rhoda.

As fast as he did so Colin put them on.

"The jacket's all right across the chest, but it sags a bit further down," whispered Caermaen. "But it'll do. Now watch out. This is the cell key. This is for the door at the end of the corridor. As you pass the outer gate, remember to say 'Cheerie, George!' Now hop it—quick!"

It all happened like the premeditated action of a play—already rehersed in whispers between Caermaen and Colin. For seven minutes Colin stood at the junction of the corridors. Then his relief came and nodded.

"I expect he's got my job," grinned Colin. "So long!"

That was easy. Childishly easy. There were too many warders at Mardlehurst, with too many changes for any one to be surprised at an unfamiliar face. Colin had anticipated a tight corner—paradoxically he would have been more at ease if he had had a narrow escape.

Through the iron door. A six foot space and another iron door clanged behind him and he was in the courtyard. Having gone thus far, for the sake of his sanity he must get clear of the prison—get clear to Rhoda. He walked briskly across the courtyard to the outer gate.

"Cheerie, George!" he said as he passed the lodge. There came a gruff answer and a moment later he stepped into the highway.

Easy again! He had walked out of prison as easily as a man might walk out of a theater. No hitch anywhere—the mad, schoolboy plan had come off.

He walked away from the prison and lost himself in a mass of mean streets. Then he felt in the pocket of his tunic and read "19 Harmoddle Villas. Lift the latch and walk straight in. No one will be there."

Ten minutes later he was dressed in one of his own lounge suits. In one pocket was a hundred pounds in currency notes. "If you're worried about this, you can pay me back through Rhoda," ran a note. In the other pocket was a sheaf of notes containing minute directions for his own progress and for ultimately getting back to the prison.

In obedience to the written program he went into the yard and from an iron-roofed shed took Caermaen's motor-bike, on which he rode to Oldham, where he turned into a new and smart looking garage and gave the name of 'Caermaen'.

"O, yes, sir! Your suitcase arrived last night—it's in your motor car which is all ready. . . . . Here is the receipt for your deposit. You can leave your cycle here. One of the men will take it to the back."

Colin took the receipt. The suitcase, he knew, contained all the clothing and toilet tackle he would require.

He stepped into a very serviceable coupé, not new but well within its first year. It was as good a car as he had ever driven and on the open road he let her show what she could do. The smooth speed was a tonic to his nerves.

Exercises Develop the Chest.

F. H. F.: For chest development, the habit of holding the chest up is the first step. Deep breathing exercises should be employed. Send along a stamped, addressed envelope for such exercises.

How to Perk Up the Mouth.

K. H.: The first step required to offset drooping mouth corners is to learn to relax the mouth. Then blow at an imaginary object. You can see for yourself what blowing does for the sides of the mouth.

Fred Astaire Barred from a Dance Floor

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Fred Astaire, whom they pay $5,000 a week to dance in the movies in London and New York, went to Catalina Island last week and decided he wanted to dance on Phil Wrigley's new floor of the island casino. With Mrs. Astaire, the former Phyllis Livingstone Potter, Fred walked out on the waxed surface as the orchestra struck up, but one of the handsome young island policemen held up his hand.

"Rats," thought Fred to himself. "They want to photograph me again, even over here, and just when I was enjoying myself."

"But," reports Fred, "I need not have flattered myself. The cop said to me, 'I'm sorry but the rules are you can't dance without a necktie.'"

The hero of "The Gay Divorcée," who is star in the most popular current film release, had been wearing one of those zipper shirts that open at the neck and include no place for a cravat.

Warner studio feels so positive of the lasting popularity of musicals that it has signed the song writing team of Harry Warren and Al Dubin for the next five years.

Young Doug Fairbanks has cabled his local manager to give out this word regarding his presence in Europe and his friendship with Gertrude Lawrence: "Please deny for me that any friendship or attachment has been responsible for my refusal of offers to return [to America]. Feel continuation of reports unfair and untrue. Could never lose my nationality but am centering affairs here because the field is new and open and holds bigger chance for me to make money. If I fail, will be first one to admit it." He also cabled that his film company in England is backed by 75 per cent American money.

Jane Darwell's human and lovable portrayal of Sailor, the brusk speaking but kind hearted head nurse in Jesse Lasky's film about nurses titled "The White Parade," was so reminiscent of the way the late and beloved Marie Dressler started her last ascent in films that many in movies are already speaking of Miss Darwell as they do of May Robeson, Louise Dresser, Henrietta Crosman, and Mary Carr.

Miss Darwell appeared in the first film Jesse Lasky produced in movies twenty years ago as well as his last one, but was completely out of the cinema firmament for many years. Several young actresses get the best parts they ever had and do the best film work they ever did in "The White Parade."

Homespun Design Lends Itself Well to Patch Quilt

Handcraft.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Our great grandmothers made patch quilts simply for warm bed coverings. Later, when many were weaving quilts, a clever woman in Kentucky returned to her first love, transferring one of her homespun designs to a quilt block and naming it "Handcraft." This is the type of pieced block which allows feminine ingenuity to display itself in color arrangement.

Violet Oakley to Show League Paintings Here

Artist Will Be Guest of Contemporary Club.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN the Contemporary club, distinguished literary study group, opens its fall season with a program and luncheon on Friday it will have Violet Oakley of Philadelphia, portrait and mural painter, for one of its guests. Acting upon a long standing promise to visit Chicago with her much acclaimed collection of portraits, Miss Oakley arrives today for a week's visit.

These portraits which are the result of her attendance at three sessions of the assembly of the league of nations in Geneva, will be shown here for the first time at a tea at 4:30 Monday afternoon at the Robert Breckenridge galleries, 912 North Michigan avenue. The League of Nations association is sponsoring this preview through a committee including Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, and Mrs. George de Tarnowsky.

A member of the National academy and an honorary member of the American Institute of Architects and the Circolo de Bellas Artes of Madrid, Spain, Miss Oakley has shown her collection at the Grand Central galleries in New York, St. Georges gallery in London, the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, and in Boston. Each one of these exhibits was a social event.

Here in Chicago Miss Oakley, a woman of middle age distinguished by an unusual coiffure, will show with the Geneva portraits two portfolios of Austrian prints of the murals she did in Harrisburg, Pa. These murals depict the life of William Penn and also show human progress in the development of the law.

The Friday club, a sister group of the Contemporary club, had its opening last Friday at the Fortnightly and the Fortnightly will have its first meeting of this season tomorrow. Before the Fortnightly purchased its handsome clubhouse at 120 Bellevue place all three of these organizations had clubrooms in the Fine Arts building. Mrs. Howard C. Phillips is starting her first year as president of the Fortnightly.

Plan Many Parties for Nancy Morse.

Miss Nancy Morse, daughter of Mrs. George A. Richardson, who will be married to Rodman Lent Hooker of California on Nov. 10 in Lake Forest, is such a popular young woman that not only many of her own friends but those of her mother are planning parties for her.

Thursday evening, Nov. 1, Miss Morse is giving her spinster dinner at home, and the following afternoon Miss Barbara Bastien, a bridesmaid, will give a tea and accessory shower in the apartment of her parents, the Alvin E. Bastiens, at 900 Michigan avenue. Miss Bastien is engaged to Frank H. Armstrong II.

On Thursday, Nov. 8, Miss Peggy Hixon, Miss Jean Wilhelm, Miss Ethel Johnston, and Miss Patsy Keith, whose engagement to Robert Macdonald was announced Monday, four of the bridesmaids, will give a large dinner-dance at the Shoreacres club, where Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will give an almost equally large bridal dinner the following night. Mrs. John Coleman, whose daughter, Miss Beth Coleman, is a bridesmaid, will give a tea after the church rehearsal on the eve of the wedding.

Miss Alice Berry of Nashville, Tenn., the maid of honor, will be here in time for the parties, and the bridegroom will arrive the Sunday before the wedding.

Robert G. Hooker, the bridegroom's father, and John Hooker and his bride, the former Josephine Dunham Clow, and Mrs. Robert Hooker Jr. will be among the Hooker clan here for the wedding.

Soft Accents of Velveteen

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

An outstanding feature of today's model is the raglan shoulders, and they are easy to handle. There are no sleeves to be set into armholes. A colorful angora woolen, in a reddish brown mixed with gray, and flecked with red, made the original model. Brown wooden buttons added embellishment. The shirtwaist collar was of brown velveteen, and this was repeated in the sleeve bands. Velveteen and the heavier silk crêpes are other materials suitable for this design.

The pattern, No. 3397, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Teacher Must Help Abnormal Child Adjust

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The child who is lame, or abnormally slow, or otherwise physically or mentally handicapped in a class of normal children presents a problem to his teacher. Her aim in regard to him must be twofold. She must help him to adjust himself to the class and to society in general for his own sake and she must also do it for the sake of the class. If she can accomplish this she is doing a great service for the handicapped child.

One of the chief things that the teacher of a handicapped child has to combat or neutralize is the effect of his home life. There he has usually been pitied or excused or protected and little has been expected of him by those who love him. Sometimes, too, his home life has been devastating to his self-esteem and development because his parents are ashamed that their child is not normal and he senses it.

The handicapped boy or girl's reaction to either of these methods of unwise handling will be various. One will be crushed and spiritless; another will draw into a "shell" to protect himself against close contact with people who have the power to hurt him; another will be vindictive and another bold and apparently conceited.

The handicapped boy or girl in school needs to be helped to a healthy mental and emotional attitude by: Giving him every chance to do whatever he can do at all and encouraging him.

By the uncovering of a special talent and giving him the chance to develop it.

By not showing enough sympathy to arouse self-pity or to remind him of his handicap.

Achievement will build up the handicapped child's self-respect, and the development of a special talent will compensate to him for his lack as compared with normal children.

Help in handling the mentally handicapped child and other valuable advice for teachers will be found in the booklet, "Mental Hygiene in the Schoolroom." Mrs. Bevan has obtained a number of copies from a noted child guidance clinician and will send them out at 15 cents a copy—in coins or stamps.

BY MARY MEADE.

Joseph of the multi-colored coat got a whole story to himself in the Bible—also fame which has lasted through centuries. He was simply smart enough to take the produce of the land when it was most plentiful and at its best and store it properly until the dry, barren months when, without this food, there would have been famine.

Compared with today's job of feeding the nation Joseph's task was a cinch. For in those days there were no dietitians and nutrition specialists to tell people to eat a great deal of fresh foods, protective foods with their elusive vitamins. Today we're really particular. We ask storage men to keep the bloom on apples and the spots off rosy cheeked pears, the sweetness in a great variety of nuts, and the delicate goodness in that so valuable and often overlooked food, the egg. And the storage men do it, almost miraculously. But all of this has been made possible only by our recent understanding of the use of clean, regulated cold for use in storage.

Not so many years ago storage methods weren't giving the results desired. So engineers and chemists, bacteriologists, food specialists, and service men were called in. Together they experimented, and studied, and researched until they were able to produce a healthy, controled cold. With it they have commanded time to stand still for perishable foods. The net result is that every day of the year we Americans can have fresh quality foods, all the bloom and flavor of freshness still on them, at prices we can afford to pay, even when the trees are bare and the biddy's cackle has frozen into silence.

Of all the foods protected for us in cold storage, eggs come in for the greatest amount of comment. This is natural enough, for more eggs are stored than any other one food. In the spring, when egg quality is at its best, carload after carload of eggs, inspected and carefully packed in new cases, goes into storage. About one-sixth of the entire egg crop goes into the clean, cold, fresh rooms which have had their season's scrubbing and airing in order that the most precious of all food qualities—flavor—may be guarded. Then in the fall, when the hen is taking her vacation and cool breezes whisper of frost and cold to come, these eggs come out of storage, their quality, flavor, and even their vitamins all there in that neat shell. Miraculous, isn't it? And the whole process helps to keep egg prices in winter where we like them.

For years there was a prejudice against cold storage eggs, some of it doubtless justified. But times have changed, so has refrigeration, and so have storage methods. Today only the uninitiated turn up uninformed noses at cold storage eggs and other cold-preserved foods.

One of the most expert cake makers in town insists on storage eggs for her exquisite angel foods and sunshine cakes in fall and winter. She says the eggs are the secret of her reputation. This clever woman has discovered in her own kitchen what scientists and bakery engineers have found out in the laboratory by precision experiments: the eggs that go into cold storage in the spring months make bigger and better cakes than freshly laid winter eggs. A wise woman, she, and wise enough to know that storage eggs are satisfactory for every purpose to which she puts them.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

MORE GRAND SLAMS.

Signing Off at Six with a Reserve Half Trick.

Still pursuing the subject of grand slams resulting from "one no trump, four no trumps," let us take the situation when opener has a bidable four-card suit.

Cl. K 10 x    Hts. A Q x
Di. K Q x x    Sp. A 10 x

The bidding goes one no trump, four no trumps, five diamonds, six diamonds, now you can bid only six no trumps because the diamonds are a duplication for grand-slam purposes. Your partner is likely to hold

Sp. K Q x    Di. A 10 x x
Hts. K J x    Cl. A x x

and where are you going to put your losing club? Though you have four primary tricks as opener, and though your partner has in no way overbid his hand, the leeway principle has discovered for you a duplication. You can name every high card in the responder's hand of every one that matters, for the situation would be identical if he held the queen of clubs but not the queen of spades. Change a small spade into a small club, or vice versa, and the opener could reasonably bid seven diamonds.

Risking the Grand Slam.

Had your partner bid five no trumps over your five-diamond rebid, now the grand slam is a fair chance. He has not got four diamonds; therefore he has four in some other suit. If that suit breaks, the black loser can be discarded. This is a good chance to work on, and seven no trumps by the opener would be an enterprising but not a foolish bid. There may well be a finesse against the queen if the responder's suit does not break. Only if your partner has precisely spades K x x x x and clubs A Q x or spades K Q x and clubs A x x x, will there be no play for grand slam. I would decide between six and seven by my situation in the rubber or tournament and by whether things were going well for me that day or not in my close decisions, whether boldness or caution seemed to be the ascendant policy.

An Almost Certain Grand Slam.

Sp. A J x    Di. K Q x x
Hts. A Q x    Cl. K 10 x

The opening bid with this hand is one no trump, four no trumps by partner, five diamonds by you. The responder does his little act next and bids five spades. Now the coast is clear. Your partner has one trick in spades, a half in hearts. He must have the two missing aces, and even if there is duplication in his contribution of low honors because he has the jack of hearts, he probably has the jack of diamonds or the jack of clubs in the remote event that such card is needed for an unexpected finesse. Visualize his hand as

Sp. K Q x x    Di. A 10 x
Hts. K J x    Cl. A J x

and you see that if the diamonds break, your only loser will be a club, which you throw off on the long spade. Only if diamonds fail to break need you take a finesse for the grand slam. Your partner may even have 4-4-3-2 distribution and so give you two discards. Bid seven no trumps. It is not a certainty, but don't wait for better chances than this to earn 1,500 or 2,250 points.

A Real Certainty.

Sp. A J x x    Di. K Q x x
Hts A Q x    Cl. K 10

and the bidding had gone as before —one no trump, four no trumps, five diamonds, five spades—now seven spades is not in serious doubt. A first-round ruff, five trumps in one hand against you, or an A x x x holding in diamonds in your partner's hand with that suit failing to break—these are the only dangers, and they are exceedingly remote. Incidentally, if your partner had spades K Q x x and diamonds A x x x, he should bid five spades over five diamonds, with the intention of bidding six diamonds if your reply were five no trumps, as he would expect.

Grand Slam in Straight No Trump Bids.

If you hold four and a half primary tricks and bid one no trump, and your partner's reply is four no trumps, all the aces and kings are automatically located, and probably the queens also. If a jack is needed, you can rely on him to supply it. Bid seven no trumps regardless of your suit pattern of your distribution. That score can only be topped by grand slam in a major with 100 honors or in a minor with 150 honors. With such holding you are unlikely to have bid a no trump originally and would anyhow bid your suit in accepting the slam try.

Odor Shatters Illusions of Personal Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As is being said all around, this is woman's golden year if ever she had one. Clothes are feminine enough to bring to his knees the most cynical of men. Perfumes, luscious scents, are now to be had at nominal cost. Everything is at hand to create substance out of bachelor dreams, really: picture frocks, fans on the way back, muffs, the rustle of wide skirted hems, a renaissance of woman at her most womanly. Isn't it so? Or, am I just a bit "hipped" on the subject? I don't think so. I see these lovely dreams a-walking down theater ailes, dancing at smart night clubs, at 5 o'clock parties, tea and cocktail.

In the last named haunts and at luncheon places the clothes and girls inhabiting them may not inspire a deam line of thought. Nevertheless the entire trend is gloriously feminine and I'm for it, eyes, heart, and soul. Women never got a thing trying to be what they were never intended to be. Real conquests have ever followed the line of stubborn resistance to everything that savors of male dress or behavior.

But, to get back on the track of today's intention which, in fact, is diametrically opposed by nature to the appeal theme above. It is of the one fatal thing about women that destroys, with a single intake of the nostrils, every bit of charm she may otherwise exude. We speak of unpleasant odors. We speak of it, heaven only knows, not because it is an agreeable subject to discuss, but simply because of the wonderful aids there are available today for prevention of perspiration odors.

Also, right now the topic is taken up because of the peculiarly perilous condition attending this ailment in connection with the wearing of woolen frocks, jerseys, sweater blouses, and so on. After a day's wearing of such a type of garment it must be hung near a window for airing. Do not put the garment into the closet immediately after it is taken off. This same rule holds for shoes worn by a sufferer. Leave them within air shot of a window after wearing. Stockings, it goes without saying, are washed out promptly after each wearing.

Make yourself familiar with one of the good astringent products which practically eliminate the nuisance in time. Also, one of the good powder deodorants that now are available for day and evening purse carrying for emergency drying of under arms and deodorizing any possible taint.

Light Hearted Tunes Heard at Stock Concert

Orchestra Launches Tuesday Afternoon Series.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Frederick Stock opened the Tuesday afternoon series of Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts along large lines yesterday. Among other important matters he gave another hearing of a number upon which he and Robert Schumann had collaborated.

Eighty-four years ago Schumann wrote a symphony in E flat which has come to take the name of "Rhenish." Thirteen years ago Mr. Stock, dissatisfied with its orchestration, rescored it entirely, making a few other changes as well. The result was something notable even in the notable répertoire of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

For Mr. Stock knows orchestration as few other persons in the world know it. What he did then was to take a soundly constructed, rather noble piece of music which, however, was somewhat dull and drab in its colorings and redecorate it so that it is brilliant, not to say lambent. In fact it was more than redecoration; it was so thoroughly and masterfully done that it was recreation.

Another act of high musical virtue was to put the Dohnanyi Suite upon the program. This is another work that never palls with repetition. Rather curiously, its final section starts with almost the same progression of notes that Schumann used to begin the final movement of his symphony, though it would be difficult to find any other resemblance between the two works, except on the general ground that it is a piece of high art. It was exquisitely played, and Mr. Stock called the several soloists to rise to their feet when their section was finished.

The light hearted and tuneful "Liebesfruehling" overture by another but unrelated Schumann, Georg, who is still alive, began the concert. The last five of the Brahms Hungarian Dances ended it. It was a gay program throughout, with hardly a solemn note in it.

Henry Weber, whose conducting is one of the reasons that a large army of people tune in on station W-G-N these nights, will be lent to the Chicago Grand Opera company for some of its important performances this season. Among his appearances will be "Lohengrin" with Maria Jeritza Nov. 26; a repetition of the work with Elisabeth Rethberg Dec. 12; "Tannhaeuser" with Lotte Lehman, Dec. 8; and "Salome" with Mme. Jeritza on a date not fixed.

Mr. Weber's appearances will put him into association with such other conductors as Gennaro Papi, Dino Bigalli, Leo Kopp, Isaac Van Grove, Siegfried Vollstedt, Ricardo Dellera, and Fausto Magnani. As previously announced, Fredeick Stock will make two special appearances as the guest conductor of "Tristan and Isolde."

"Frances and Joan have normal action and are gaining weight continually. I am thankful for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin."
Mrs. COLEMAN FLYNN
40-11 Mass. Ave., Cambridge, Mass.

HELPS WHOLE FAMILIES

Attention, MOTHERS, to what every doctor knows to be a fact, and what they say to avoid

If you have children who are occasionally constipated, you should know this.

If you are "not yourself" because of a constipated condition, don't blame it on your blood condition, or your age, but first try this treatment that safely relieves sluggishness in children or adults.

The Proper Treatment

You can't safely relieve the bowels with any medicine if you can't regulate the dose. To regulate dosage, you should have a liquid laxative. When necessary to repeat, you can gradually reduce the dose. And that is the secret of safe relief from a sluggish, constipated condition at any age.

A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of such natural laxative elements as senna and cascara, it forms no habit — even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help themselves.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative containing herbs, active senna, and cascara, and is the one widely used. You can always obtain it at any drug store. Why not make the "liquid test" which has attracted so much attention of late? It helps nearly everyone who tries it. It may make you feel better overnight. The children will like it, too; Syrup Pepsin has a delightful taste.

If you will risk sixty cents to discover the safe, pleasant action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, we believe bowel worries will be over for your household.

BE CAREFUL
IF any laxative is dipsetic (makes you thirsty).
IF it affects your appetite.
IF you need more today than the first time you took it.
IF it drains the system (by too watery a movement).
IF a bad "burning" is felt.
IF there is severe griping.

MINERAL STARVED GLANDS KEPT ME SKINNY FOR YEARS! ...BUT NO MORE...

Even "NATURALLY SKINNY FOLKS" Add 5 lbs in 1 Week or no cost!

Men and Women Everywhere Amazed at Results.

There is hope now for "Naturally Skinny" folks who can't seem to add an ounce no matter what they eat. A new way has been found to add flattering pounds of good, solid flesh and fill out those ugly scrawny hollows even on men and women who have been underweight for years. 5 lbs. in 1 week guaranteed * * * 15 to 20 lbs. in a few weeks not uncommon.

This new discovery called Kelp-A-Malt, a natural mineral concentrate from the sea, acts "3 ways in 1" to build flattering extra pounds of solid flesh. First, its rich supply of practically every needed body mineral nourishes the digestive glands that produce the juices needed to digest fats and starches—the weight building elements in your daily diet. Next, it contains an amazingly effective digestive substance that actually can digest 4 times its own weight in flesh building food. Third, Kelp-A-Malt's generous amount of natural iodine normalizes the overactive internal glands that keep down body weight—it prevents tissues from being too quickly broken down and consumed—burnt up by the body. Start Kelp-A-Malt today, and watch new pounds of solid flattering flesh quickly appear in place of scrawny hollows. Notice how much better you feel. And remember, results are guaranteed or money back. Kelp-A-Malt costs but a few cents a day to use and can be had at all

Losing Money, They Claim in Petition.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Small dairies launched a concerted drive yesterday to scrap the federal government's second milk marketing plan under which Chicago distributors have been licensed by the Agricultural Adjustment administration since last February. They contend that they are losing money under the provisions of the AAA license. Their move calls for a reduction in the price paid to farmers for milk, instead of an increase in the retail price to consumers.

Eighty-nine of the smaller dealers, most of them members of the Chicago Milk Dealers' association, signed a petition demanding that Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, "immediately cancel the milk license for the Chicago sales area." The petition was sent to Mr. Wallace and a copy was submitted to A. H. Lauterbach, chief of the dairy division of the AAA, at the federal milk administrator's Chicago office yesterday.

Ask Competitive Buying.

O. P. Black, business manager of the association, as spokesman said that when Mr. Lauterbach asked what the dealers wanted as a substitute for the license milk marketing plan his reply was "competitive buying."

Mr. Black said that the distributors who signed the petition were not consulted by the government representatives about the plan before it was put into effect. The plan, according to Mr. Black, was promulgated by representatives of the larger companies.

Mr. Black said that the government's plan has compelled distributors who signed the resolution to pay farmers such high prices that they cannot continue in business. It is the opinion of the dealers that farmers are not benefited under the AAA program because many dealers are from two to six months behind in their payments.

It would be necessary to charge consumers 12 cents, instead of 10 cents, a quart for milk to justify the present base price of $2.25 a hundred, Mr. Black said.

Meets Another Delegation.

Another group of milk distributors also met with Mr. Lauterbach at the Great Northern hotel, where they presented their problems. Before leaving for Washington yesterday afternoon Mr. Lauterbach promised the distributors' representatives that he would answer their appeal for relief today.

Another move in connection with the milk marketing question was the board of health's announcement last night that the regulations limiting the city's inspection service to the area within 200 miles of Chicago had been repealed. In making the announcement Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board, said that his inspectors would be available after Nov. 2 to inspect farms wherever necessary He said the city council has provided additional funds, at the suggestion of Mayor Kelly, to employ more inspectors.

STUDENTS SPLIT AT CHICAGO U. ON DISPLAY OF FLAG

Shall the American flag continue to be displayed in the University of Chicago chapel? The question is agitating the Daily Maroon, student newspaper, and a large number of students.

The Maroon precipitated the discussion by editorializing against the display. It argued that the university chapel is nonsectarian and presumably is not nationalistic, and is attended by students from many foreign countries as well as by Americans.

Other students defended the flag's presence as a display of the spirit of Americanism. The chapel council, theoretically supreme in questions of chapel policy, has ignored the controversy.

SIMON OLTMAN WINS WOODFORD HUSKING MATCH

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Husking 27.67 bushels in the allotted 80 minutes, Simon Oltman of El Paso won the Woodford county corn husking contest.

The victory gave him his fourth county championship, as he was victor in 1929, 1930, and 1933. The contest was held on the George Shuman farm, a mile south of El Paso.

Two county contests are scheduled tomorrow. They are the Vermilion county contest, on the James Hart farm, northwest of Jamaica, and the Marshall and Putnam match on the Ames and Krueger farm, north of Rutland.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Times Be Hard, Say Bees

October 23, 1934.

THE bees here on the farm apparently have had a hard time this last season trying to locate enough food to store in their hives. Although the experimenal farm does not maintain a large number of hives, Clarence Thurow, farm manager, has a few a short distance from his home. Yesterday the Rev. Fred Seiffert of Yorkville helped Clarence investigate to see if the workers had stored up any honey. When they opened the hives they found that the bees have been able to stock up just enough for their own use this winter. Clarence must do without.

Everybody on the farm is grieving over the disappearance of Buster, the friendly smooth haired fox terrier. Buster, a great pal of little Louis Thurow 3d, has been gone since last Thursday. The boys have searched far and wide for him.

Inasmuch as the dog never did stray far from the house, the searchers can only conjecture that he was killed by an automobile or stolen by some one.

Ever since this department reported the appearance of a fat big raccoon near Louis Thurow's house, Clarence has been receiving applications from 'coon hunters wishing to turn their hounds loose on the experimental farm. The boys who own the musical voiced hounds are quite willing to put in their time to conduct a little hunt for the animal that had Louis Thurow worrying about the safety of his chickens. As Clarence explained yesterday, however, he can't allow any 'coon hunting on the farm because the dogs would worry the cattle. All hunting requests must be refused.

The fields look more deserted every day here on the farm. Another field of corn [25 acres of Western Plowman] is being cut and wigwam-shaped shocks are taking the place of the standing corn.

Now that the big field of soy beans on the north bank of the river is out of the way, the boys are busy with another field on the south bank. It's taking a little longer to cure this second field of beans because of the recent rain. Yesterday the boys had to go out and turn over the soy bean hay so that it would dry out thoroughly. That wonderful spell of ainless, warm Indian summer weather proved a big help in the first 90-acre field.

ALTERIE IS FREED UNDER AN ALIAS IN HOTEL ARREST

Jack Devine, 49 years old, 2100 Lincoln Park West, and several others arrested in . police visit to the Auditorium hotel Saturday were dismissed for want of evidence by Judge Edward S. Scheffler yesterday.

Soon afterward Judge Scheffler learned that "Devine" was in reality Louis (Two Gun) Alterie, prohibition era gangster. The judge summoned Policeman Charles Clark, who arrested "Devine," to inquire why Alterie's real identity had not been revealed in court and why apparent favoritism had been shown "Devine" in disposition of the case ahead of others.

The policeman said he hadn't been sure "Devine" was Alterie, and had obtained early disposition for the case because he wanted to get home. Anyway, he said, the hotel had not wanted to sign complaints against the defendants. Judge Scheffler said he would regard the case as closed.

ADMITS TAKING 2D WIFE WHILE FIRST IS ALIVE

Dr. Charles D. Crawford, 35 years old, an optometrist with offices at 36 South State street, admitted to Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday that he had another wife living when he was married on April 24 to Helene Maria Newcombe, 20 years old.

Crawford was in court on his petition that his marriage to the Newcombe girl be annulled on the ground that he was tricked into it. He named William Geddas, an acrobat, as the man who stood in the bridegroom's place at the wedding, which he supposed he was attending merely as a witness.

Mrs. Crawford testified at the hearing yesterday that she had lived with Dr. Crawford at 1400 Lake Shore drive from 1930 to 1932 and that they were married last April 24. Justice of the Peace Frederick Weil of Cicero, who performed the ceremony in his home, pointed out Dr. Crawford as the bridegroom.

"Are you at present married to any one else?" asked Judge Finnegan. Crawford stammered out that he had a wife in Kentucky. On motion of Dr. Crawford's attorney, James M. Whiteside, Judge Finnegan continued the annulment hearing until Nov. 10.

RELEASE TABER AND KEHOE IN BAIL OF $200,000

William Taber, financial secretary of the street car men's union, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary of that organization, posted bond of $100,000 each yesterday on charges of murder and were released from the county jail. The bonds were posted by the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland and approved by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

Taber and Kehoe were indicted for murder after two persons were killed in strike violence against the Chicago Motor Coach company. The victims were Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, of the Hyde Park hotel, who died on Sept. 26 after she was struck by a steel ball bearing hurled through a bus window, and James Kelly, a bus dispatcher, who was shot to death on Sept. 27.

Anona E. Smith, 25 years old, colored, a school teacher of Galveston, filed suit yesterday in Circuit court for $15,000 against the bus company. She alleged permanent injuries to her eyes and ears from a missil thrown into a bus in which she was riding.

A jury to try three men on charges of malicious mischief growing out of the strike was selected yesterday before Municipal Judge Cecil C. Smith. The defendants are William Kunze, 35 years old, 3737 New England avenue; Fred Baumgart, 25 years old, 2735 New England avenue, and John Overstreet, 31 years old, 2449 North Leclaire avenue, all employes of the surface lines. They are charged with breaking windows of a bus.

WILD BIRD LIFE LOSING GROUND, OFFICIAL SAYS

Despite conservationists, protection of wild bird life is lagging, Harold C. Bryant of the national park service at Washington told a meeting of the American Ornithologists' union in the Field museum yesterday. Mr. Bryant spoke as chairman of the organization's committee on bird protection.

"Baiting, the use of live decoys, and the staggering of the shooting season," he said, "are abuses that we must meet with the strongest opposition."

To reduce the number of water fowl killed this year the number of shooting days was limited to thirty, Mr. Bryant related, but the permission of a "rest day" allowed each state to select its own shooting days, so that some states spread their season over a period of fifteen weeks.

The ornithologists commended the museum's exhibit of North American birds. Last Monday the nine year task of rearranging this display was completed. The museum's total bird collection now contains 100,000 skins, according to Rudyard Boulton, associate curator of birds.

Shoots Self, Following Wife and Son in Death

On Sept. 28, 1932, his wife, Anna, 55 years old, ended her life in the Oak Lawn cemetery in Homewood Park beside the grave of her son, Julius, who was killed in an automobile accident.

HEEKIN, SMITH RETURN TO OHIO STATE SQUAD

Buckeyes Prepare for Purple Passes.

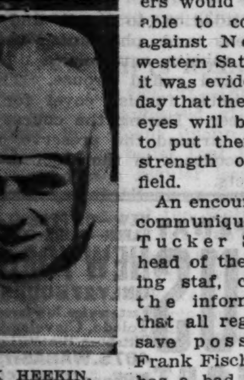
Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Despite early reports that several Ohio State players would be unable to compete against Northwestern Saturday, it was evident today that the Buckeyes will be able to put their full strength on the field.



DICK HEEKIN.

An encouraging communique from Tucker Smith head of the training staf, carried the information that all regulars, save possibly Frank Fisch, who has a bad shoulder, would be as "healthy as necessary" by Saturday.

Heekin, Smith Back.

Tonight, when the team resumed its practice, Dick Heekin and Jack Smith were back at their half back posts. Merle Wendt, promising sophomore end, was hobbling with a turned ankle and Guard Inwood Smith, was slowed up with bandages on his legs. Otherwise, the team was in good shape.

The back field which probably will start Saturday had Tippy Dye, at quarter back, Heekin and Smith at the halves and McAfee at full back. Bettridge worked out in both combinations.

Stress Pass Defense.

Buzz Wetzel, one of the leading full back candidates, who was not out yesterday because of illness, returned to uniform today.

There is no disposition on the part of coaches or players to take Saturday's game lightly. Northwestern, despite a line as green as Ohio State's, has a dangerous short passing game with George Potter and Wally Cruice passing and considerable time will be taken this week to rig up a defense for this type of maneuver.

N. U. REHERSES PLAYS.

Particular stress was placed on the forward pass in the scrimmage that concluded the day's workout. George Potter completed aerials to ends and half backs in all sections of the field. Although the Wildcats have concentrated on the running game since their return from California, the forward pass still is regarded as their chief offensive weapon.

Running Attack Stressed.

However, Coach Hanley is anxious to establish the running attack and believes that it can be made to go once the ball carriers receive adequate blocking. To accomplish this, Harry Leeper has been shifted from left to right end where his ability to block tackles will be used to better advantage. The left flank will be occupied by George Wilson, aggressive sophomore.

Potter will switch positions with Duvall at full back, the latter taking over the blocking quarter back position. This change will give Potter an opportunity to do more ball carrying. If Don Geyer, sophomore back, recovers sufficiently from his leg injury he will alternate with Duvall at quarter.

Joe Chambers, veteran tackle, who has been unable to do much active work since the Iowa game when he received a shoulder injury, will be back in the starting lineup Saturday. His presence will give the Wildcats much needed experience at left tackle. In addition he is the best field goal kicker on the squad, being effective from nearly any spot within the 30 yard line.

MAROONS TO TEST RESERVES.

The Missouri game at Stagg field Saturday will mark the close of the first half of the season for the University of Chicago Maroons. As the schedule has worked out, this first half will have provided splendid preparation for a second half which promises to be bitterly fought against Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota, and Illinois.

JAY BERWANGER.

Good fortune with regard to the health of the squad may not continue, Coach Clark Shaughnessy fears, and he continued yesterday to work on the development of reserves. If it is possible, and it seems that it will be, Shaughnessy plans to give the reserves much work against Missouri. He probably will give Sam Whiteside, now a guard, a session at the center position, meanwhile moving Meigs up to guard. An adequate understudy for Capt. Patterson at center has been one of his particular problems.

There is a fairly capable substitute for every regular. The only irreparable loss by injury would be Jay Berwanger.

MINNESOTA'S GOPHERS.

BY VIRTUE of victory over a strong Pittsburgh eleven, Minnesota, considered to have the strongest material in the Big Ten, looms as possible conference and national champion. Having vanquished North Dakota State, Nebraska and Pitt, Gophers now take on conference foes on successive Saturdays, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, Chicago, and Wisconsin. Illinois and Purdue do not meet the Gophers. They could become co-champions.

Coach Bernie Bierman no doubt wishes his Gophers were not so highly regarded. All opponents will point for the favorites. There have been other years when Gophers appeared strongest. Somewhere along the line there was one "bad day" with tie or defeat to annihilate aspirations. Naturally, these five teams to oppose Minnesota hope there will be another bad day and that it may be the Saturday on which they play. Otherwise they concede brighter chances to the Gophers.

Before the season opened Nov. 3, when Michigan plays at Minneapolis for the Minnesota homecoming crowd, was picked as the date on which the Big Ten title might be determined. Then came Michigan's collapse. Wolverines are out of championship calculations, although they haven't given up hope of downing other rivals.

Then Iowa loomed by virtue of impressive victory over Northwestern with Oze Simmons starring. Iowa faded against Iowa State in a surprising upset after holding Nebraska even previously.

On form no team on Minnesota's schedule should turn back the Gophers, a team of power, speed and replacements. Against such an aggregation Chicago, which has set a new Maroon record since 1927 with two conference victories, does not appear to have sufficient reserve power to overturn the Northmen. When told that Minnesota had five complete elevens ready for action, with the first two about equally good, Coach Shaughnessy remarked dryly, "It's a good thing for us the rules allow them to play only eleven men at any one time."

Of Minnesota's five Big Ten games, Michigan and Chicago, for widely divergent reasons—Michigan for its defense, Chicago for its attack—at this time seem to offer the best chance of pressing the so-called Thundering Herd.

EASTMAN, LITTLE LEAD POLL FOR SULLIVAN AWARD

Track Star and Golfer Have Good Season.

New York, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The most highly prized of all amateur athletic awards, the James E. Sullivan memorial medal for outstanding achievement and character is likely to go to the far west this year, with Ben Eastman and William Lawson Little ranking well ahead of the field of candidates so far put forward in a nationwide poll.

Competition for the medal, which is awarded annually by the Amateur Athletic union of the United States on a voting basis, has been reopened to include representatives in all American amateur sports for 1934. Last year, when Glenn Cunningham beat his mile running rival, Bill Bonthron, by one vote, candidates were limited to the branches of athletics controled by the A. A. U.

Wins Two Titles.

Now, however, with the contest wide open, Little has a chance to gain the same distinction that went to Bobby Jones, who was voted the Sullivan medal in 1930 after completing his "grand slam" in golf. The Californian registered only a "little slam" this year, by capturing both the British and American amateur golf championships, but his achievement ranks among the greatest for 1934 in any branch of amateur competition.

Nominations do not close until Nov. 15.

Eastman's foot-racing comeback this year was so effective, both at home and abroad, that he wound up by having five world records officially credited to him, ranging from his 440-yard mark of 46.4 made in 1932, to his amazing 880 in 1:48.4 made at Princeton last June.

Eastman Stands Out.

Eastman's achievements stood out in a campaign that included some amazing track and field feats by such stars as Cunningham and Bonthron, Jack Torrance and Glen Hardin, the Louisiana state record breakers. Cunningham's feat in setting a new mile record undoubtedly will mean a substantial vote for the great Kansas runner again, but it would be contrary to precedent to give him the award again.

Other names put forward, from which a list of ten will be selected for the final voting, include Jack Medica of Seattle, holder of three national swimming titles; Virginia Van Wie, three times American women's golf champion; Leonore Kight of Pittsburgh, women's swimming star; Helen Jacobs, three-time national women's tennis champion; Winston Guest, eastern polo ace, and Clarence Demar, the daddy of American marathon runners.

BATTAGLIA STOPS BUD SALTIS IN SEVENTH ROUND

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Frankie Battaglia, hard punching Winnipeg middleweight, scored a technical knockout over Bud Saltis, Chicago, in the seventh round of a ten round windup tonight. Battaglia sent the Chicagoan to the floor twice for eight counts in the fourth round and bombarded him viciously up to the seventh, when the referee halted the bout.

Olin Dutra Joins Staf of Miami Biltmore Club

Miami, Fla., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Olin Dutra, Californian who holds the national Open golf championship, today signed a contract to join the winter staf of the Miami Biltmore Country club. He will be associated with Paul Runyan, New Everhart, Louis Costello, and Mike Brady.

Battalino Wins Technical Knockout Over Cocoa Kid

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Bat Battalino of Hartford, one time king of the 126 pound battlers, scored another victory in his comeback campaign when he won a seventh round technical knockout over Cocoa Kid, New Haven Negro, before an overflow crowd at Foot Guard hall tonight.

Talking It Over

MAYBE you think six day riders are numb above the shoulders, but bursts of artistic temperament are not infrequent. . . . One of the stars, Al Letourner, threatened to withdraw his entry in the recent Detroit race because one Blackie, a slugger for Impresario Harry Mendel, left his suitcase in the French rider's room with a note asking him to take it out to Olympia, where the race was to start. . . . "I am fainting," Al screamed over the phone to Mr. Mendel. . . . "I, the world's motor paced champion of 1934, 1933, and 1932, am asked to carry the satchel for thees Blackie. Such insult!" . . . It took Mendel half a day to quiet the prima donna. . . . No team coached by Bernie Bierman of Minnesota ever has lost to an opponent which Bierman scouted. . . . A more than ordinary friendship seems to have sprung up between Fred Perry, British tennis champion, and Loretta Young of the films. . . . The last name in the Champaign-Urbana telephone directory is that of the most widely known resident of the two cities—Robert C. Zuppke. . . . At the December meeting of the Western conference Michigan will make a strong bid for the Big Ten outdoor track meet, which has been held at Northwestern in recent years. . . .

BEATTIE FEATHERS.

AL LETOURNER.

Al Campion and Jim Crandall, who have been custodians of the press gate at Wrigley field since memory of man runneth not to the contrary, will not be around next spring. . . . They have lost their jobs. . . . Dave Myers, New York university's Negro guard, was placed on an all Jewish eleven by a New York newspaper last fall. . . . Not that it makes any difference, but this department believes that Beattie Feathers of the Bears is about the best ball carrier professional football has developed. . . . Paul Thompson, wing player who is holding out for more dough, isn't worrying about reporting to the Blackhawks. . . . He owns the Calgary club in the Western Canada pro league and intends to operate that sextet, if his negotiations with Maj. McLaughlin fall through. . . . Among the freshman basketball candidates at the University of Chicago is Paul Amundsen, who is 6 feet 5⅞ inches tall. . . . He came from Bowen High school. . . .

Interest on the bonds of the University of Pittsburgh stadium amounts to $119,000 annually. . . . The Union Trust company of Pittsburgh details men to each football game to see that due care is taken by the athletic authorities not only to collect the interest money but to provide whatever is possible for the retirement of the bonds. . . . Receipts from athletic events at the University of Chicago were $50,000 short of expenses for the athletic program in 1932 and 1933. . . . The athletic department borrowed money from the university to make up the deficit. . . . William Schmidt, Chicago turfman, started the season with eight steeds in his stable. . . . He sold one and five were claimed from him, so by this time you know that he is winding up the campaign with only two horses in his barn. . . .

The Illinois team which started against Ohio State was entirely home grown. . . . John Fischer of Lander, Wyo., a substitute, was the only out of the state player who got into the Illinois lineup. . . . Bill Renner, Michigan's star passer who has been out of the game all season, may withdraw from the university, it is reported, so that he will have a complete year of eligibility in 1935. . . . Ned Bartlett, Chicago's fast stepping half back, gets $5 for every touchdown he makes. . . . His father is the donor. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—More than 40,000 seats were sold for the Notre Dame-Princeton game. . . . The duke and duchess of York watched the Giants nose out the White Sox, 3 to 2, in London. . . . The Maroon-Ohio State game topped the list of big games in the west.

Judges Err; Pay Off on Wrong Horse

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The difficulty which faces judges at a race course was illustrated at Empire City today when a mistake was made in the placing of the third race, because of a similarity in colors. This resulted in a horse which finished next to last in a field of nine being placed third.

After about an hour the judges made the following announcement: "For proper distribution of money in third race, please correct placing to make Little Argo third instead of Master Time. Error due to mistaken identification of colors, no numbers showing."

Pay Off on Wrong Horse.

Before the result was altered the next race had been run. This, of course, caused bets to be paid off on the incorrect placing. John Cavanaugh, in charge of the betting ring, gave out a ruling that the payoff on Master Time must stand as the official board had been posted.

The error was called to the attention of the judges by chart callers, but they did not acknowledge it until too late.

Little Argo's silks are gold, black cross sashes with gold and black striped sleeves. Master Time's colors are gold and black halves with black sleeves and cap. The finish was a close one, the first three horses being heads apart.

Master Time Way Back.

It is probable that the error would not have been noticed by so many persons if Master Time had not finished so far back that there was plenty of time to see him straggling across the line after the excitement of the close finish.

Master Time was well noticed because he had been well bet on. Moreover Little Argo was the leader inside the eighth pole and was just beaten by Second Guess and Ever True, both of which passed him in the last few yards.

Fight Features Final Game of Touring Deans

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A free for all fight today further enlivened a ball game in which the fans were already royally entertained by the Deans, Dizzy and Paul.

The Dean team, a local pickup outfit, was defeated, 4 to 3, by the Pittsburgh Crawfords, fortified by players from several other clubs in the colored National league.

In the last of the fifth, with the Dean team leading, 3 to 1, Vic Harris, center fielder for the Negro nine, was safe on a bunt and went to second when Catcher George Susce's throw was wide to first. Dizzy raced in from center field, where he was playing after pitching two innings, pointing out to Umpire James Ahearn that Harris didn't touch first base. The umpire called the runner out.

Harris walked straight in from second, picked up a mask, and is alleged to have cracked Ahearn on the head. That started the firing with men on both teams "mixing it" and the spectators vaulting into the park to join in the rumpus.

The game wound up the post-world series barnstorming tour of the Dean brothers. They explained they are tired of "fiddling around the country playing night games and taking chances."

Only one more week, to be spent in vaudeville along Broadway, and the star hurling duo who gave the St. Louis Cardinals a world baseball championship will head for home and you can take it from Dizzy, the older, "we're gonna make ourselves scarce."

NOW THEY'LL PUT HUEY'S NAME IN A COLLEGE YELL

Cash to Students Assures Long Rooting Body.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long appeared before the students of Louisiana State university today with his pockets stuffed full of money. The wrappers at least on his five or six rolls were hundred dollar bills.

In a speech he told the boys, "I'm going to take every student of this university to see old L. S. U. lick the tar out of Vanderbilt in Nashville next Saturday. I know a lot of you boys are poor boys like I was and ain't got the dough to make the trip. Any of you that haven't got the mazuma come to me privately and I'll let you have the money.

Promises to Supply Eats.

"It will only cost $6 a round trip car fare and I'll see that you get plenty to eat. There ain't going to be no sleepers. All of us common folks are going to ride in chair cars. There will be several trains with a total of fifty coaches."

The students didn't wait to see him privately. They rushed the senator and it kept him busy handing out the dough.

He said, "You know I'm used to handing out the dough. The good old state of Louisiana has had plenty of dough since I have been running things. I am only lending you this money and you've got to pay it back."

He's a Counter Attraction.

When Long's cash had run out he sent messengers to his friends in Baton Rouge and surrounding territory asking them to send him more money.

Then he said, "We sure are going to have a big time, showing those Tennesseeans how football ought to be played. I am going to lead the band and walk alongside our big drum major. You know, boys, I'm about as big an attraction as the football team. There'll be just as many men and women in the stadium at Nashville next Saturday to see the Kingfish as there will be to see the football game."

Too Many Smiths.

Applicants for money kept Long busy until dinner time. He will continue to receive petitions for funds until it's time to leave for the game.

"We expect to have about 2,500 or 3,000 on the trip," Huey remarked.

Those who received money said that they were required only to add their names to a long list of signatures on a sheet of paper. No check of their identity was made. It was said that Long complained of the number of "Smiths" and "Joneses" on the list. It was estimated that about 500 received money today.

HARVEY WOMAN SETS HORSESHOE TOURNEY PACE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Caroline Schultz of Harvey, Ill., national women's horseshoe pitching champion, turned in a better score today than any of the men competing for qualifying places in the national tournament. Her score of 388 was 27 points higher than that of Ferdinand Isais of Los Angeles, California champion.

In one of the feature matches, Guy Zimmerman, Sac City, Ia., defeated Dean Brown of Riverside and established a world's record for consecutive double ringers with 28. The previous record was established by Jim Leckey of Phoenix, Arizona state champion, who had 25.

Discovery, Handicap Star, Is Retired for Season

Laurel, Md., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Discovery, 3 year old son of Display, racing under the silks of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, has been retired for the season, his owner announced today. The colt failed to recover satisfactorily from an attack of fever he suffered Saturday after winning the Maryland handicap.

Oak Park Boy Named Harvard Freshman Captain

YOU TAKE THE SYSTEMS; WE'LL TAKE MAN POWER

Material Wins and Loses Football Games, Not Style

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In the recent published argument between Pop Warner of Temple university and Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, over the merits of the so-called Notre Dame system of football offense, Warner, veteran of 40 seasons, covered the whole question in a final, pithy paragraph when he said superiority of material meant more than the style or system of attack.

While Warner attempted to prove the present prevalence of the Notre Dame system was due to the genius of Knute Rockne, rather than to the system of offense, and Stuhldreher, loyal to Notre Dame tradition inculcated ten years ago when he was quarter back for the Four Horsemen eleven, defended the Notre Dame system, Warner admitted, and Stuhldreher indirectly acquiesced, that men, not systems, are all important.

It also follows that it is more important to fit the style of play to material than give a definite system of play to any squad only because that system appeals to the coach and has been particularly effective elsewhere.

Blocking, Tackling Are Most Important.

The public in recent years has become familiar with systems of attack such as Notre Dame, Warner double wing back, the single wing back, Michigan's short kick formation, balanced and unbalanced lines, and a flanking back. There are definite reasons for using any one of these offensive formations and effective arguments why, under given circumstances, one is superior to all others.

There also are positive arguments why any one of these styles of attack should never be used with a group of players whose talents do not fit it and whose abilities might bring greater results if better adapted.

All coaches admit the component parts of offense are power, speed and deception. All are subject to the efficiency of blocking by the interference, and the running and plunging abilities of the ball carriers. The Notre Dame system, to revert to the Warner-Struhldreher argument, emphasizes speed first. The double wing back system emphasizes power, since the efficiency of the runners, no matter how fast they may be, depends on the threat of the full back plunge to keep the defense from spreading to check the lateral runs and cut backs of the wing backs.

There is no logic in attempting to prove superiority of the Warner system over the Notre Dame system, or vice versa, by pointing to teams which have had successful seasons using one or the other. For every team using the Notre Dame style there may be another equally successful team using the Warner style. Material—man power—and the caliber of the opposition are fundamental causes for success.

You Must Have Diversified Attack.

No double wing back offense without a tremendously powerful full back ever won consistently. No Notre Dame team ever won consistently without fast runners and exceptionally effective blocking ends. Warner's greatest Stanford team had Ernie Nevers, whom Warner has called the greatest football player of all time. Notre Dame's great teams had tremendously effective half backs whose dashes into the line were made possible by individual blocking, and when one offensive player can block a defensive player successfully he has reached the goal of all football men.

In attacking the theory that any one system of football offense embodies all the advantages, let's point out that no team ever achieved continued success merely by plunging, by passing, kicking, or by running. One of these may predominate, and probably does, but the team must be equipped to attack in any fashion.

The defense shifts to meet the strongest weapon of the offense or to meet the anticipated weapon. For instance, Northwestern demonstrated against Marquette that it had a good passing attack. But without a fundamentally strong running and plunging attack, Northwestern has found that the defense has shifted to meet passing, and quite naturally the passes are more difficult to complete.

Correspondingly, if a team has in-

Board Meets Friday to Elect Head.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

P. K. Wrigley, multi-millionaire head of the Cubs, yesterday received a message from W. M. Walker, president of the Cubs since last Jan. 10, which read:

"I hereby tender my resignation as president of the Cubs and as a member of the board of directors, effective today."

P. K. WRIGLEY.

Mr. Wrigley, who promptly accepted the resignation, and announced he expected to succeed Mr. Walker as the club's president, was not surprised. On Monday he had purchased 1,374 shares of Cub stock held by Mr. Walker, increasing his own holdings to 7,455 2/3 shares.

Before Mr. Walker's withdrawal from the Cub organization he was the largest stockholder excepting Mr. Wrigley. He also was the veteran stockholder, his interest dating from the dissolution of the Federal league in 1914, the Chicago team of which had operated at what now is Wrigley field. When the Cubs were moved from the west to the north side Mr. Walker became one of the principal owners.

Wrigley's Holdings Near Million.

Since 1925 the Cubs have been more or less a closed corporation, though there have been some swapping in small parcels of stock at from $125 up per share. On this basis Mr. Wrigley's holdings could be appraised at something like $1,000,000, but it is said his controlling interest could not be purchased for four or five times that amount.

Mr. Wrigley, who is chairman of the executive committee of the Cubs, expects to be elected president at a meeting called for 10 o'clock Friday morning. At that time, it was indicated, other changes will be made in the official family, though no additional changes will be made in the personnel of the executive roster.

In announcing Mr. Walker's resignation and the termination of his 20 years' connection with the organization, Mr. Wrigley said that the change had been effected without any organization quarrel or clash of any kind. He added, however, that he and Mr. Walker had not always viewed direction of Cub affairs from the same perspective.

No Clash with Walker.

Mr. Wrigley said further:

"There has been no friction between Mr. Walker and myself, and today's developments, of course, eliminate the possibility of any serious clashes which might have developed had he remained as president. It was embarrassing, naturally, to Mr. Walker and to me, when interviewers got statements on Cub matters from each of us and found, on publication, that widely divergent aims and policies had been expressed.

"Under the new arrangement Manager Charley Grimm will work in closer cooperation with the business office than ever before. I have some ideas which may be termed crazy in baseball circles, but I want to prove to my own satisfaction that I've got good ones and bad. These ideas which I shall try out, however, will not be imposed on the team on the field. Manager Grimm will be in full charge of the playing of the team, and the office will carry out my ideas on policies designed to make our entertainment enjoyable to those who patronize Wrigley field.

"There are to be important personnel changes in the player roster, but the team is not to be ripped apart. In any event, these changes will be made on the judgment of Manager Grimm, with Treasurer Charles Weber wielding the check book, if necessary.

He'll Attend Meetings.

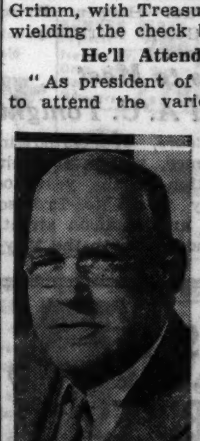
"As president of the Cubs I expect to attend the various National and major league meetings. I am afraid I will not be able to attend the minor league meetings, such as the one in Louisville next month, but the Cubs will be represented at all such gatherings by John O. Seys, first vice president; Manager Grimm, and Treasurer Weber."



WILLIAM WALKER.

Mr. Wrigley's further movement toward a more personal interest in baseball is expected to be welcomed by baseball officials.

During the years P. K. Wrigley's father, the late William Wrigley Jr., enjoyed the Cubs as a major hobby the young man was little attracted to baseball folk. What leisure he had from his widespread duties in his father's manifold interests he used in indulging other hobbies, among which were the owning of

Detroit Negro Seeks His Eighth Victory.

Joe Louis, 20 year old Detroit Negro heavyweight boxer, will attempt to continue his victory march tonight at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway, at the expense of Art Sykes, Syrian youngster from Elmira, N. Y. Poker Face Joe will be in quest of his eighth triumph in as many professional appearances.

Although Louis will be making his fourth start at ten rounds, he has been required to go the scheduled distance only once against Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., at the Arcadia Sept. 26. In other battles slated for ten rounds Joe knocked out Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., Aug. 27 and Alec Borshuk, Detroit,, Sept. 11. Both knockouts came in the second round.

There is much speculation as to whether Louis will add Sykes to his list of vi tims. An analysis of the records of both favors Louis, despite the fact that he was extended only by Wiater since he turned pro last July 4.

Records Favor Louis.

Many thought the Detroit youth should have knocked out Wiater in the first round after the latter was floored by a right to the chin.

A glance at Sykes' record since his first Chicago fight July 17 is impressive, but it not considered on a par with that of Louis. In his initial effort Art knocked out Biff Bennett in round No. 4. Prior to the knockout he was forced to absorb heavy artillery. Another knockout was followed by a conquest of Les Marriner in three rounds July 30. It was this performance that earned the eastern boxer a match with King Levinsky at Wrigley field Sept. 20.

Stands Up Against Levinsky.

Levinsky, overweight, lacking his usual punching power, was unable to score even one knockdown over his 21 year old opponent, who was making his first effort to go ten rounds. But Sykes spoiled whatever glamor which this accomplishment may have surrounded him by failing to take advantage of numerous opportunities. After the second round he seemed to be content to stay on the defense and last to the limit. Eddie Long, Sykes' manager, was satisfied with his charge's showing, however.

The supporting card:

Willie Davies vs. Jack Kranz [6], Walter Karpinski vs. Charley Young [5], Frank Ketter vs. Jack Robinson [5], and Frank Vogel vs. Danny La Marre [5], all heavyweights; Mickey O'Shea vs. Young Joe Gans [5], welterweights.

In the first year P. K. Wrigley was head of the Cubs, following the death of his father, he attended only five games at Wrigley field, it is said. After that his interest increased steadily and during the winter meetings of the major leagues here last December he took an active part, many baseball nabobs making his acquaintance for the first time.

Walker Decides Suddenly.

Young Mr. Wrigley is of the aggessive, athletic type, and sports observers see in his assumption of the presidency of the Cubs the acquisition of a vigorous, modern business man of the kind so badly needed in the ranks of major league baseball, which is more or less hidebound in some of its aspects.

Mr. Walker, a highly efficient and widely known business man, who had left his main interests in the hands of his brother and one of his sons to take charge of the Cubs, will devote all his time to the sea food business which had occupied his major attention for 40 years prior to the time he was elected president of the Cubs last January.

While he found his one year tenancy of the Cub presidency most turbulent at times, he had not planned, until a day or so ago, to resign, it is said.

Recently he said to interviewers: "The more I see of baseball the more I think of the fish business, but I am not going to quit because I am in a hot spot. I will be president of the Cubs next season and have made my plans accordingly."

Notices were sent out yesterday to the following members of the board of directors advising them of Friday's meeting: Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., John O. Seys, Charles A. McCulloch, A. D. Lasker, Paul Harper, R. A. Cavenaugh, and George Morrissey.

Eastern Boys Due Today for Friday Bouts

Eddie and Fritz Zivic, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Orville Drouillard, Windsor, Ont., and Corn Griffin, Charlotte, N. C., will arrive today for four bouts at eight rounds which will feature Friday's show at the Coliseum. Eddie Zivic will meet Geno Salvatore, La Salle, Ill., lightweight; Fritz Zivic opposes Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight; Drouillard tackles Bus Breese, Kansas State lightweight student, and Griffin will box Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla., heavyweight.

A preliminary match between Freddy Caserio, former Golden Gloves star, and Mickey Vasis, Milwaukee, Wis., middleweight, has been lengthened from four rounds to six.

Teddy Yarosz will make his first appearance since he dethroned Vince Dundee as middleweight champion at Pittsburgh a few weeks ago in a 10 round encounter with Johnny Phagan of Chicago at Milwaukee, Wis., Monday. The match has been set at 162, two pounds over the championship limit.

Sam Pian and Art Winch, managers of Barney Ross, yesterday denied published reports that Ross will defend his lightweight crown against Tony Canzoneri at New York in December, provided he is given a percentage of radio and motion picture rights.

Frank Sagilio went two rounds with Danny Neenan yesterday at C. Y. O center in preparation for his 10 round fight against Davey Day at the Stadium Nov. 2. It was his first boxing drill since he fought a 10 round draw with Day at Mills stadium July 30. Lack of roadwork is given as one reason for Sagilio's collapse in the late rounds when he lost a big lead.

Sagilio is attempting to correct this by running several miles on the bridle path in Lincoln park every morning. The Cicero junior welterweight will train daily at the C. Y. O. until Sunday, when he will rest. Rigorous workouts will be resumed Monday and be continued Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, at which time tapering off exercises will be initiated.

Sherald Kennard, Fargo, N. D., welterweight, yesterday agreed to fight in a semi-final at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Harry Dublinsky, Chicago 140 pound challenger, accompanied by Manager Jack Eile and Sam Buxbaum, trainer, will leave tomorrow for New York where he boxes Frank Klick of San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 2. . . . Sam Chivas, Detroit lightweight, is in town seeking matches. . . . Jimmy Eliopoulos sparred several rounds with Eddie Jackson yesterday for a bout with Floyd Embrey at Rockford next Tuesday.

Nelson and Ryan Show Promise in C. Y. O. Ring Meet

The fourth annual Catholic Youth Organization amateur boxing tournament opened last night at Community Recreation center with thirty-six bouts in class A. The sixteen winners in thirty-two second round battles tonight will qualify for the quarter finals at C. Y. O. center Nov. 6, 7, and 8. There they will be joined by qualifiers from the south, north, and Joliet sections and ninety-six candidates in the championship class.

Boys who survive this competition will enter the semi-finals at the C. Y. O. Nov. 14 and 15, after which there will remain only thirty-two, sixteen in class A and sixteen in the championship division. These survivors will fight it out for titles at the Stadium Dec. 5. The winners in the championship class will represent Chicago in the first National C. Y. O. tourney at the Stadium Dec. 12, 13, and 15 against teams from San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York, Dubuque, Ia.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Davenport, Ia., and Detroit.

Ed Nelson, St. Thomas Aquinas middleweight, and Harry Ryan, St. Mary Celie, Berwyn, lightweight, were the outstanding boxers last night. Nelson, an 18 year old student at Austin High school, displayed considerable ability in whipping Sil Haydock of St. Casimir in three rounds. Ryan relied on a counter hitting attack to defeat Pat Henegan, St. Thomas Aquinas, in three rounds.

LATE FROSTS IN WISCONSIN GIVE HUNTER TROUBLE

Walking Is Difficult in Heavy Cover.

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portage, Wis., Oct. 23.—Heavy frosts are so late in arriving in southern Wisconsin that upland game hunters on licensed pheasant hunting preserves still are having difficulty in walking through heavy cover which at this time of the year, usually has been beaten down.

We have been hiking over part of 3,000 acres in the Beyer pheasant preserve, near Portage, Wis., to again check on the Wisconsin system of upland game shooting under the state license plan. We thus have an intimate contact with marshes and thickets where pheasants and rabbits can be found.

This is the second autumn we have inspected the operation of the licensed pheasant shooting system near Portage. To the hunter who doesn't understand what it is all about, it is bound to be a surprise. In the first place, the amount of game to be seen is amazing. The abundance of birds is an illustration of what a preserve can do to protect vanishing species.

For example, when we were hiking through the marshes and woodlands the other afternoon in company with Lyman Barr, Highland Park, Ill., Rowdy and Smokey, two springer spaniels, and Nancy, a young Irish setter, showed us at least eight coveys of quail.

An Enduring Picture.

On ordinary farmland quail is apt to have a pretty tough time. Up here, every encouragement is given the Bob Whites. No one shoots them. They have cover and never lack food. Otto Beyer, operator of the preserve, has them on exhibit to show what one can do to increase game.

About three o'clock in the afternoon more than 100 prairie chickens flew within 100 yards of us on their way to a cornfield, an enduring picture of the game bird that has been fighting a losing battle in the middle west. The preserve is responsible for the presence of such a number.

Of course, quail and prairie chickens are here because Beyer wishes to show what can be done to increase game birds by applying principles of game management. The main business of the preserve is pheasants, because under the Wisconsin law you can raise these birds and by special license permit guests, or daily fee hunters, to come on the property and hunt for several months each year.

But even if you never fire a shot, it's almost worth a trip up here just to see the prairie chickens and have the quail bombard you nearly every step.

In addition to quail and prairie chickens and pheasants, there are many rabbits, squirrels, a number of deer, and ruffed grouse. Tracts of oak timber furnish cover for grouse and deer. During the course of our hiking around the preserve, we saw two woodcock in the alder and birch thickets.

MICHIGAN BUILDS POWER OFFENSE FOR ILLINI GAME

Freshmen Gain with Pass Plays of Zuppke.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Efforts to develop a powerful and versatile offensive for Michigan's game against Illinois here Saturday continued today. The Wolverines ran through an array of power plays and later went on defense against the Illinois formations.

The defensive drill did not impress, particularly against passes. The plays used were only those Coach Wally Weber has seen and apprehension was felt over what new plays Illinois may employ.

The team worked without Willard Hildebrand, guard and tackle, who was back in the health service. Hildebrand is still bothered with the cleat wound he received in the Chicago game. Chester Beard, a senior letter man, and Frank Biusell, 165 pound sophomore, worked out in Hildebrand's place.

Russ Fuog, alternate center, and Russ Oliver, reserve quarter back, got into the regular lineup for a time, Fuog replacing Ford and Oliver going in for Jennings.

ZUPPKE SHIFTS ILLINI.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Arvo Antilla reappeared at tackle in Illinois' first team lineup today, strengthening the belief that the big fellow, who was a regular last year, will start against Michigan Saturday. Antilla played against the Wolverines as a tackle last year, but was shifted to end this season and was outdistanced by his sophomore rivals, Ken Nelson and Gene Dykstra. Antilla's return will mean displacing Andy Dahl, who played left tackle against Ohio State.

Harry Palmer remained at center on the first team today, since it was the first active service in several days for Al Sayre. Freshmen using Michigan formations again were arrayed against the varsity after Zuppke had held tackling drill.

PURDUE DEFENSE TESTED.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Methods of stopping the ball carrying jaunts of Steve Terebus and Joe Mihm of Carnegie Tech occupied the attention of Purdue's football squad this afternoon in a defensive scrimmage session.

Warned by Purdue scouts that the Tartans have a much better eleven than the games with Michigan State and Notre Dame would indicate, the Boilermaker squad settled down to work with a will. It was evident that the players realize that it will take more than the victory over Wisconsin to convince the skeptics of Purdue's return to power.

A freshman eleven, drilled on Carnegie plays, gave the varsity a busy afternoon. Although the line showed considerable improvement, the yearlings still managed to make too many gains to please the coaches.

Ted Fehring, tackle, and Ed Skoronski, center, injured veterans who were unable to appear against Wisconsin, remained on the side lines today, but are expected to make the eastern trip.

INDIANA COACH ILL.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—With Coach Bo McMillin on the invalid list, the Indiana university football squad drilled on fundamentals this afternoon. Assistant coaches put the squad through a workout on blocking and tackling. McMillin was confined to bed most of the day, suffering from indigestion, but apepared briefly at the practice session. Attending physicians said all he needed was rest.

WAGNER, NOTED HOOSIER BASKET COACH, IS DEAD

Franklin, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Ernest [Griz] Wagner, who produced basketball teams here a decade ago that even now hold thrilling memories for Hoosier fans, died at his home here today.

He had attended a teachers' meeting last night and appeared to be in good health. This morning, however, he telephoned the high school where he was an instructor and reported that he was ill and would not be able to meet his classes. A heart attack followed.

Wagner, as coach of the Franklin High school basketball team and later the Franklin college team, established a record in a state where basketball is the paramount winter sport.

In 1920 he coached Franklin to a state high school basketball championship, repeating in 1921 and 1922. At Franklin college, with most of the same players, he turned out two state champion teams.

Names of the boys he coached still are famous in Hoosier basketball annals. Vandivier, the Friddles, Ballard, Gant, and White—the list includes the quintet which attracted nation-wide attention.

FROMHART GETS JOB ON VARSITY AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Wally Fromhart, Moundsville, W. Va., junior, took over the varsity quarter back position at Notre Dame today. This was the first lineup change Coach Elmer Layden has made since the opening game with Texas.

Fromhart won the promotion on the basis of his superior blocking and punt returning in games to date, and his generalship, which has compared favorably with that of the other signal callers. He has fought his way up from the fourth team, with which he started when practice opened a month ago.

Scrimmage with Freshmen.

Fromhart led the varsity in a scrimmage against Wisconsin plays employed by the freshmen today. The Irish expect trouble from the Wisconsin running attack in the final home game Saturday. The freshmen seldom had to resort to passes to make first downs, carrying the ball down the field twice for scores on running plays.

When the varsity got the ball late in the afternoon for offensive work, the freshmen held them down, except for occasional long dashes by George Melinkovich and Bill Shakespeare, in which Fromhart's blocking was a great factor.

BADGERS ARE SHIFTED.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Coach Doc Spears, with an eye to more speed in the back field and additional strength at guard and tackle, this afternoon sent Wisconsin players through the first of two days of intensive work for the Notre Dame game at South Bend Saturday.

GOPHERS DEVISE DEFENSE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The Minnesota Gophers, forgetting all about their Pittsburgh triumph and thinking only of Iowa this Saturday, went back to serious work today after yesterday's chalk talk.

The condition of both Stan Kostka and Art Clarkson had improved to such an extent that it was fairly certain that both players would be ready for the Iowa game. That is a certainty for Kostka, but the condition of Clarkson is more doubtful.

Sig Harris, assistant coach who scouted Iowa, made a report to Coach Bernie Bierman. In his report he insisted that Simmons and Crayne are just as dangerous as ever and that they need only to get away for a step lead and they are gone.

Today's work consisted of building a defense. The Gophers will learn a few new plays for Saturday's game. Some of those which were to have been used at Pittsburgh still are available for the Gophers did not use all of them against the Panthers. They concentrated on defense in the first half of that game and then did quick work at getting two touchdowns in the second half.

IOWA LINEUP SHIFTED.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Iowa went through a vigorous practice session today in preparation for the visit of Minnesota here Saturday. The Hawkeye players believe that nothing short of a victory in Saturday's homecoming game will erase the two defeats by Nebraska and Iowa State.

Capt. Russ Fisher took his first light workout in more than a week, adding hope that he will be available for the homecoming battle.

102 Yards for a Touchdown! Meet Mr. Russell; He Did It

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The reorganization of the Chicago Cardinals has not advanced as rapidly as Owner Charlie Bidwill expected when he combed the college ranks for practically an entire new squad last winter, but one National league record, which probably will stand as a mark at the conclusion of the season, has fallen to the team.

It is the longest run for a touchdown on a kick-off and was accomplished by Douglas Russell, half back from Kansas State. Russell ran 102 yards against Cincinnati in the opening game of the season at Dayton, O.

Running long distances is Russell's specialty, developed under the direction of Bo McMillin, when the former Centre college star coached at Kansas State. Against Purdue two years ago Russell ran 67 and 50 yards for touchdowns. His greatest run last year was one in which he did not have the ball. It happened against Nebraska in the last seconds of the game when Bernie Masterson, now with the Bears, broke away from 50 yards. Russell got off the ground after being cut down near the line of scrimmage and chased the rangy Cornhusker to the five-yard line where he tackled him just as time expired.

These runs were commonplace to Russell. What he wanted more than anything else was to return a kickoff all the way, and he had to get in football's toughest league to do it.

Goes to Kansas State.

Russell is a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., where as a boy he became interested in baseball by watching Kiki Cuyler play for the Pirates. His family moved to Pittsburg, Kas., and Russell went to Manhattan to enter Kansas State under McMillin. He married a Manhattan girl last April and now makes his home there.

At Kansas State he was a star baseball player, regular basketball forward and hurdler in addition to playing three years as varsity half back. He was a member of the Kansas State shuttle relay team which last year set a world's record at the Kansas relays. Running with Owen Stoner, Larry Smutz, and Joe Noppenberger, Russell gave Kansas State a lead which it held to the end to win in 1:01.7.

Turns Down Cards' Offer.

Three years ago Russell turned down an offer from the St. Louis Cardinals to remain in school and play football. The Cardinals have made two later attempts to sign him, but Detroit, attracted by his hitting and speed, has also bid for his services. Russell has decided to join the Tigers in the spring to try out for the outfield if he is not seriously injured in the remainder of the football season. The Cardinal farm system has him scared out.

He was born on June 11, 1912, and prepped at McDonald high school in Pittsburgh, Pa., under Coach McCallahan, a former Ohio State player.

Five members of the Cardinal squad were still confined to the Garfield Park hospital yesterday with injuries received in the first two quarters of the Packer game at Green Bay Sunday. Hughes, center; Volok, guard, and Smith, end, have severely sprained ankles; Dave Cook, half back, has a body bruise which prevents his straightening up, and Creighton, end, has a pulled leg tendon.

Dr. William Meachem, club physician, was unable to say last night whether any of the five would be able to play against Boston Sunday. All will be taken east, however, to participate in subsequent games on the trip. Cook's loss has necessitated the shifting of Mike Mikulak from full back to half back. Roy Horstmann will start against Boston at full back.

Club physicians notified Coach George Halas of the Bears yesterday that Gene Ronzani, half back; George Musso, tackle, and Bill Karr, end, who were injured last Wednesday night in the Green Bay game at Milwaukee, will be ready to start against the Packers at Wrigley field Sunday. Johnny Sisk, reserve half back, who has a knee injury, will not be available for at least another week, Halas said.

* * *

The Chicago Bears continue to be the best ground gaining team in the league. The champions have gained 2,063 yards, while holding the opposition in six league games to 938 yards. Detroit has gained 1,195 yards against its opponents' 662. Pittsburgh, which has played eight league games, winning only two, is the second best ground gainer with 1,775.

BROWN, HUGHES MEET TONIGHT AT MARIGOLD

Whether Jack Brown will remain among the leading light heavyweight wrestlers will be decided tonight when he meets Cowboy Hughes at the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace.

Baird Named Head Official in Suburban Basket League

Baby Ruth Girls Beat Elkhart Basketball Team

Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Baby Ruth girls of Chicago opened their 50 game basketball schedule here tonight by beating the Ferman Fashion girls, 50 to 12. Catherine Wolf, western tennis star, played with the local team.

EAST COACHES ADMIT NAMING OFFICIAL LISTS

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Headline football coaches of the east canvassed today frankly admitted they made up lists of undesirable or unfriendly officials. Army, Fordham, Navy, Columbia, Brown, and Manhattan were among the colleges questioned.

At the same time Walter Okeson, high commissioner of football, denied everything. He figuratively raised his hands in puritanical horror at the mere mention of the row precipitated last night when Dr. E. J. O'Brien of Boston, veteran referee, charged he had been blackballed into retirement by coaches and graduate managers anxious to protect winning streaks and box office attractions.

O'Brien Not on McLaughry's List.

Coach Tuss McLaughry at Brown stated today that he had presented a list of "competent" men to Graduate Manager Frederich Marvel last winter. O'Brien's name was not on the list, although he had worked the Brown-Yale game of Oct. 21, 1933.

Coach Jimmy Crowley at Fordham stated he had submitted his 1934 list of approved officials to Graduate Manager Jack Coffey "when the schedule was discussed long before the present season opened."

Coach Chick Meehan at Manhattan stated that "some men are more capable than others and, of course, I try to get the best. I make out my list after a conference with my assistants and the team captain. Sometimes the boys don't like a certain type and ask me not to have him back again."

Army List Given to Worsham.

Coach Gar Davison at Army stated that he gave his list to Maj. L. D. Worsham who represented the military academy on Okeson's governing board.

Coach Lou Little at Columbia and Coach Tom Hamilton at Navy admitted making out the lists of officials they thought capable of handling the more difficult assignments, and especially those games where they expected complicated offenses.

MISHAWAKA PREP COACH ILL AS BIG GAME NEARS

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—An attack of ptomaine poisoning has confined Russell Arndt, Mishawaka high school coach, to his bed, it was revealed today. He was stricken Sunday.

The illness struck Coach Arndt at a most inopportune time as Mishawaka will meet Central of South Bend in Notre Dame stadium Friday in the annual game between the ancient football rivals.

Arndt's physician announced today he probably would be able to resume his duties tomorrow or Thursday. Assistant Coach Walter Thurston is directing drills in the absence of Arndt.

Fenger Beats Parker, 6-0; Four Straight

Fenger High school's football team scored its fourth consecutive victory in the south section of the Chicago Public High School league yesterday by defeating Parker, 6 to 0, at Shewbridge field. The victory assured Fenger of at least a tie for the sectional championship, since only one game remains on its schedule.

Frank Smith, hard plunging full back, brought Fenger victory, smashing through the Parker line for four yards in the second quarter. Morris' attempt to kick the extra point failed. Fenger now will rest for two weeks before meeting its last sectional opponent, Morgan Park.

St. Ignatius took third place in the west division of the Chicago Catholic league, defeating St. Michael, 14 to 0, at St. Philip field. Jim Sullivan and Paul Sheetz scored for St. Ignatius, the former on an 80-yard run on the opening kickoff, and Sheetz on a lateral pass from Tony Ippolito in the final quarter.

The lineups:

Mount Carmel will meet St. Philip at Soldiers' field Nov. 4, in a charity game. The proceeds will be donated to the Sisters of Mercy fund.

Three players have joined Mason Sager, regular guard, on the Hyde Park injured list. They are Capt. Lou Hamity, Bill Breckenridge and Herb Bessinger. All four players will be unable to play when Hyde Park, undefeated thus far in league competition, meets Lindblom in the central section's outstanding game Saturday afternoon.

INJURIES TAKE HEAVY TOLL OF DE PAUL ELEVEN

Injuries continued to take a heavy toll yesterday as De Paul university prepared for its game with Western State at Kalamazoo Saturday. Willie Phillips suffered a shoulder injury and Walt Hehn also was hurt.

Doctors announced that Marvin Casey, regular center, will be able to appear in uniform tomorrow. He has been in the hospital with a throat infection.

HILL, FORMER VALLEY LEAGUE PRESIDENT, DIES

Hill, who was born in Kewanee, Ill., in 1864, suffered a heart attack last Saturday. He was connected with baseball clubs for more than 35 years.

SPORTSMAN PARK FEATURE IS WON BY LITTLE DUKE

Favorite Players Lose as Rickey Roo Quits.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The young race horse Rickey Roo is a fickle fellow and more than likely will be a very cheap selling plater all his life.

Lightly weighted a few days ago he ran so fast at Sportsman's Park that he all but lost his rivals. His backers were ready to stamp him as a champion even in the face of his numerous failures where he was forever putting on a quitting trick at the big tracks in Chicago this year.

As a result of that sparkling victory the handicapper at Sportsman's Park piled 116 pounds on Rickey Roo's back yesterday. Four rivals slipped into the contest with light imposts. The 116 pounds stopped Rickey Roo.

Rickey Roo Quits.

The race was a short dash at 5 furlongs and after hugging the rail on the clubhouse bend Rickey Roo sprinted out into a lead of three lengths. That was his only serious effort. He began to feel the weight of those 116 pounds on his back. He slowed almost to a walk by the time the short run down the stretch started.

Little Duke, a long shot at $45.08, romped up and got the decision. He was closely followed by Brilliant Duke from the stable of poker face Bill Potter of Mobile. Little Duke beat Brilliant Duke by half a length.

Rickey Roo, staggering under his impost, was able to save third money. Illeanna, from the stable of Alderman Coughlin, was fourth and Sir Richard finished last.

Favorite Players Lose.

Rickey Roo's failure was a severe blow to all the favorite players on the track. They got some of their money back in the sixth race when Sherron, from the French Lick Springs stable, was a winner. This was Sherron's third straight victory at Sportsman's Park. He paid $7 in the mutuels.

All race track regulars will remember the rainy day back in 1931 when the Illinois Debutante stakes was run at Lincoln Fields. The best 2 year old fillies in the west were in the field. A filly called Uma bounded out of the bunch at the head of the stretch and with rain beating into her face went on to win at long odds. She earned $6,700 in that race.

This same Uma, a daughter of Madhatter—Lakme, paraded out with a band of $1,000 platers in the second race yesterday. Jocky J. Cowley was in the saddle.

Uma Wins Handily.

Uma has been associating with these lowly platers for some time and they have been tossing dirt into her eyes. She showed some of her old time spunk in this race and dashed out into the lead going down the back stretch. She wound up an easy winner by three lengths over Fountain with the favorite Polly Diskin third.

Somebody must have known that Uma was in a running mood. For a time the odds against her were quoted at 20 to 1, but just before the final bell rang closing the betting the odds dropped to 6 to 1. She paid off at $15.26. Uma is owned by the Motor City stable from Detroit.

Man Power, Not Systems, Wins Games

different passing, but has strong runners, the defense shifts to meet the running attack, which then has much more trouble gaining than if there was passing to take advantage of the exposed defense.

Few teams have everything for attack. Minnesota this year falls in this number 1 classification. The problem for defense then is multiplied.

Many successful teams get by with good runners, passers, and kickers. Illinois, this year and last, has done remarkably well. Illinois has not had straightaway power, but Coach Zuppke has drawn his plays to fit his material. Zuppke probably would be the first to admit that Illinois could not make the double wing back system gain consistently. Even so, he might use this formation occasionally to get pass receivers into the open with a minimum amount of time.

Then There Is Morale.

Coaching success also depends on such intangibles as "morale," which, if sifted, means only the willingness of the players to try their best at all times. Average material, if primed by the coach's personality, loyalty to the university, or desire of the group to win, sometimes accomplishes more than can be charted on basis of experience and ability.

UMA disposed of HIGH POCKETS after a quarter, drew out, and won in a canter. FOUNTAIN, well up throughout, challenged gamely, but was overmatched. POLLY DISKIN, taken out of it at the start, was listlessly ridden thereafter.

PRINCE PLATO began slowly, moved up rapidly after three-eighths, continued gamely, wore down WAR DIMES, and was up to win in the closing stages when Leyland outrode Dupre. WAR DIMES, racing improved, soon disposed of MOKAN, continued well to stretch, where he gave way to the winner, under weak handling. DEWHURST, prominent throughout, closed gamely.

JAY D., away in full stride, continued in the lead under strong pressure, and stood a long drive gamely to outfinish MYRTLE BROOKS. Latter improved, offered the strongest contention, but was not good enough. JOLYON went well under a hustling ride.

LITTLE DUKE, kept well up under persistent urging, overhauled RICKEY ROO entering the stretch, was then subjected to strong pressure to hold BRILLIANT DUKE safe when the latter challenged. BRILLIANT DUKE, probably the best, was forced to lose ground after being impeded at the break, gained gradually, and closed strongest. RICKEY ROO quit.

BLACKHAWKS SPEND DAY ON OFFENSIVE DRILL

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The entire Blackhawk hocky squad devoted several hours to shooting and passing today at the University of Illinois. Manager Loughlin spent much time schooling Burke, Wiebe, and Coulter in shooting, which means that with a rushing defense, Chicago hocky fans may expect more scoring this season.

Loughlin had 13 players caroming pucks off the shins and pads of Goalies Starke and Levine. Loughlin stated after the morning drill that he would not name the goalie who will start in the league opener Nov. 8 until a day or two before the game.

Spears' schedule calls for his opening appearance at the Adams-Wabash Recreation, 131 South Wabash avenue, at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow, Roseland Recreation at 7 p. m., and at 9:30 p. m. he will appear in his own billiard room, the Hudson Billiard Parlor, 1506 Hyde Park boulevard.

BUILDING RULES OF NEW DEAL HIT BY CONTRACTORS

Resolutions Charge Waste and Ask Changes.

Resolutions criticising New Deal construction methods were adopted yesterday by the advisory and governing boards of the Associated General Contractors at the close of their two day fall meeting at the Palmer house, it was learned last night.

Waste and inefficiency were charged, particularly in attacks upon federal governmental policy in using day labor directly instead of awarding contracts to private contractors on the basis of competitive bidding. Numerous figures were cited to show the former is much more costly. Details of the resolutions were kept a secret, however, as a matter of "propriety."

Resolutions Sent to Bureaus.

It was explained that every resolution was directed to some government official or agency, and that it would be improper to make them public until received by the parties for whom they are intended. H. E. Foreman, assistant managing director of the association, hinted that there might be a release on the resolutions in a few days from Washington. He described them as containing "considerable meat."

It is known that the contractors do not wish to be placed in a position of outright condemnation of the New Deal. Some of its features, such as the housing act, meet with full approval. The builders wish, rather, to be placed in the position of merely offering forceful criticism to correct certain phases of the New Deal which they regard as founded on fallacy.

Want Change in Wage Fixing.

Earlier in the day, the meeting called upon the administration for predetermination of wages on public works projects instead of a provision requiring payment of "prevailing wage rates." The latter term means absolutely nothing, it was said, and may depend solely on whims of a secretary of labor. The contractors would insure against chiseling by barring contractors guilty of previous violations. At the same time, it was remarked that the government, itself, has been the worst violator of wage and hour standards it has set up.

The builders also want protection against code violators by subcontractors and material concerns. In many instances, attempts have been made to penalize the general contractor for misdeeds of such groups.

CREDIT AGENCIES GET 37 MILLION MORE U. S. MONEY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The government increased its "proprietary interest" in its wholly or partly owned credit agencies during August by $37,000,000, bringing its total interest in both types to 4 billion 138 million dollars, according to a statement today by the treasury department.

The wholly owned government credit agencies listed in the statement included the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Commodity Credit corporation, Export-Import Banks, Public Works administration, Regional Agricultural Credit corporation, and Production Credit corporation. In these, the government's proprietary interest is described as the excess of their assets over liabilities.

Federal Land banks, Intermediate Credit banks, the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation were listed among the partly owned government credit agencies. The proprietary interest of the government in this group was defined as the excess of their assets over liabilities less the privately owned interest in such assets.

In this class of agencies the government increased its interest during the month by $25,000,000 to a total of 1 billion 3 millions, while its interest in wholly owned credit agencies was increased $2,000,000 during the same period to 3 billions 135 millions. In only two agencies was the government's interest reduced during the month. Declines of $49,000,000 and $71,000,000, respectively, were shown for the Commodity Credit corporation and Home Owners Loan corporation.

INDEX OF RETAIL FOOD PRICES OFF CENT FOR MONTH

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A further decline in retail food prices during the two weeks ended Oct. 9 was reported today by the labor department.

The same amount of food which cost $1.16 Sept. 11, the high point for food prices this year, cost $1.15 Oct. 9. The same amount cost 90 cents April 15 last year, the low point for the post-war period.

The department's survey, covering 51 cities, showed decreases for 40 of them. Los Angeles had the greatest increase, 2.2 per cent, and Detroit the greatest decrease, 2.3 per cent.

Pennsy Pays Lindbergh $15,000 for Aviation Advice

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The Pennsylvania railroad paid $15,000 to Charles A. Lindbergh in 1930 and 1931 for services as an aeronautical consultant, according to a statement filed today with the interstate commerce commission. About $1,458,000 was spent for advertising in the four years ended Dec. 31, 1933, of which $1,243,000 was placed by J. Walter Thompson. Ivy Lee, publicity agent, was paid $68,298 from 1930 to 1933.

Brunswick-Balke Launches Huge Newspaper Campaign

Magazines and newspapers of 600 cities will be the backbone of a nation wide advertising campaign to be initiated this week in behalf of billiards by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company. Announcement of the campaign was made last night by Robert F. Bensinger, president of the manufacturing concern, after a dinner at the Congress hotel.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today. The announcement from Cuba that efforts were being made to interest refiners here in the remainder of the Cuban quota, said to be in the neighborhood of 360,000 tons, at a price to be agreed upon, had an unsettling effect.

Futures were weak early on the Cuban news, and all active positions sold into new low ground for the movement. The decline, ranging from 4 to 5 points, uncovered considerable stop loss orders, but after their execution there was a rally on increased covering and a little new outside buying, with the market closing 1 to 2 points net lower. Sales were 37,000 tons.

Spread in Break May Wreck Code.

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The oil industry was thrown into a new and greater state of turmoil and uncertainty today as the first official change in crude oil prices in a year was made by a small operator.

The cut was drastic—from $1 to 60 cents a barrel on crude from east Texas, where the flow of "hot oil" has put government officials in grave concern over a break in the posted price.

Predictions were made freely that the reduction will be made general within 48 hours. Traditional leaders on price matters, however, gave no indication of their intended actions.

Report Pact Until Thursday.

It was understood that most of the large companies have a gentleman's agreement with Secretary of the Interior Ickes, oil administrator, to make no price cuts until day after tomorrow, when L. R. Martineau will have reached the east Texas fields to begin the government battle against "hot" or illegally produced crude.

The Atlas Pipe Line company, affiliated with the Spartan Refining company, owned and operated by a group of independents at Shreveport, La., was the firm to post the price cut.

Atlas buys only 6,000 of more than half a million barrels produced daily in the Texas field, and one oil company executive remarked that this was the first time he remembered such a disturbance in the "midcontinent area" over a price change affecting such a small amount. This area produces three-fourths of the country's total of 2½ million barrels daily.

Fear General Price Break.

The $1-a-barrel price for crude has been maintained through agreement with Administrator Ickes, and oil men say that a collapse in this price would mean collapse of the NRA code for the industry.

At the same time Ernest O. Thompson, Texas railroad commissioner, today was preparing an order shutting down all oil production in the state. The order was to be "held for use if necessary," should the break in the price structure become or threaten to become general.

The Atlas action brought the first price break in 12 months, the longest time the midcontinent ever has seen without some official change, it was said. Much "hot oil" has been selling at 30 to 50 cents a barrel, however, and the administration has failed to cope with the illegal flow.

Crude Output Lower.

New York, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 42,000 barrels in the week ended Oct. 20, totaling 2,379,650 barrels, the American Petroleum institute's weekly summary indicates.

Refineries reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,325,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week was 2,267,000 barrels.

Finished gasoline stocks at refineries totaled 25,418,000 barrels, against 25,999,000. Unfinished gasoline stocks totaled 4,916,000 barrels, against 4,956,000 barrels.

The total volume of advertising carried in September by the newspapers studied was 135,068,000 lines, an increase of 4,132,000 over September, 1933. Classified advertising ran 1,100,000 lines ahead of last year and was the only other division to show a gain.

Statistical Summary of the Nation's Business First Nine Months 1932-1934

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 23.—This was the "birthday" anniversary of the bear stock market, but the Wall street community refused to put on anything remotely resembling a party in commemoration of the event. Times were too hard, the traders said. If anything, the day passed a little more dully than usual. Only about 543,000 shares changed hands on the stock exchange and the market didn't move out of its tracks. As a birthday it was a bust.

Weakness in mining shares was about the nearest approach to a feature to develop during the five hour session. Leading shares of the group were under more or less pressure from the opening and losses of 1 to 2 points were suffered by Noranda, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Dome, McIntyre and others. Alaska Juneau was offered rather freely and broke nearly a point.

Inflation Fever Cools Off.

The only explanation offered for the selling in this department was a further cooling off of inflationary sentiment preliminary to whatever "reassuring" remarks President Roosevelt may have to make in his address to the bankers of the country at Washington tomorrow. The speculative element has been given to understand that the President "may" say something really tangible regarding the administration's monetary policy.

The so-called pivotals, which figured so conspicuously in the big crash of Oct. 23, 1929, and the heavy selling of the days immediately following played little part in today's market activity on the whole. The group as a whole presented an irregular appearance most of the time with price changes slight in either direction. The street found some diversion, however, in comparing the "panic" prices of five years ago with the "normal" market quotations of today.

Draw "Now and Then" Pictures.

Some of the favorite mediums of comparison were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Auburn, General Motors, New York Central, and the like, on which the 1929 highs were double, triple or in some cases five or six times as high as those of today. Auburn's "panic" price, for example, was quoted at 260 against 27⅝ today. The margin on U. S. Steel was almost as great.

A few stocks tried for notice by moving sharply. Eastman Kodak common and preferred climbed 1 and 3 points higher, respectively. Owens Illinois Glass continued to mount. United States Tobacco was buoyant. Rails were irregular in quiet trading. Cuban sugars were weak. Chemicals, foods and oils were no worse than irregular.

Harriman Urges New Blue Eagle with Wings Clipped

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A new plan for national recovery in which governmental activity would be limited to judicial functions concerning codes formed by industry itself, was proposed tonight by Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States chamber of commerce.

Harriman explained the plan before a meeting of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries. It calls for a wholesale reorganization of NRA and establishment of a five-man administrative board.

Suggesting the adoption of a new recovery act to cover his proposals, Harriman expressed a belief it should, as far as possible, be "a civil rather than a criminal statute," and its score limited to interstate business unless there is "express legislation by the states."

Details New Proposal.

"My own conviction," Harriman said after reviewing objections to the NRA, "is that a permanent industrial act can be drawn which will be of great value to industry and labor and which will not improperly burden the consumer. I suggest that the new act differ from the emergency act in the following ways:

"I would have the act administered by a board of five who will act in a judicial manner on the approval of codes.

"The new law should be a civil rather than a criminal statute and should be enforceable through legal procedure as in the case of the act creating the federal trade commission.

"The new litigation should place upon industry the sole responsibility of formulating codes of fair competition, and the government should have no authority to impose or modify codes.

Wants Interstate Code.

Federal authority for codes rests upon their interstate nature and no attempts should be made to extend them to intrastate business, without express legislation by the states.

"Codes must be simple and limited to certain basic principles which are essential to the well being of industry. This means that price fixing and specific limitations on production should seldom be resorted to.

"If labor organizations are to be given wide powers in connection with collective bargaining then labor organizations should be incorporated or in other ways made subject to suitable laws, as are the employers. Strikes should not be called in any plant until a majority of the employés have expressed their desire to strike.

"In any new law which may replace the recovery act it should be made clear that the collective bargaining which is contemplated is bargaining with representatives of all groups of employés that desire to act through spokesmen, and that neither the right of a minority group to deal collectively nor the direct right of individual bargaining should be precluded."

STEEL SCRAP RISES FIRST TIME IN FIVE MONTHS

Prices of steel scrap in the Pittsburgh area were advanced yesterday for the first time in more than five months. Number 1 heavy melting steel scrap was raised 50 cents a ton to $11 and number 2 heavy also was increased 50 cents, selling at $9.85. Other grades were increased in similar proportion. The increases followed a pickup in mill activity in the Pittsburgh district.

Hot rolled strip iron has been reduced $2 a ton at Chicago, effective Nov. 1, according to filings made with the American Iron & Steel Institute. The new price is $2.44 per hundred pounds.

AUBURN REDUCES QUARTER LOSS; FROM LAST YEAR

Auburn Automobile company and subsidiaries yesterday reported net loss of $679,066 for the quarter ended Aug. 31, compared with $788,071 in the preceding quarter and $354,154 in the corresponding quarter of last year. For the nine months ended Aug. 31 net loss amounted to $2,324,531, against $1,463,711 in the same period of 1933.

Export shipments of the company during the first nine months were more than triple the company's entire exports for 1933, R. S. Wiley, export manager, stated. During the current period the company has added 41 new distributors in world markets, giving it representation in 57 countries.

WHEAT FIRMER; CANADA DEFIES FOREIGN RIVALS

Will Protect Prices Against Raiders.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The rumblings of conflict between the Canadian government and the big European wheat importing firms over the price of wheat grew louder yesterday as statements were issued by Premier Bennett of Canada and Dreyfus & Co., the big French wheat house.

Bennett served warning that the government was prepared to protect Winnipeg wheat prices against international bear raiders. At the same time the French firm publicly declared that it had no "speculative position" in wheat and denied rumors that it was attempting with other European interests to gain control of the world's wheat surplus.

Expect Canadian Support.

The Bennett declaration was regarded as definite evidence that Canada will stick to her present policy of supporting her wheat market regardless of the competition of cheap Argentine and French wheat in the European market.

The verbal eruption brought no immediate reaction in the principal grain markets yesterday, although the conflict between Canada and her prospective wheat buyers has a significant bearing on the price outlook. Wheat was a trifle higher in Chicago yesterday, as well as in Winnipeg and Liverpool.

The market action here was erratic. It was featured by a moderate reaction in corn, which over the last ten days has shown greater price strength than wheat. The closing quotations on wheat were ⅜ to ¾ cent above Monday's price, with the December future at 97⅝. Losses in corn futures ranged from ⅝ to ¾ cent, with 75⅛ cents a bushel quoted for December contracts at the end of the trading. Oats were steady and rye averaged moderately higher.

Traders Watch Foreign Markets.

Domestic news of market significance is currently regarded as bullish, but for the time being the trade is occupied in following foreign developments on the theory that only with an upturn in other markets can any advance take place here. Argentina, which is Canada's chief competitor in the world market, is getting most of the attention. All sources agree that the crop has excellent prospects. The usual "crop scares" are inevitable, as the critical growing period is at hand. Added to this is the fact that the estimates on the Australian production are being revised upward.

The influence of foreign news is expected to continue with the United States now between seasons. Domestic conditions are likely to reassert themselves as cold weather comes on and the feed situation in this country becomes an immediate problem.

Estimates received yesterday gave Canadian importations of English flour for the first nine months of the year at 50,000 barrels. During the same period Canada is said to have purchased 60,000 barrels of Australian flour. Thus Canada is consuming—at least in moderate amounts—flour made from wheat raised in her two most important competing countries. This has taken place while Canada sits on top of the biggest wheat surplus in the world and waits for the world to pay her price.

O'Connor May Be Shifted to Reserve Post

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Controler of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor may soon be kicked upstairs to clear the way for domination of the national banks by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

O'Connor is to be offered the post of federal reserve agent at San Francisco, a position paying considerably more than the controlership. This move follows a brush between O'Connor and Morgenthau over the subject of "coördinating" the controler's office with the rest of the treasury department. Shifting of O'Connor is expected to be followed by a consolidation of the federal government's bank supervisory work. Eventually the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation may fall heir to much of the authority now exercised by O'Connor, who presides over all national banks and the federal reserve board.

Whether O'Connor will take the federal reserve post reputedly offered to him is not known. His present salary is $17,500. As federal reserve agent at San Francisco he would draw at least $24,000. Explaining that most of the problems left by the bank moratorium have been cleared up, O'Connor himself is reported to have indicated his desire to return to private life. He might elect to resume his law practice rather than accept the reserve agency.

Because of the recent difference of opinion between O'Connor and Morgenthau over the "coördination" of the controler's office with the treasury, O'Connor's continuation as controler is regarded as highly unlikely. He is believed to be in the position of having to take the reserve post or retiring completely.

Secretary Morgenthau's plan for bringing the controler more under the supervision of the treasury comes as a departure from practices which have remained unchanged for decades. The controler has been allowed to direct the affairs of national banks for scores of years with only nominal reference to the wishes of the secretary of the treasury.

Legally, however, the controler is a part of the treasury and Secretary Morgenthau is determined to invoke his legal powers. Supervision over legal matters and press relations has already been demanded of O'Connor by Morgenthau. He is also interested in simplifying the federal banking supervision, which is now split between O'Connor, the reserve board, and the FDIC.

FEDERAL CIGARET TAX SETS RECORD; OVER 100 MILLION IN 3 MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Internal revenue receipts from cigarets reached an all-time high of $100,378,994 for the three months ending Sept. 30. At the same time, treasury figures on collection from several other tobacco sources showed declines indicative of changing habits.

Small cigarets—the ordinary size—produced the great bulk of tobacco revenue. They brought in $9,648,776 more during the quarter than in the same period of 1933, and $25,000,000 more than in 1932. The largest third quarter prior to this fiscal year was in 1930, when nearly $98,000,000 was collected.

While cigaret collections have steadily moved upward year after year, tax revenues from cigars have shrunk heavily. The government's income from the latter source during the quarter was $2,961,634, a decline of $221,179 from the 1933 period.

Revenues from snuff, which in the 1933 quarter were $1,657,743, dwindled to $1,550,022 this year. Receipts from chewing and smoking tobacco dropped $609,260 to $14,696,766.

BANKERS OFFER ANY 'SOUND AID' TO ROOSEVELT

Tell of Co-operation at A. B. A. Parley.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—The present management of the American Bankers' association at the first general session of the annual convention today did its bit toward nursing along the new and much talked about rapprochement between bankers and the New Deal.

In his annual address President Francis Marion Law of Houston recounted in detail and with much satisfaction the different projects on which the American Bankers' association has coöperated with the Roosevelt administration.

Later, at a press conference, Law asserted in his opinion the banks of the nation would "coöperate wholeheartedly in any program of recovery that does no violence to sound banking and does not jeopardize the interests of their depositors."

Dodges Question.

Asked whether the loading up of the banks with additional government bonds to absorb the federal deficit would fall within this definition of a recovery program in which the banks would "wholeheartedly coöperate," Law replied:

"I consider the securities of the United States government the soundest investment on earth."

"Unanimous assent is accorded to the sentiments recently expressed by Donald R. Richberg, chairman of the National Emergency council, who said: 'It is desirable and necessary to balance the federal budget at the earliest possible moment.' But he goes on to say that immediate achievement of this goal cannot be hoped for in the face of the country's enormous relief needs."

Assurances Lacking.

This expression of opinion by the head of the A. B. A. was interpreted by his listeners to mean that the group at present in control of the association were taking the much rumored "better feeling toward bankers" on the part of the Democratic administration so seriously that they were willing to urge the membership to go along buying government bonds without any definite assurance from the New Dealers concerning the federal deficit other than Richberg's statement that balancing the budget is "desirable and necessary" when, as, and if the emergency ends.

Whether the heroic attempt by the present A. B. A. managers to satisfy the 4,000 delegates as well as the New Dealers will succeed will depend upon the action taken by the resolutions committee. This platform building group contains in its membership bankers of widely divergent economic views. Even the federal advisory council, the banking group that recently openly attacked the unbalanced budget and the unstabilized dollar, is represented.

INDUSTRIALISTS RALLY TO AID OF WEIRTON STEEL

Tell of Company Union Efficiency.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Four nationally known industrialists, heading companies which bargain with 150,000 workers through company unions, testified today in behalf of the Weirton Steel company's contention that its employé representation plan is free of interference.

They were called by the Weirton company in its defense in the government's suit, which charges that interference exists and asks an injunction preventing the company from interfering in its employés' choice of collective bargaining representatives.

The witnesses, all presidents of their respective organizations, were Eugene Grace of the Bethlehem Steel company, Walter C. Teagle of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Charles R. Hook of the American Rolling Mills company, and William W. Holloway of the Wheeling Steel corporation.

Each Familiar with Plan.

Employé representation plans, after which the Weirton plan is patterned, have been in existence for many years at operations of the four companies. Each of the witnesses testified to the good character of the plan, its efficacy and adequacy as a means of collective bargaining within the provisions of section 7-A of the NRA.

Teagle testified he was at a labor board session that approved regulations governing the election of bargaining representatives by Weirton Steel company employés and that the regulations provided for the election of forty-nine representatives. Federal Judge John P. Nields, presiding at the hearings, asked him what his explanation for the transmission to Weirton officials of regulations providing for 98 representatives.

"I have no explanation," he replied. "I don't know why it was done."

Court Overrules Objection.

Frank K. Nebeker, chief of government counsel, entered a blanket objection to the question put by defense counsel to the four witnesses: "Do you consider the employé representation plan an effective means of collective bargaining?"

Nebeker held such testimony is irrelevant and immaterial to the issue. He was overruled, and each of the four replied affirmatively to the question.

Grace said that since the existence of the plan at Bethlehem company plants labor difficulties have been "practically none." Hook testified that since the introduction of the plan the American Rolling Mills company plants "never lost an hour's work or a ton of production" through difficulties between employés and management. He told the court that the Amalgamated union tried to effect a strike at the company's mills in September, 1929, and that only 21 out of about 1,100 employés failed to report for work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 23.—A generally higher level was maintained for bonds on the stock exchange today. Business, however, was held to a subnormal scale, the day's volume being $10,884,000.

Direct obligations of the treasury held in a narrow zone, but the bulk of the list closed moderately higher. Floating of an additional $50,000,000 of 3% Home Owners Loan bonds tended to unsettle the market not only for these issues but for the Federal Farm Mortgage loans.

HOLC 3s Sell Lower.

Most of yesterday's sales of the new bonds were made at 98, but this was lowered at 97 30-32ds in late trading. Today the price quoted by dealers offering the new bonds was reduced to 97 27-32ds by the beginning of the fifth hour, but subsequently rose to close at 97.28.

Gilt-edged railroad and utility bonds continued to move up toward their highs for the year. A scattered few actually bettered their old highs. Fractionally higher prices were paid for American Telephone debenture 5s and sinking fund 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Burlington refunding 5s and general 4s, Consolidated Gas 5½s, Detroit 5s of 1955, Long Island unified 4s, Louisville and Nashville unified 4s, Pennsylvania general 4½s and 5s, and Union Pacific 4½s and first 4s.

Lower Grades Strong.

Gains of a point were numerous among second grade and speculative issues, including Albany Paper 6s, Colorado & Southern general 4s, International Paper 6s, Gotham Silk 6s, Rio Grande Western first 4s, New Haven 3½s, and New York Railways 6s.

Foreign bonds were quiet and steady. Cuban 4½s advanced to a new high in a few trades. Austrian 7s of 1957 were up sharply.

Quebec Seeks to Halt Sale of Paper to U.S. Under Cost

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 23.—The government of Quebec, if necessary, will ask the Ottawa government to prohibit the export of Canadian paper sold under cost price to American publishers, Premier Taschereau stated here today, replying to a protest of American newsprint men against interference with Quebec newsprint contracts.

San Francisco Bay Toll Bridge.

Investors' Guide: Can you furnish me with information on San Francisco Bay Toll Bridge 7s, due 1942?—F. H. S.

Answer: This company operates a 7 mile bridge at San Mateo, Cal., about 14 miles south of San Francisco. It was opened for trafic in March, 1929. Although in 1931 the company covered first mortgage bond interest 1.29 times, it has never been able to cover fixed charges in full.

The debentures were placed on an income basis by consent of the holders in November, 1931, and sinking fund payments on the first mortgage bonds were waived until Feb. 1, 1935, by holders of the secured bonds. The company has asked them to waive sinking fund requirements until February, 1938.

This has given substantial relief to the company but not enough to prevent an unbalanced current position. On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets, including cash of $23,000, were only $28,000 while current liabilities, including $111,000 notes payable, aggregated $171,000.

Profit and loss deficit of $1,288,000 was about 150 per cent of stock equity of $872,000.

In 1933 the company earned only 44 per cent of first mortgage bond interest requirements, against a 66 per cent coverage in 1932 and a 129 per cent coverage in 1931.

Although the $75,000,000 bridge, scheduled to be completed in 1937, connecting San Francisco and Oakland, will be 18 miles away, it should draw some trafic from the San Mateo bridge.

The $4,303,000 first 6½s, due 1957, are speculative. The $2,000,000 7 per cent debentures are highly speculative.

Voting Trust Certificates.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on the value of voting trust certificates. I have four such certificates given me by the "protective committee" for Straus Brothers in exchange for defaulted bonds. No interest is paid on these certificates nor is any promised. Please advise me. It seems to me that they—the v. t. c.—are the "bunk."—Miss H. J.

Answer: Voting trust certificates are merely receipts for common stock which is held in trust for the benefit of the holders of the certificates.

Consequently, without knowing the name of the corporation that issued the stock, we cannot give you any information on the specific certificates which you hold.

If you will furnish us with the name of the bond for which the certificates you hold were issued we shall be glad to get in touch with the protective committee and obtain for you the information which you are seeking.

BANKERS OFFER ANY 'SOUND AID' TO ROOSEVELT

President Law pointed to the 308 million dollar expansion in bank loans in 91 principal cities during the thirteen weeks between mid-July and early October as evidence of a turn for the better in business.

Believes Business Is Better.

"The oft repeated statement that business in America is better today than business sentiment is probably true," he said.

Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, was applauded when he proposed legislation providing that deposit insurance should not be extended beyond $5,000.

He also proposed a law to enable the FDIC to buy assets from banks in difficulty in order to facilitate mergers and another to give the FDIC greater power to make its own rules and regulations. As a further step he suggested limiting to a definite premium the amount that any member bank could be assessed. At present, banks must assume unlimited liability.

Urges Fixed Capital Ratio.

Crowley said a member bank's capital should be at least equal to one-tenth its deposits. He suggested legislation forcing banks to increase their capital as their deposits increase. If private capital were not forthcoming preferred stock or capital notes could be sold to the RFC.

Already, he said, 24 per cent of the capital of all insured commercial banks in the country is owned by the RFC.

At the White House today is was learned that President Roosevelt had not yet written the address which he is to give tomorrow night before the bankers' convention. Secretary of Commerce Daniel O. Roper brought the President some late statistics on business for incorporation in his speech.

Asked by a White House correspondent whether he thought the President would "give the bankers hell," Secretary Roper replied laughingly, "I don't think he'll go beyond purgatory."

N.Y. ECONOMIC COUNCIL ACCUSES ROOSEVELT OF AIDING RADICALS

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The weekly letter of the New York state economic council, issued today, accuses President Roosevelt of "lending aid and comfort to radical groups which would destroy banking and all private business."

It quotes from his talk of Sept. 30, in which he said: "And let it be recorded, my friends, that the British bankers helped their government," referring to bond conversion in Britain. The letter says that British banks hold 14 per cent of the government's securities, and American banks 60 per cent. Then it says:

"Attempt is being made to discredit all business men—all of that vast group of individuals who constitute the business leadership of the country. Granted here and there bankers and others have been false to their trusts. But the percentage is small. And men prove false in all walks of life; in law, medicine, philanthropy—even in the Christian ministry itself.

"Granted, too, that unsound, even wrongful practices had crept into various kinds of business activity, including banking. But so they have before, and they have been righted. So they will again—and they will again be righted.

"The faithless men have been or should be, punished. The discovery that certain practices are bad shows we are learning, growing, advancing. It is no reason why the institution—the system—should be scrapped. As soon would we undertake to reconstruct a ship in a storm at sea because we found it needed minor repairs. No reason to condemn a whole class of business men because a few have gone wrong."

Moffett to Start Model Project.

BY AL CHASE.

Federal housing administration activities will be centered on "Home Modernization Day" at A Century of Progress beginning at 9 o'clock this morning when James A. Moffett of Washington, head of the FHA, will drive the first nail in a repair stunt to show what can be done to reclaim a run down home.

Later in the morning Moffett will hold a conference with the women's division, FHA better housing program, headed by Miss Amelia Sears, at the Blackstone hotel. Chicago women will outline plans for their participation in the modernization program now being conducted by a committee of citizens headed by Howard J. White, architect.

Speak Before Trade Group.

Following his conference with the women, Moffett and his associate Albert L. Deane and W. D. Flanders, chief field director for the FHA, will be speakers at a luncheon at the Stevens hotel given by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

At 3 o'clock Moffett will lead a party of Chicagoans through the World's Fair house, which it is expected will be completely modernized by that time. Accompanying him will be Rufus Dawes, president of A Century of Progress; Percy Wilson, regional director for FHA; Carroll H. Sudler, district director for FHA, and John R. Fugard, president of the Metropolitan Housing council, sponsor of the modernizing stunt.

Special guests at the dinner will be the president, Hugh Potter of Texas, and the executive committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, who are meeting in Chicago today and tomorrow.

Among prominent FHA executives who will be present are: Judge L. W. Wood of Louisville, Ky., state director; C. E. Hamilton of Springfield, director for southern Illinois, and Robert Jamison of Birmingham, Ala., director for the state of Alabama.

DOLLAR LOSES AGAINST POUND, GAINS ON FRANC

Formation of Syndicate Is Described Here.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Charges that the railroads are trying to capture control of the trucking industry through formation of a huge syndicate in which stock would be exchanged for stock of trucking companies, was made yesterday by Judson C. Welliver, Philadelphia, connected with the Sun Oil company. Welliver made this statement before the American Trucking association in annual convention at the Stevens hotel.

Saying the syndicate was being organized by railroads and their bankers, the speaker said the rail carriers had as their goal the making of the trucking industry a subsidiary of their own operations.

Tells of Handicaps.

Welliver, who was on the White House secretarial staff during the Harding and Coolidge administrations, asserted that no other form of transportation has had to fight so hard for its life as the trucking industry. Despite this it has become one of the giants of American business, he added.

As an example of how the use of highways for transportation is gaining in other parts of the world, he said the Dominion of South Africa has made it a part of its policy to spend as little as possible on railroad improvements, concentrating on the highways.

"The railroads in this country will continue to attack highway transportation," the speaker continued, "but they will not succeed in their efforts because it is impossible to imagine that society will permit any situation which will lessen the value of this form of movement. The highways have a flexibility that the railroads can never have."

Code Opposed in West.

Discussion of the code and federal regulations is expected to take place today at the meeting which is attended by more than 1,000 representatives of the trucking industry.

Ralph J. Staehli, Portland, Ore., who represents Oregon trucking interests, stated yesterday that there is considerable dissatisfaction with the operation of the code in the west. He explained that the code is based upon a "cost formula" which is impracticable and which cannot be enforced. He asserted that he expects the issue will be raised at today's meeting.

He also said that differences exist between eastern and western truck operators regarding control, with the western groups favoring federal regulation. Mr. Staehli said the eastern operators still feel they can work out their own salvation under the code.

REPORT EVIDENCE READY IN HOUDE LABOR RULE CASE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—What was understood to be the "missing evidence" necessary for court action in the celebrated Houde majority rule case was received today by the justice department. In light of more than a half dozen affidavits purporting to show that the Buffalo, N. Y., auto parts firm violated a labor relations board decision, the department will decide whether to seek a court order to compel the company to recognize the United Automobile Workers as representative of all its employés.

Charlton Ogburn, union counsel, filed the affidavits late today. Signed by members of the local union committee, they stated that the company on Oct. 9 refused to recognize the U. A. W. committee as representative of all its workers.

The labor board previously had found that the company was violating section 7-A of the recovery act in denying "majority rule" in representation after the auto workers won a plant election on collective bargaining from the Houde Welfare and Athletic association. The latter organization was found by the board to have the company's "moral blessing."

MIDDLE WEST'S REORGANIZATION HEARING DEC. 15

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson took time out yesterday between sessions of the lengthy Insull trial to set Dec. 15 as the date for hearing argument on the proposed plan of reorganization of Middle West Utilities company.

The impending clash of attorneys was foreshadowed by the jocking yesterday between Herbert A. Friedlich, banking creditors' attorney, and Orville J. Taylor, attorney for a common stock committee. Taylor sought to have the way left open for decision of the company's solvency as of the time the first bankruptcy petition was filed and receivers appointed—April, 1932.

Friedlich voiced his opposition to this, preferring to try the issue as of the filing of the petition for reorganization under Section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law. Judge Wilkerson held that this was a matter of law to be decided when hearings begin.

Success of the plan hinges on proof by the creditors that the former Insull holding company giant is insolvent, so that reorganization may proceed without the necessity of approval by stockholders.

MUST BUY MORE ABROAD TO SELL COTTON: WALLACE

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace asserted today that America must look to "increased purchasing power" rather than to lowered prices on cotton if it is to maintain markets abroad for its usual annual export of 8,000,000 bales.

"The rise of American cotton prices under the Agricultural Adjustment act," Wallace told the Associated Press, "is not the circumstance which has brought about the reduction of American cotton exports in recent months. The really important cause of this reduction is the inability of some nations to obtain dollar exchange. The only way other nations can get dollars with which to buy cotton is to sell goods or services to us.

Urges Increased Imports.

"An increase in foreign purchasing power and in foreign ability to buy American cotton can be brought about if this country permits increased exchange of imports for our dollars. Otherwise we may temporarily — or permanently—lose a part of our cotton outlet, which has meant so much to the country as a whole."

The secretary and other AAA officials are now studying the voluntary cotton program for 1935. The immediate problem is how many acres should be planted next year. From a normal acreage of 41,000,000, the land planted to cotton this year was reduced to 27,000,000. This figure, however, will be raised for 1935.

No Decision on Acreage.

"We have come to no decision," the secretary said. "I hope, however, that it is realized that we are unable to attain that much desired goal—maximum production and a higher price per pound. A high price means curtailment. Increased production means a lowered price. Naturally, the policy desired is one that will yield the maximum income to southern growers.

"The time has come for the south to decide what it wishes to do and in my opinion to insist that goods and services be imported to the United Sates so that countries which want American cotton are able to pay for it," he added. "The foreign market for American cotton depends to a greater degree than before in history upon the revival of international trade."

NEW CROP PIGS BRING DECLINE IN HOG PRICES

Hog prices declined 15 to 25 cents here yesterday as the flood of light and underweight pigs continued to enter the market. At the close of trading more than 5,000 head of lightweights remained unsold.

Many had anticipated the liquidation because of the feed situation and farmers have been crowding their hogs on full feed the last few weeks to get ahead of the rush and escape the ensuing severe price cuts. Top prime medium and heavy butchers brought a price of $8.25 including the $2.25 processing tax. Average droves cost $7.70, a drop of 5 cents from Monday's price level.

Cattle dipped 15 to 25 cents because of a stagnant situation in the dressed beef trade. The extreme top was $9.25 while the bulk of beef steers sold from $5.50 to $9. Lambs moved slightly higher with best prices rising 10 cents to $6.85, the highest since Oct. 12. Packers bought readily at $6.75.

[The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The government has bought almost one-sixth of all the cattle in the 24 drouth states. AAA sources disclosed the result of the cattle purchasing campaign today.

More than 7,000,000 have been bought, out of a total of 45,598,050 in the 24 states. The government has paid $90,379,155 out of $101,217,500 appropriated for the purpose. The average price was about $13.

Of the purchases about 1,100,000 were destroyed on the farm as unfit for food. Huge inroads on the cattle herd of several states were noted in the official tabulation.

Texas leads in cattle purchased. There the government has bought 1,388,702 of the estimated 6,602,702 in the state, paying an average of $12.06 per head or a total outlay of $16,744,969. Other purchases in the major cattle states and middle west giving the number of cattle bought, the amounts paid, and balances remaining as of Oct. 15 were:

Illinois, 2,534 for $41,763, $1,237; Iowa, 18,656 for $265,885, $115; Kansas, 458,169 for $6,487,673, $605,727; Minnesota, 234,610 for $3,427,652, nothing; Missouri, 433,836 for $6,185,634, $1,089,966; Montana, 318,033 for $4,667,770, $223,230; Nebraska, 399,464 for $5,265,335, $843,665; New Mexico, 395,463 for $5,167,515, $1,334,485; North Dakota, 943,020 for $13,161,730, nothing; Oklahoma, 416,702 for $4,815,825, $246,775; South Dakota, 844,702 for $12,112,182, $355,218; Wisconsin, 53,971 for $806,381, $41,619; Wyoming, 234,344 for $3,410,643 $933,357.

DENIES NEW PLAN FOR WILSON & CO. IS NEARLY READY

Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of Wilson & Co., third largest meat packers in the country, yesterday spiked for the time being persistent rumors of an early announcement for a recapitalization plan or some other program to wipe out dividend arrears.

"We are nowhere near a program of that sort," asserted Mr. Wilson. Arrears on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock total $26.25 a share. Payments on accumulations have been made this year, but no steps made to reduce the amount.

LOWER EARNINGS FOR BETHLEHEM STEEL FORECAST

Early estimates of Bethlehem Steel's report, which will be made public at the directors' meeting tomorrow, forecast an operating profit, but with total income substantially below the $8,738,463 reported for the preceding quarter. Like other steel companies, Bethlehem suffered a sharp contraction of operations in recent months.

Analysts figure that the corporation will show a net loss for the quarter after deduction of interest, depreciation and depletion. For the nine months of this year, however, a small net profit was said to be likely.

GERMAN DUTY REDUCTION SCARCELY AFFECTS LARD

Lard was little affected by the reported reduction of 60 per cent in the German import duty. According to private cables the reduction only applies to countries with which Germany has a favorable trade balance, a condition which does not exist as far as the United States is concerned.

Cash interests were buyers of lard futures early but the market eased later with hogs and corn and closed 5 cents lower to 2½ cents higher. Bellies were unchanged. Cash, loose and leaf lard were quoted at 9½ cents and bellies at 13¾ cents per pound. Prices follow:

Note—Above prices include processing tax of 2.47c per pound on lard and 2.62c per pound on bellies levied on product made since March 1. Tax is rebated on product export, but varies according to the amounts, due to the fact the tax was gradually advanced to present level.
